4-H Swine Club Notes Successes

BY LOU ANN GOOD

MOUNT JOY (Lancaster) — Although the 4—H swine club held their first banquet on Wednesday night, they are not novices when it comes to competition. Members include some of the county's top swine producers who consistently earn top placings in swine competition. Until the county club was organized in April, the 4-H swine projects were carried out independently.

Chester Hughes, extension livestock agent, said it's been his desire for many years to have a swine appreciation banquet since the county has such a successful swine industry.

Young and old were recognized at the banquet for numerous achievements. Eight-year-old Derrick Frank, Rheems, launched his swine project this year and ended with the title of "Rookie of the Year" for his hog that claimed the grand championship at the 4-H Fair in August. Derrick is son of Charlene Frank.

"Without dedicated 4-H leaders, the club would not be successful,"

PA Grange Master Announces Convention

BY PAT PURCELL

HARRISBURG (Dauphin) — "This was a time when cows produced 3,000 to 4,000 pounds of milk per year, when 125 bushels of potatoes per acre was good production, when wheat, cut, shocked, and threshed by hand was produced at the rate of 12 bushels to the acre and sold for 60 cents a bushel, when 28 bushels-to-the-acre corn sold for 35 cents," from History Of The Grange by Charles Wismer.

This was 1867. This was the background against which the Grange was launched as a vehicle for defining and meeting individual and group economic and social needs and aspirations.

Against the difficulties of life in these times were the advantages of a strong family life -- husband, wife, and children working together for common purposes -- and the Grange had the wisdom to reflect and enhance these ties as a family fraternity.

1867 in rural America was a time of great isolation, tremendous distances, and slow and tortuous

HARRISBURG (Dauphin) — Pennsylvania State Grange Master William H. Ringler announced plans for the 116th Annual State Grange Convention at at a press conference held Monday at the Marriott in Harrisburg. The three-day convention to be held October 23 through 27 will be hosted at the George Washington Motor Lodge near Allentown on route 22 in Lehigh County. Some activities will be scheduled at nearby Days Inn & Conference, also located on route 22.

On Tuesday Pennsylvania's Secretary of Agriculture Boyd Wolff will speak to Grange members at a 2 p.m. meeting. Featured speaker of the convention will be Governor Robert Casey of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania who will address members at Tuesday evening's banquet.

Ringler, state Grange Master has recently assumed his leadership duties following the tenure of Charles E. Wismer who served ten years at Master of Pa. Grange. Ringler comes from Berlin in Somerset County where he has farmed for 47 years. The 180-acre W-J Farm, owned and operated by Ringler and his son James, supports dairy and beef cattle and among forage crops also produces potatoes.

Road Through Heartland Dropped

LANCASTER—Because of public outcry from around the world, what started out as one proposed highway project through Lancaster County has now become two separate projects. That's what John Rautzahn, PennDot project development engineer, told the Routes 23/30 Task Force meeting in Lancaster Chamber offices Thursday evening.

Two years ago when PennDot got started on the feasibility study to find one corridor through the county that would serve the needs of both routes 23 and 30 they developed seven alternates. Some of these proposed routes were to the north following an earlier feasibility study and some to the south along historical corridors. They also adopted a modified version of the alignment that was proposed by the county ag board. Many of these proposed corridors crisscrossed over route 772 between Leola and Intercourse.

When PennDot held their first public meeting on these porposals only about 100 persons attended. But at the second public hearing held at Pequea Valley High School after extensive media coverage including a lead headline in this publication that warned farmers a

Berks Mayor And Tree Farmer Swap Jobs

BY LOU ANN GOOD

SINKING SPRING (Berks) — Dressed in work clothes, Berks County Mayor Warren Haggerty looked right at home while working on the Tom DeLong Christmas Tree Farm. But when he took his turn at operating the tree baler, he was all thumbs.

"You watch while I do one; then we'll let you fix it," Tom DeLong told the mayor.

On October 14 and on the 19th, DeLong, a Christmas Tree farmer, and the mayor swapped chores. They did it as part of the Farm-Business Person Exchange, sponsored by the Berks County extension service in an effort to encourage public relations and better understand each others' responsibilities.

DeLong, his skin weathered by the sun and seasonal winds, nimbly manipulated a heavy sprayer on his back while he explained how to detect and spray diseased trees on his 50-acre Christmas tree farm, Sinking Springs. As he fingered the needles of a Fraser fir tree, he remarked, "It's a beauty." But the casual observer will never know the hours put into producing this beauty unless he has worked the land.

DeLong explained how his father had laid out 4x4-feet plantings over 35 acres to produce maximum growth. Thirty years ago DeLong purchased the property from his father. Today two-year-old seedlings are purchased from northern stock, planted in the transplant bed for two years before permanent planting.

Deterrents to the seedlings

Participants in the Berks County Farm-Business Exchange, Thomas DeLong and Mayor Warren Haggerty, swapped jobs. Although both enjoyed the switch, DeLong summed up the exchange by saying, "I'm thankful he's doing his job and I'm doing mine."

USDA Audit Criticizes Spending Of Check-Off Funds

BY KARL BERGER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Dairy farmers' money isn't being spent as wisely as it could be to promote milk, if you accept the conclusions drawn by auditors for the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Office of Inspector General.

In a recent report that has been circulated widely in the industry and the press -- although it's never been officially released -- the OIG auditors detailed a variety of "administrative and management weaknesses that require corrective action" by some of the groups that spend funds from the mandatory, nationwide 15-cent a hundredweight promotion check-off.

The auditors also criticized "duplication of efforts" in advertising dairy products by the industry's two national organizations, the National Dairy Board and the United Dairy Industry Association.

Industry insiders agree the latter situation needs improvement. Merger discussions have occupied Dairy Board and UDIA representatives for the past two years, to date, without success. However, local promotion organization officials appear unconcerned about the former charges, saying they're more the result of differences in accounting procedures than misuse of funds.

The 38-page report focuses on the spending of check-off dollars by the many state and regional promotion and education dairy units across the country -- the so-called "qualified programs" --

FUTURES MARKET TRENDS GRAIN AND LIVESTOCK

This market information provided by ACRES. ACRES is a copyrighted market information service developed by the American Farm Bureau and available to Pennsylvania farmers on a daily basis through Pennsylvania Farmers' Association Farm Management Services. For additional market comments and trading service contact PFA Commodity Futures Service. (717) 761-2740

ACRES CORN UPDATE: Corn futures closed lower on lower cash prices and slack export news. Present flow of corn from the CCC and a trickle from producers is keeping ample supplies in the pipeline given present demand. Commercials were net buyers and spreading active. Wheat and beans were supportive for corn near the close.

ACRES SOYBEAN UPDATE: Soybean futures closed slightly higher with deferreds gaining on the nearbys. November lost ground relative to deferreds on fears of large deliveries. Support for beans at the close reflected rumors of USSR interest in South American soy products. Commercial buying also supported prices as did recent price action suggesting a bottom. Meal closed mixed amid a late rally.

ACRES WHEAT UPDATE: Wheat futures higher today and near session highs on news of additional export bonus bids from China and Egypt. Bids were for nearterm shipment which boosted the December and March contracts. Commercials today's trading on overnight export bonus activity.

ACRES CATTLE UPDATE: Live cattle futures closed higher today in light trading. Today's feature was short-covering as yesterday's sharp losses were thought to be overdone. Cash trade today was mostly steady also supporting futures. Some positioning prior to Friday's Cattle on Feed report was noted. Feeder cattle futures also closed higher boosted by an increase of the latest cash index price. Advances were limited by ideas cash prices would weaken nearterm.

CME FEEDER CATTLE SETTLEMENT PRICE: 10/14/88-$81.70 dn $ .12.

ACRES NEXT DAY OUTLOOK: cash - steady to weak futures-steady to lower.

National Egg Market

NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE:

Prices were unchanged to higher on mediums in the Mid-Atlantic region, unchanged on the balance. The market tone was steady in all areas with some strength noted in the South and upper Midwest. Demand was mostly moderate to good where features were active. Inter-dealer interest for mediums increased as supplies tightened. Supplies of the large sizes were adequate to occasionally ample. Breakers provided a mixed demand for the available supplies of shell eggs, and some sellers held eggs with a bit more confidence.

Delmarva Broiler Fryer Market

Thursday, October 20, 1988

Demand for ready-to-cook whole birds was fair to occasionally fairly good. Supplies were fully adequate overall, longest on 3 lb. and over sizes. In the parts complex all items were adequate to mostly fully adequate. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 53 to 59 cents. Live supplies were moderate. Weights were desirable to heavy. Slaughter schedules were moderately heavy. The undertone was steady at best.

FEDERAL-STATE OPENING, MID-SESSION AND CLOSE CATTLE: 50 NOT ENOUGH SALES OF ANY CLASS FOR A MARKET TEST BULK OF RECEIPTS STEERS FOR COMMODITY DELIVERY.

Take Your Seat, The Performance Is About To Begin.

You'll applaud the performance of Funk's G-Hybrids like G-4543, G-4626 and G-4446 when the curtain falls at harvest time.

A top choice for shelled grain or ear corn in 110 to 120-day maturity areas, G-4543 produces maximum yields even at lower populations. In Delaware hybrid field corn trials, it topped the field with 148.4 bu./A.

G-4626 has it all in a 115 to 120-day maturity hybrid—fast dry-down, outstanding stay-green, superior standability, excellent plant health and exceptional yields. In Delaware trials, G-4626 produced yields up to 200.9 bu./A.

G-4446 delivers superior late season standability, excellent grain quality and high test weights. A multi-purpose, widely adapted hybrid, G-4446 produced a state record 252.4 bu./A. in the 1986 Pa. Five-Acre Corn Club competition.

Get your ticket to superior performance by contacting your local Hoffman sales representative or our Landisville office. Call toll free 1-800-233-0137. In PA: 1-800-732-0456.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

OCT. 31-NOV. 6, 1988

Roll up your sleeves and rake up the leaves.

Halloween Oct. 31 (Mon.) . . Martin Luther nailed his 95 theses to the door of Wittenberg's castle church, instigating the Protestant Reformation Oct. 31, 1517 National Weather Service founded Nov 1, 1870 . . Last quarter of the moon Nov 1 (Tues) . Average length of days for the week 10 hours, 15 minutes English archeologist Howard Carter discovered the tomb of King Tutankhamen at Luxor, Egypt, Nov 4, 1922 The school of life is a compulsory education

Ask the Old Farmer: We are having trouble with all kinds of birds pecking holes in the eaves and wood shingles on our Block Island house Native islanders tell us that hanging rubber owls from the eaves does not keep the birds away Do you have any suggestions? B W New Canaan Conn The owls don't work because the birds get used to seeing them in the same position all the time Get some toy snakes and fasten them around where the birds are bothering you Have them so that they move around in the breeze

Home Hints: If you break the end of a bone knitting needle you can sharpen it again in a pencil sharpener

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

New England: Beginning of week freezing rain and snow, midweek clear with cold nights, end of week showers

Greater New York-New Jersey: Clear and mild through midweek seasonable temperatures at week's end

Middle Atlantic Coastal: Rainy and cool at beginning of week, midweek unseasonably warm with increasing clouds; end of week snowstorm, cold temperatures

Piedmont & Southeast Coastal: Week begins clear and warm, sunny and unseasonably warm mid through end of week

OPINION

Good Neighbors About Manure

A generation ago, manure was considered a very valuable commodity. One farm family in the '40's and '50's valued manure to the extent that they considered the fertilizer value worth the year's input into a stable of steers even if no profit was made on the beef market.

Now in Southeastern Pennsylvania manure is considered a nusiance by many people. Of course, many people who have opinions on manure are not farmers. Urban neighbors who have moved from New York, Baltimore and Philadelphia to live in the peaceful farm communities now find the working farm beside them to be less than a pleasant addition to the environment. And government regulators have moved toward policy that will tell farmers how, where, when and how much they may apply manure on their farms.

With the over population of livestock and poultry on area farms, high levels of nitrates and other contaminates are found in the underground water sources. For example, in Lancaster County, of 539 wells sampled by DER, one-third of these wells exceeded the Enviornmental Protection Agency's safe drinking water standards for nitrates. This all adds impetus to the regulatory instincts of urban neighbors.

The most visable outgrowth of this problem has surfaced in Lancaster County as local governing bodies consider manure ordinances. The county conservation district sent a sample ordinance to 41 township supervisors several months ago. Under this ordinance, farmers would be required to obtain a permit to increase the number of livestock or to change the type of livestock on the operation. The permit could be denied by the township supervisors, if the additional manure could not be disposed of safely on existing land.

The permit would be necessary only to expand or change the farming operation. Seasonal increases would be allowed.

Some farmers think that to help formulate these ordinances is like aiding the enemy. At the Lancaster County Farmers Association annual meeting last week, several members were concerned that to show any support for such ordinances would only open the door to more government control and more "red tape".

But the manure problem will not go away. And the urban neighbors will continue to get closer to the "back forty". The farmer who chooses to continue to farm beside his city-bred neighbors cannot ignore the problem. When it comes to the up and coming manure ordinances the farmer must get involved. First, he must get involved in the formulation of these ordinances so they are written with the practical needs of the farmer built into the document. In addition, the farmer must start immediately to educate his township supervisors and town officials in his area about practical manure application.

And most importantly, the farmer must be responsible on his own farm. As Paul Swartz, director of environmental resources in the State Bureau of Soil and Water Conservation recently told farmers manure discharged on surface water ways is considered sewage. "Farmers have a right to the ground or surface water in the Commonwealth," Swartz said.

"The big problem in Pennsylvania is people," Swartz said. "The way agriculture functions today, does not easily intergrate with people. You can't farm on one side of the road and have the city on the other side. You have to many problems with odors----."

Unlike some experts, we believe urban dwellers and farmers can coexist in this area. But to do so will require each person to develope tollerance for the other's problems. Each must work together to accomodate the other's needs. Farmers must start to appreciate the city neighbors for their contribution to the community--like providing close markets for farm products. And city folks must overlook some of the working farm's nuisances so they can continue to enjoy the open space of the country. This kind of mutual cooperation will keep us going into the twenty-first century and keep us going, even if local manure ordinances are enacted.

To Plan Winter Weed Control In Alfalfa

As the alfalfa plant slows down and prepares to go into dormancy, other plant populations in that same field can be increasing in vigor and growth. These are the winter annual weeds: chickweed, shepherds purse, yellow rocket and some grassy weeds which overwinter. All are in their young state of growth.

"You'll not see crop injury now, but wait until that first cutting comes of next May. These small weeds will grow taller and set seed and that will not only do yield losses occur but field curing problems and lower hay quality results.

Fall applied herbicide(s) will largely eliminate the costly winter weed problem. The Agronomy Guide lists a number of effective materials. Follow label instructions for application rates.

To Check Ventilation Equipment For Winter

Exhaust fans in dairy and poultry houses have a heavy ventilation job to do. They remove moisture and dust, and in many cases run almost continually from October to April.

To make your ventilation system ready for winter, several items may need attention. The fan blades, motor enclosures and louvered shutters need cleaned frequently. Loose belts are common on belt driven fans. Fan output varies directly with fan speed. A 10 percent loss in R.P.M.'s of the fan means a 10 percent loss in air delivery.

Check the thermostat for accuracy by hanging a thermometer beside it for easy comparison. Be sure the sensing element is clean and free from dust.

To Pick and Store Apples

Whether you grow apples or just like to eat them, it's important to store them properly.

Cool apples will keep longer. Ideally, they should be stored at 33° F, at 90 percent humidity, and in dim light or darkness.

Now as to picking, it's a good practice to store the fruit in shade as it is picked, then allow it to stand in the orcahrd overnight to cool. Then, place the apples in storage early in the morning before the temperature rises too much.

If you leave apples in a packing shed or in piles under the tree for one week, you'll shorten their storage life by about five weeks. So, keep apples cool, maintain good air circulation during storage, and your apples should keep a long time.

For Farm Show Entries

January, and Pennsylvania Farm Show time, seems like a long time away. But, really it is not, because now is the time to be making your livestock and dairy entries for the Pennsylvania Farm Show. Just a reminder that November 2 is the deadline for these entries — and that is closer at hand. So, if you are interested in exhibiting at Farm Show, you can obtain entry blanks and a premium book from your County Extension Office. The Farm Show runs from January 8 through 12, 1989.

The Penn State Cooperative Extension is an affirmative action equal opportunity education institution.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

ST. LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

IT'S NOT FAIR!
October 23, 1988

Background Scripture:
Isaiah 52:13 through 53:12.
Devotional Reading:
Isaiah 52:7-15.

Who is "the servant" about whom Isaiah speaks so eloquently? It seems obvious that the prophet regarded Israel as the "Suffering Servant." Israel had indeed suffered, but Isaiah saw this suffering as an opportunity for God to accomplish his purpose in the world. The people who heard Isaiah must have been shocked for this was probably the most astoundingly revolutionary idea they had ever heard. It was contrary to everything held true and sacred by people in that time--not to mention our own.

Christians have always regarded Isaiah's "servant" as a prophecy of Jesus Christ for he perfectly fits the prophet's description. Certainly Jesus himself must have seen himself in this role, finding it a model for his own passion: "He was oppressed, and he was afflicted, yet he opened not his mouth." (53:7a). Even details of his passion are seemingly prefigured: "And they made his grave with the wicked (the thieves crucified with him) and with a rich man (Joseph Arimathea) in his death, although he had done no violence, but there was no deceit in his mouth" (53:9).

WITH HIS STRIPES

Obviously Christian theology has always been greatly influenced by the concept of the "Suffering Servant." The whole concept of atonement is found in Isaiah's declaration that "Surely he has borne our griefs and carried our sorrows;...But he was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities; upon him was the chastisement that made us whole, and with his stripes we are healed" (53:5a).

Some Christians now has no difficulty in recognizing Isaiah as "Salvation event." What Christians have not recognized, however, is that the Suffering Servant is also supposed to be us too. If Jesus was to conduct himself on this revolutionary concept - vicarious suffering--, so, if we are Christians-- "little Christs"-- are we.

In that regard, we find this idea just as shocking as did the people of Isaiah's own time. We see no reason to believe that this is a viable way of life for us. Like the people of Israel, we know that one succeeds through success, not failure. In the words of a famous football coach, we believe that "Winning is not the most important thing; it's the only thing!" Jesus may have "won" doing it the "other way," but it is not anything that would work in the "real world."

SELF-SACRIFICE

In general, then, Christians may salute the suffering servant concept, but there is little inclination to incorporate it into our lives. There are some exceptions, of course. Family members often willingly bear the consequences of the deeds of loved ones. From time to time a person may even be led to sacrifice himself or herself vicariously for another. But, for the most part, we wouldn't want this idea to catch on. Vicarious suffering is not "in"; getting what's coming to us is.

Many of us are obsessed with what is "fair." We assume that life is guaranteed to be fair and we are irate when it doesn't seem to be. Our most common complaint to God is that he fails to maintain "fairness" in the universe. What we forget is that while God is just, life may not be fair.

And, if life isn't fair, then maybe the only way to "win" is the way that Jesus chose. We still haven't given this way a chance.

THESE DOEBLER HYBRIDS ARE READY TO GO TO WORK FOR YOU

By Willard Jones

I'm Willard Jones, Doebler sales manager.

Yes, we still have seed corn to sell. Including most of our top favorites. But let's start off with some hard facts:

1. Midwest seed companies got burned by the searing drought. So seed corn is tight. Everywhere. Many firms are patching up supplies with winter crops in places like Florida, Arizona and Texas.

Doebler lucked out. Seed corn in the field here . . . or already dried and weighed . . . just about equals 110% of last year's sales.

To prevent run on bank, Doebler dealers have been given quotas on all super single cross hybrids. If he has it, you got it.

3. Prices will be higher. Believe it. Most seed companies must charge more just to break even.

Doebler prices are $1 to $1.50 a bushel more than last winter and spring. But we still give cash and volume discounts through Nov. 12.

So savings can be big. You'll pay less than $56 for Doebler 75X, 89XC and other commercial single crosses this fall is you take 10% cash discount and buy 50 bushels or more.

You got the word from Bill Camerer last week on eight new hybrids. Here's the best of the rest:

DOEBLER 89X-C, 120 days. Old reliable popped 184.4 bu. last year at East Earl, PA. Shakes off drought and leaf diseases. Good standup. Deep kernels.

DOEBLER 86X-A, 119 days. Outstanding stalks on this 86X update. Better sheller, too. 196.7 bu. at New Holland last fall, three others in 180s.

DOEBLER 75X-Mod, 113 days. First cousin to the great 75X. Brought out for silage. But heavy sheller, too. Matched 75X bushel for bushel in some plots.

Buying tips for seed corn

Your favorite seed corn could be short. Here are three tips to save you grief in 1989:

Order immediately to lock in prices and favorite numbers. If corn acres expand as expected, all seed companies could come up short.

Have price in writing before making the deal. That guarantees no surprises at delivery. Alternatives then could be limited.

Take advantage of deals this fall. Like cash or volume discounts. Chances of better prices next spring slim.

DOEBLER 75X, 113 days. PA's all-time corn champ keeps making new fans. In 1987, 212 bu. at Lewisburg, PA, 190 bu.-plus on three other farms.

DOEBLER 70X-C, 112 days. Fill silo and pick rest. Large, green plants. Sturdy stalks. Big ears. Coming off great test year. Forget Leaf Blight.

DOEBLER 67X, 108 days. Talk about consistent, 67X averaged 167.3 bu. in 1986 PA Commercial Standard trials, and 162.5 in 1987. Half sister to 65X.

DOEBLER 650-3, 100 days. A modified single cross and another 65X look-alike. Tossup on yield, disease resistance and stalks. But $17 cheaper.

DOEBLER 46X-4, 92 days. Our most popular silage corn in early areas. Large ears. Big TDN maker. Averaged 154.1 bu. in 1987 trials. Plant thick.

FARM BUREAU ACRES

ACRES HOG UPDATE: Live hog futures settled mostly lower and near lows pressured by weakness in pork product prices. Concensus is that large kill levels will continue to keep pressure on prices amid slack retail demand. Futures were supported early by gains in the cattle pits and higher cash hog openings. Pork belly futures also closed lower on lower cash values and weakness in hog futures.

ACRES NEXT DAY OUTLOOK: cash - steady futures - steady to higher.

MoorMan's Beef Cattle Boost Medicated

They re right off the truck, probably off feed and vulnerable to sickness
Getting those calves eating and gaining again is the key to your profitability and maybe their survival A simple economical way to do it is with MoorMan s Adjustment Program
Just add 1 lb per head daily of Beef Cattle Boost* to your own forage and grain Feed it for 28 days after arrival It s highly palatable and easily digested by stressed calves So they eat more feed which helps increase gain and reduce sickness

Beef Cattle Boost contains Aureo S 700* which aids in the maintenance of weight gain in the presence of respiratory disease such as shipping fever
Ask your MoorMan Representative about Beef Cattle Boost It's the easiest way to help your calves survive and thrive

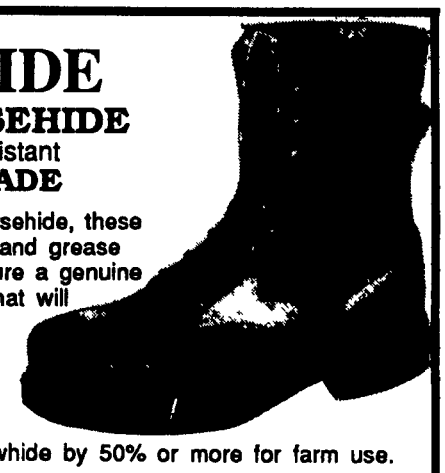
HORSEHIDE
GENUINE HORSEHIDE
Barnyard Acid Resistant
AMERICAN MADE



Made of tough, long wearing horsehide, these shoes stand manure, silage, oil and grease better than cowhide. Shoes feature a genuine Goodyear welt, nitro cork sole that will not track, steel shank, padded collar, cushion insole and arch support. Ideal for barn use. Sizes 7-13 including ½ sizes. 1st quality. Our experience shows that horsehide outlasts good cowhide by 50% or more for farm use.

Biddle And Orndorff Share Belgian Honors

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania again dominated the Belgian Horse Show at the 1988 Keystone Livestock Exposition, which concluded a successful five-day run last week at the State Farm Show Complex.

Lewis & Gail Biddle Family of Boalsburg, CENTRE COUNTY, exhibited the show's grand champion stallion, "Seneca Valley Jeff," who advanced through the two-year-old stallion class. Gary & Ellen Holdsworth of Claysville, WASHINGTON COUNTY, won the reserve grand champion ribbon with "Orndorff's Marcus Royale," best of the four-year-old and older class.

"Orndorff's Highland," after capturing first in the four-year-old and older mare class, won the grand champion mare ribbon for Orndorff Belgians of Waynesburg, GREENE COUNTY. This brother/sister partnership of Corbly Orndorff and Christna Temley also exhibited the reserve grand champion mare, "Orndorff's Supreme D," best of the two-year-olds.

Kathy J. Rider of Warriors Mark, HUNTINGDON COUNTY, had the top gelding.

Cole Wins Right To Drive Governor's Carriage

HARRISBURG — Winning exhibitors from the 1987 Keystone International Livestock Exposition continued their hold for the most part on the hitch horse division at the 32nd annual show.

And if tradition holds, John N. Cole of Centre Hall, CENTRE COUNTY, will again drive the Governor's Carriage at the opening of the 1989 Pennsylvania State Farm Show, which will be held here next January.

Cole apparently won that honor by capturing the six-horse hitch in the KILE competition. His teams have dominated the class in recent years.

In addition, Cole's entries won the four-horse hitch, youth cart and open unicorn classes.

Larry Honsberger and Family of Port Clinton, Ohio, won the awards for junior team, youth showmanship and open team, while Alfred Jr. and Donna Rovenolt of Turbotville, NORTHUMBERLAND COUNTY, showed the best open cart.

Another CENTRE COUNTY exhibitor, Jas. & Dail Corl of State College, won ribbons for the best registered mare cart and best registered mares team.

Here are the results of the Hitch Horse Show:

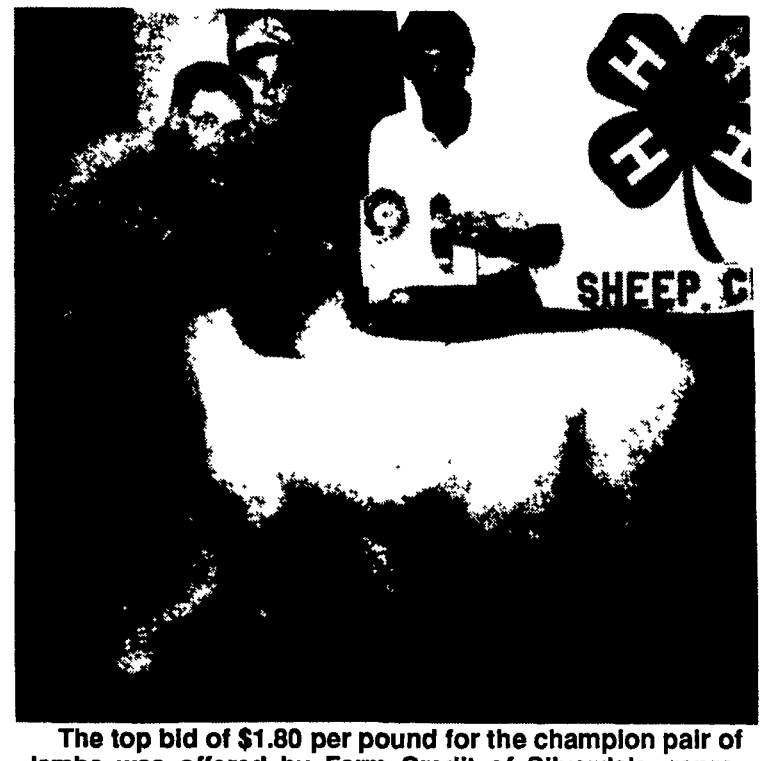
Good Prices For Montgomery 4-H Market Lambs

CREAMERY (Montgomery) — In keeping with its reputation for quality and community support, Clemens Markets, represented by Al Kober of Lansdale, was the buyer of the grand champion animal at the annual Montgomery County 4-H Market Lamb Sale held at the Perkiomenville Sales Auction. Chris Muse of Perkasie received $3.75 per pound for the prize-winning lamb he raised as his 4-H project. The reserve champion lamb was purchased by the Trolley Stop Restaurant in Skippack, represented by Mary Black also of Skippack. The Trolley Stop paid $2.85 per pound for the 100-pound animal which belonged to Rob Nutt of Blue Bell.

Al Kober, right, of Clemens Markets, purchased the grand champion lamb at the Montgomery County 4-H Market Lamb Sale. Kober paid $3.75 per pound for the animal, which was exhibited by Chris Muse of Perkasie.

Dean Shollenberger, representing Farm Credit of Silverdale, outbid all other to buy the champion pair of lambs belonging to Andy Kumpf of Norristown. They paid $1.80 per pound for the animals, which each averaged 145 pounds. The successful buyer of the reserve champion pair was Wayne Marcho of Marcho Veal in Harleysville who paid $1.35 per pound for the projects raised and exhibited by Dan Cochran of Collegeville.

Frank Fillipo of Norristown purchased lambs belonging to Sue Truehart of Norristown and Denise McMahon of Green Lane. Gary Kratz of Kratz's General Store in Creamery, was the buyer of lambs shown by Todd Frankenfield of Royersford, Jim Nutt of Blue Bell, Andy Kumpf of Norristown and Jon Unruh of Harleysville. Clemens Markets also supported several members by purchasing animals exhibited by Sheila Landis of Green Lane and Jon Unruh, Harleysville.



The top bid of $1.80 per pound for the champion pair of lambs was offered by Farm Credit of Silverdale, represented by Dean Shollenberger, right. Andy Kumpf of Norristown, left, raised the animals; lending a helping hand is Joshua Landis.

Marcho Veal again bought another lamb by Shane Frankenfield of Royersford while Black's Livestock of Skippack was the buyer of the lamb shown by Dan Cochran of Collegeville. H & W Auto of Skippack was the successful bidder for the lamb owned by Sean Carnahan of Blue Bell while Hennings Market of Harleysville supported Heather Miller also of Harleysville. John Scholl of Scholl's Trucking in Perkasie bought two lambs belonging to Greg Muse of Perkasie and one from Dave Nutt of Blue Bell. Manieri Meats of Bechtelsville was the proud purchaser of the animal shown by Chris Muse while Royal Crest Meats of Trenton, New Jersey, was the buyer of Johanna Landis's lamb. Johanna is from Green Lane.

CHORE-TIME

hopper-bottom bins for feed storage

Quality Feed Storage Features Help Make Chore-Time Bins A "Best Buy"

- STURDY LADDER SYSTEM (including handrail) is permanently attached to both bin roof and sidewall

- SIDE LADDERS are attached to allow plenty of space between rungs and bin wall for a firm footing
- ALL BIN SEAMS are double caulked with non-hardening sealer for maximum weather protection

- LEG ANCHOR SYSTEM gives greater stability, yet is simple to install

- BIN LID has 24-inch diameter. Is formed from one piece of steel for maximum rigidity and warp-resistance - to keep it weatherproof. Big 22½-inch opening means less feed waste
- FLIP-TOP LID operates from ground so there's no need to climb the bin to open the lid. Lid opens to full vertical position.

- HIGH STRENGTH boron Grade #8 2 bin seal bolts are used on all bins. You get choice of either black polypropylene-coated patented head design bolts which feature a built in weather seal washer, or traditional zinc and yellow di-chromate-coated bin seal bolts.
- BIN LEGS are formed from heavy oil galvanized steel to make a column-like structure with 6 separate bends or "breaks". Formed leg gives superior fit finish and durability over that provided by other types.
- TO HELP YOU get the long life and full depreciation you want from your investment, all metal parts are fully galvanized for maximum rust resistance
- CHORE-TIME OFFERS your choice of 16- or 25-inch diameter hopper openings for greater versatility in application.

* Naturally some features are optional or are available only on certain models. Your Chore-Time distributor can furnish details.

- CHORE-TIME'S FULL ONE-YEAR warranty (we'll provide a copy on request) against any product defect is another valuable feature you get with every Chore-Time bin polyethylene feed bins resist corrosion

Ag Advocates Named At PSU

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. — The College of Agriculture has begun a new program at Penn State. A select group of students has been named the college's first Ag Advocates, Advocates of information about programs and projects in the College of Agriculture at Penn State.

More specifically, the Ag Advocates will assist the college's efforts to enhance the image of agriculture and to recruit highly qualified students. They also will help college alumni and friends stay in touch with College of Agriculture programs and new developments.

Dean of the college Lamartine F. Hood initiated the new program this fall. "I am looking forward to working with this group of bright and enthusiastic students. We will meet regularly and work together to demonstrate the diversity of our college."

Ag Advocates will represent the college at major campus, alumni and agricultural events as representatives of the Dean's Office for the 1988-89 academic year. In addition to on campus activities, they will represent their fellow students at Farm Show in Harrisburg, Jan. 8 to 13.

Applicants were selected on the basis of high academic achievement, interviews and faculty recommendations. The 1988-89 Ag Advocates are:

Sherry Bensinger, daughter of Ronald and Hannah Bensinger of Reading. Sherry is a member of the Penn State Block and Bridle Club and showed at the Little International Livestock Exhibition this spring. As a member of the Pre-Vet Club she helped with the club's annual dog show and other club events. Sherry attended the Berks Campus for her first two years at Penn State where she was treasurer of the Berks Campus Ag Club and a member of the Women's Volleyball Team. Last spring she began working for the growth are many. They need to contend with ice, wind, hail and drought damage. Then there are diseases, rodents, rabbits and deer that cause injuries. Some are accidently mowed down and "sticky fingers" claim others. "We figure we only harvest about 5,000 trees out of 7,500 plantings," DeLong said.

March finds the DeLongs busy with planting. "We use a lot of part-time help to get them in as soon as the weather permits," DeLong explained. The trees are placed alongside of the stump of a tree that has been harvested the season before. "We don't fertilize," he said, "because the roots of the former tree has broken up the ground and provides a nutrient-rich bed for the tree to become established."

During the growing months, a Roof mower, light weight and designed for easy steering between the Christmas tree plantings, is used to keep grass and weeds down. When Mayor Haggerty took the seat, he found that despite the mowers light weight, it took strength to manipulate it. After zooming between trees, the mayor remarked, "I think I could get into this. Mowing may be my forte—until the mower breaks down."

June and July are typically pruning months. As DeLong instructed the mayor in proper pruning methods, Haggerty struggled to follow them. DeLong grabbed the shears and joked, "We can't spend too much time pruning; we pay by the hour." Within seconds, DeLong, who has a doctor of forestry degree, snipped extended branches to produce a perfectly shaped cone. His speed brought gasps of admiration from the mayor.

DeLong brushed aside the compliments by explaining that with practice, speed comes because judging distances between branches comes naturally.

In November, the DeLong farm buzzes with both excitement and chain saws as 5,000 trees are harvested annually for prospective customers. With a three man team, a tree baler can wrap 90 trees each hour—"without coffee breaks," Ann DeLong emphasized.

During the November and December months there aren't many moments for coffee breaks as the DeLongs push to meet the demand by "hiring anyone we can get to help." About 90 percent of the trees are sold wholesale, the remaining retail from their farm.

"Even though it's hectic during that time, it's the time we enjoy the best," DeLongs claim. "It's so exciting to see people thrilled to find "the perfect tree."

DeLong agreed. "We enjoy Christmas longer than the average person. In retail sales, you get to see the customer's reaction—their pleasure in finding just the right tree."

On Wednesday, October 19, DeLong took the mayor's helm by chairing the Berks City Council. While DeLong sat in City Hall with the leaded stained glass windows depicting the city, federal, and state coat of arms in the background, he looked comfortable. Later, he said his impression of City Hall was "bustling." He added, "I'm amazed at their good organization with so much constant activity. I'm more of a recluse since I enjoy working with inanimate objects. Working in City Hall is extremely interesting for one day, but I like the solitude my job offers without the pressure of phone calls and people running in and out.

The mayor agreed. "There's much to be said about the benefits of solitude and woodland."

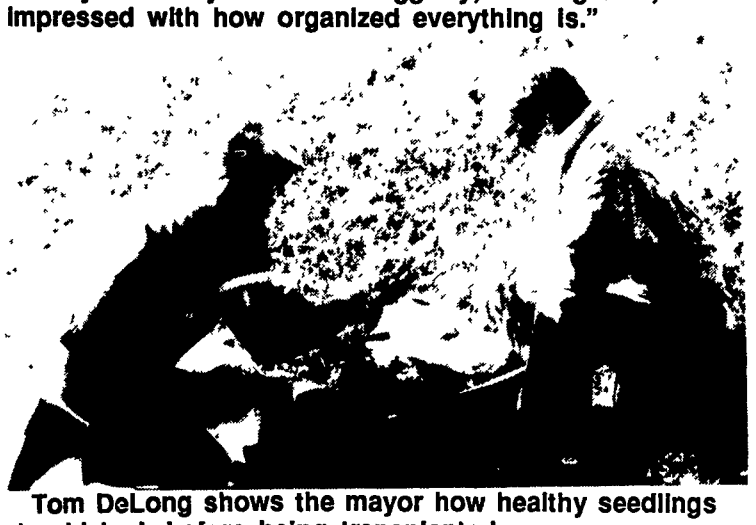
DeLong stressed, "I'm thankful you're doing your job and I'm doing mine. I admire how comfortable you are working with people."

The mayor summed up his reaction to the exchange by saying, "I found the whole thing enjoyable. I'm a city boy, but I love the earth and nature. DeLong has a very scenic property."

Haggerty, DeLong and others who took part in the farm business person exchange, will share their views and slides of the event at the fifth annual Farm-City banquet held at Stokesay Castle, Reading, on November 10. Tickets may be purchased for $12. Make checks payable to Berks County Extension Special Account, Berks County Ag Center, P.O. Box 520, Leesport, PA 19533.

A forester by profession and an employee of the PA Department of Environmental Resources for many years, Thomas DeLong said bureacratic government was not entirely foreign to him. On the day he presided over City County with Mayor Warren Haggerty, DeLong said, "I'm impressed with how organized everything is."

Is this the perfect tree? Anne and Thomas DeLong point out the positive qualities of the tree to Mayor Warren Haggerty, right.



Tom DeLong shows the mayor how healthy seedlings should look before being transplanted.

DK 636 Performance Stands Out In A Crowd.

When the trucks start hauling in the harvest, it's pretty hard to miss who planted DK 636.

It's also hard to miss the fact that in last year's National Corn Growers Association state yield contests, DK 636 finished in the top 3 no less than 24 times.

Your DEKALB-PFIZER dealer or Agway representative can tell you more about the great results you can expect from DK 636. But be sure to see him soon. Because a lot of people are going to notice performance that stands out like this. And you wouldn't want to be left waiting in line.

Road Through Heartland

road was comming their way, 2,000 persons showed up at the meeting.

After this meeting the national and international media reported what these proposed corridors would do to the Amish community and the historic flavor of the area. And letters poured into PennDot from all over the world. Soon Gov. Casey declared they would not build a highway through the Amish heartland. So the one road project to serve both routes became two separate projects. Rautzahn reported on the status of both these projects at the task force meeting.

On the Route 23 project Rautzahn said the proposal will use the infamous goat path and run to a tie-in somewhere in the New Holland area. "We presently are doing some testing and other engineering studies to achieve this goal." Rautzahn said. "We will be presenting our proposals to a public meeting to be held most likely in the spring."

An additional extensive pilot impact study on the area is being conducted with this project. This study will consider the Amish community, the historic resources, the pre-historic resources and the cultural geography of Lancaster County.

ROUTE 30

Because of the separation of the projects, a new study firm has been selected for the route 30 project. According to Rautzahn, this study team will likely introduced public input at a January meeting on any new sensitive areas that may have surfaced. This meeting is planned to be held before any extensive study by the new engineering firm.

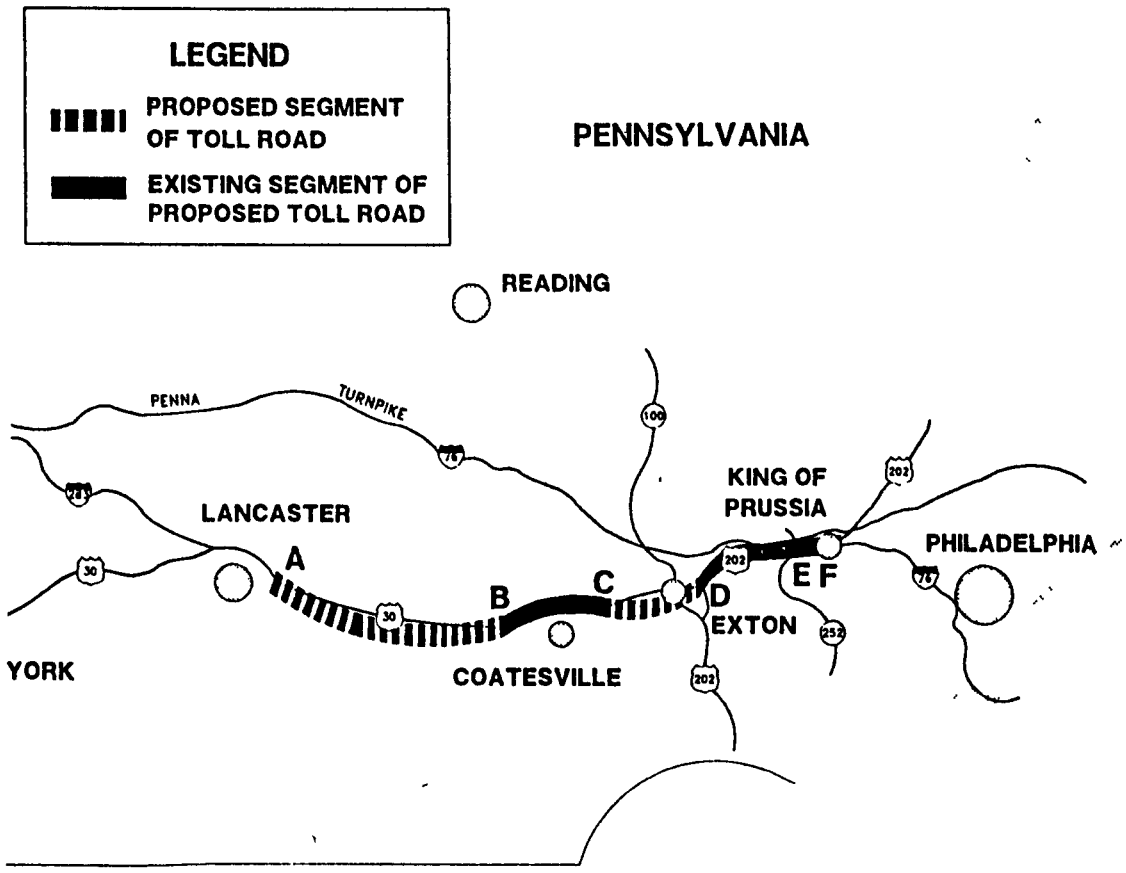
TOLL ROUTE

Another proposed Route 30 idea was also scheduled on the task force meeting agenda. This proposal by Earl Baker, Chester County commissioner, calls for a toll road concept that would list the cooperation of both Chester and Lancaster counties. In this idea the road would be built and then be paid from toll receipts. James Huber, chairman, Lancaster County commissioners, said this concept was grounded in history since the bridge at Columbia that connected York and Lancaster counties in the 1920's was engineered by the joint efforts of the two counties and paid for by tolls.

In a hand-out map at the meeting Baker's idea for the Lan-Chester Toll Road, shows the proposed segment through Lancaster County to be along the present Route 30, connect the Coatesville/ Downington bypass, continue to a proposed Exton Bypass, join the Route 202 expressway north to Route 252 and on to Route 76 and Philadelphia.

This proposal has received favorable response from public officials and several media editorials as a means to finance the project and move it ahead of present proposed completion schedules.

PROPOSED LAN-CHESTER TOLL ROAD



Proposals Sought For DE Ag Research Projects

DOVER, DE — The Delaware Department of Agriculture is inviting companies, associations and individuals throughout the state to submit proposals for agricultural research projects aimed at improving the economic prospects and competitive posture of Delaware's agricultural industry.'

The Delaware Alternative Crop/Marketing Research Program was made possible by a $50,000 allocation from the General Assembly during its 134th session. The idea to fund such research projects came from the Farm Assistance Task Force, a group of ag community representatives formed by a joint resolution of the General Assembly in February of this year to determine several short range projects that would benefit the ag industry.

"The department is delighted to have this opportunity to invest in innovative enterprises that will benefit the agricultural community and ultimately the people of Delaware," said William B. Chandler Jr., Secretary of Agriculture.

Agribusinesses, food and agricultural product processors, nonprofit institutions, commodity associations and individuals are being invited to submit preliminary proposals for projects designed to do one of the following:

1. Discover new or better uses for existing products.
2. Identify alternative food or fiber commodities which have positive market potential for Delaware producers.
3. Reduce production and/or marketing costs.
4. Explore innovations in packaging.

Proposals must be submitted to the Department of Agriculture by Dec. 1, 1988. Semi-finalists will be chosen and notified by Dec. 15. Then they must submit complete proposals by Jan. 9, 1989. Funds must be disbursed before June 30, 1989.

Projects that offer to match state funds with cash or use of land, equipment or personnel will be given extra consideration because the funds are limited to the $50,000. Proposals that include measures to evaluate the project to determine its success also will be given priority.

Secretary Chandler and members of the department's marketing section will select the proposals to be funded.

If you have not received an information packet about the research program but are interested in more information, contact Bill Sammons at the Department of Agriculture, 736-4811 or 1-800-282-8685 (Delaware only).

during the period from May 1985 to May 1987. The National Dairy Board, which spends about $80 million of the $215 million the check-off collects annually, escapes major criticism, aside from the duplication charge. But the Chicago-based UDIA, which functions as an extension of many of the local units, is a major target.

The auditors criticize UDIA's accounting controls on travel expenses, question the amount of money the group pays its farmer-directors and dispute the allocation of administrative and program costs. UDIA has issued a statement that denies these claims or questions their significance.

THE OIG officials say UDIA imposed no restrictions on the amount of money its representatives could claim as expenses for lodging, meals, entertainment and traveling. They also say the promotion group did not adequately review claimed expenses. In one instance cited in the report, no documentation allegedly was provided for $785 in expenses associated with a trip to Las Vegas, Nev.

In its statement, UDIA doesn't address specifically this accusation. But it does claim its accounting procedures are adequate. Stan Lata, a spokesman for the group, said, "Our financial statements are accredited and reviewed by an independent Chicago-based accounting firm."

During the study period, UDIA paid the expenses of its 40 directors -- dairymen who represent the 20 affiliated local units -- plus $85 a day as "per diem" compensation. UDIA chairman Douglas Webb, a Vermont farmer, received $13,500 for 42 days work between April and October 1986, according to the auditors.

By contrast, the directors of the National Dairy Board do not receive per diems from board funds, although their expenses are reimbursed. (Reportedly, many board members are compensated by the cooperatives or local units to which they belong.) The OIG auditors said the same restriction should apply to UDIA board members.

UDIA's Lata noted that per diem compensation is common in the industry. And Webb said no one else has criticized the practice at UDIA.

"It's always been the practice of state and regional organizations that when their board members take time away from their farms to attend meetings, they should be compensated," Lata said. He added that a federal bureaucracy should not impose its standards on the local units.

Similarly, UDIA's statement disputes the claim of the OIG report that it reallocated $5.8 million in administrative costs as program costs. Insiders say this controversy reflects the difference in accounting procedures more than anything else.

Some of the 18 qualified programs reviewed by the auditors also came in for criticism. The report claims that two of these programs spent $106,500 in check-off funds on activities, such as sponsoring school athletic events, for which funding is not authorized. It claims four of the programs incurred $2.4 million in administrative costs above the five-percent limit that governs the National Dairy Board. And one program allegedly misused funds and committed fraud, activities that are under investigation by the inspector general's office. None of these programs was identified by name.

The report was addressed to J. Patrick Boyle, administrator of USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, which oversees the check-off program. AMS officials have not responded officially to the many recommendations made by the auditors.

MDA Seeking Hay, Straw Farmers

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — The Marketing Services Office of the Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) wants to hear from Maryland farmers who anticipate having hay or straw for sale this winter. Marketing Services plans to have the 1988-89 Maryland Hay and Straw Directory ready for distribution by the first week of December. Farmers who want to be listed in the directory should contact the Marketing Services Office no later than October 24.

The directory will be available to livestock producers, horsemen, contractors, and others who are trying to locate a source of hay or straw. In addition, the directory will be mailed to nearly 280 licensed horse stables located throughout Maryland.

Farmers who wish to be listed in the directory can write to the Maryland Department of Agriculture, Marketing Services, "Hay & Straw Directory", 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Annapolis, Md. 21401, or call toll-free 1-800-638-2209, 24 hours a day. Please provide name, address, county, phone number, and a description of the hay or straw for sale, e.g., 2000 50-pound bales alfalfa, 10 tons barley straw, etc.

Case IH "Take The Wheel" Field Day

HERSHEY—The big red tractors were out in force Thursday afternon in a large field along Rt. 322 just east of here. That's where the regional Case IH dealers had their "Take The Wheel" field day for farmers.

The program devided the participatents into three groups. The one group learned about the features of the Magnum line of tractors. The second group learned about transmissions and other important information--like how to fill tractor tires for best performance. In addition, pointers were given in other areas. For example, to get best performance from equipment pulled by new tractors with large tires, you should check the draw bar height to make sure the implement is level. If this type implement is pulled at an improper angle it will "porpose" or be drawn in and out of the ground. This weaving up and down will be transferred to the tractor through the draw bar and the tractor will start to gallop or bunp.

The third group of participants took a "hay ride" to the field where they got hands-on experience working the fields in one or more of the 14 tractors available to demonstrate their stuff.

The local dealers sponsored the event. A noon lunch was served and door prizes were awarded. At the end of the field day all 14 tractors were brought in from the field and placed in a semi-circle around the meeting tent in a grand final show of strength.

McConn Is Winner Of Jersey Pot O' Gold

COLUMBUS, OH — Corey McConn, Burgettstown, Pa., is the twelfth place winner of the 1988 Pot O'Gold Production Contest sponsored by The American Jersey Cattle Club (AJCC). He will be presented with a cash award of $156.57 before the Pot O'Gold Sale held November 5 in Louisville Ky.

McConn's pur hase [illegible] Chocolate Pride Lion, he 1988 Pot O'Gold Sale produced [illegible] lbs. 4% fat-corrected milk to win him the award. "Pride's" actual production was 11,531 lbs. milk with a 4.2% fat test in 305 days, calving at two years and three months of age. "Pride" was purchased from Mayfield Dairy Farm, Inc., Athens, Tenn.

AJCC junior members enter the Pot O'Gold Production Contest by purchasing one of 20 animals consigned to either the Western Pot O'Gold or the Pot O'Gold Sale held in Louisville, Ky. Funding for the production contest equals 17% of the gross of the two sales.

According to the contest rules, the heifer must calve before reaching 30 months of age and still be owned by the junior buyer to be eligible to compete. Additionally, the animal must be tested in a herd enrolled in DHI or DHIR that is owned by the purchaser or the purchaser's parents or legal guardian.

Actual production records are adjusted to a mature equivalent basis (305-day, twice-a-day milking, age and month of calving). Adjusted records are then used for calculating 4% FCM, which is used to determine placings in the contest. The $5,219.09 in this year's "pot" was divided among 12 winners.

Wayne Co. Extension Meeting Date Set

HONESDALE — The annual meeting of the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Association will be held Thursday evening, October 27 in the Central United Methodist Church, Honesdale. A milk punch reception will begin at 7:30 p.m. with dinner being served at 7:45 p.m. The principal speaker will be Dr. Donald Evans, Assistant Dean of the Penn State College of Agriculture and Assistant Director of Cooperative Extension. He will report on recent organizational changes in the structure of extension in Pennsylvania and discuss new innovative methods of extension teaching.

Dr. Evans received his B.S., M.Ed., and D.Ed., degrees from Penn State University. Prior to joining the Extension staff he was a public school administrator in Huntingdon County. He began his career as a vocational agricultural instructor and held positions in cooperative education, including Director of Cooperative Education, Penn State University.

In addition, State Representative Jerry Birmelin will report on current legislative issues. The 1988 Wayne County Dairy Princess, Gillian Kieff, will also be present.

Business items on the agenda will include the election of seven new members to the Extension Executive Committee and the distribution of the annual report.

All persons interested in Extension work are considered members of the association and are invited to attend. Reservations can be made by calling the Wayne County Extension Office, Courthouse, Honesdale at 253-5970 ext. 239.

FARM MANAGEMENT

BY ALAN STROCK
Farm Management Agent

How To Keep Excellent Employees

As we all know, finding and keeping good farm employees is extremely difficult. With the unemployment rate below 4% in many counties, and most workers lacking the desire to work long hours at physically demanding jobs, it is hard to find and keep that special person to work. One possible way, among many others, to keep your better employees is to offer job performance incentives. But first, before offering incentives as a form of profit sharing, the farmer must be getting an adequate return on his investment, and his time.

WHAT FIRST

First bonuses should hinge on "profit" because the farmer deserves to be paid first. Remember the bonus will lower the farmer's profit and the farmer should first receive a reasonable return: for his labor, any unpaid family labor, and their investment, before a distributable profit can be calculated and distributed to the employee(s). Incentives should be offered only after the employee is already receiving a fair wage, one that can adequately provide food, shelter, clothing and some extras for the employee and his family.

Use With A Formal Job Description Document

These incentives should best be used in conjunction with a formal job description document which the employee and employer have agreed upon.

All payments should be above the regular salary, and not to be thought of as part of the base salary. The bonuses are for work and interest above and beyond the call of duty. Be sure to target all your incentives to your specific farm problems and profit leaks. The employee MUST be in complete control of that function, and all the inputs into that function. They should be organized by different aspects of the farm such as: feeding, breeding, young stock raising, herd health, livestock or milk production, labor efficiency, or crop efficiency and yields, etc.

Use Incentives To Make The Farm More Efficient

Incentives need to be constantly changing as one phase of the farm is improved the owner/manager should initiate new incentives in the least profitable phase. The owner is using the incentives as a variation of a profit sharing plan, but care must be taken to tie different economic performances together. A milk production bonus for a herd milk production increase of 250 lbs./cow would be inappropriate if total feed costs rose from $6.00/cwt. to $8.00/cwt.

Explain The Rules To The Employee

All the rules and regulations such as: bonus amounts, time duration, time period of payment, exact method of calculation, etc., should be written down and thoroughly understood by the employee and employer. Bonuses may also take a form other than cash such as: extra vacation, paid health insurance, life insurance, a side of beef, extra housing allowance, additional cows into the herd or the like.

How To Begin

When starting incentive plans keep the time period as short as possible, maybe even a month in some cases, so that the employee can receive a quick reward for his extra effort. To balance that, the time frame must be long enough so that the desired goal is not reached merely because of normal seasonal changes, especially in regard to milk production, butterfat test, conception rate, litter size, weaning weights, or feed efficiency. Keep the calculations in determining the bonus as simple as possible so there is little room for debate in determining whether the employee qualifies for the appropriate bonus payment.

Practical Suggestions

After having reviewed and analyzed these suggestions, then you are ready to develop your own incentive program to meet the needs of your farm. Here are incentive examples for the dairy farmer and their herd manager, milking manager, and calf and heifer raising manager.

Her Manager Incentives

Here are eight suggested incentive ideas for dairy herd managers along with an example that you could adapt to your operation.

(1). For an increase in rolling herd average or increase in pounds of milk sold above the same month or quarter the prior year, offer a $100 quarterly bonus for every 500 pound increase in rolling herd average above present level of production (OR) $100 quarterly bonus, if milk sold per cow is 250 pounds per cow higher than it was the prior quarter or that same quarter the prior year.

(2.) For an increase in butterfat test (with the dairy not DHIA), provide a $50 quarterly bonus for every .5% increment increase in butterfat from present test, OR from prior year's test for that quarter, OR above the 3.5% test.

(3.) For decreasing the veterinary bill while at least maintaining present herd health and conception rate offer a $40 monthly bonus for every $120 saved on average monthly vet bill due to the manager's own treatment for milk fever, ketosis, mastitis, or other diseases. This is very simple and would need more checks and balances attached to this bonus.

(4.) For increasing the percentage of heifers that calve at 24 months of age or before provide a $50 monthly bonus every month that at lease 5 heifers freshen and, if 80% or more of those heifers freshen at 24 months of age or before.

(5) For decreasing the services per conception rate for heifers and mature cows offer $25 monthly bonus every month that at least 15 different breeding animals are bred if the services per conception are below 1.5.

(6) For an increase in farm sales output per employee, provide a $500 annual bonus for every $5,000 increase in total farm production per employee (that is 3,000 hours per year). This must be carefully reviewed to make sure the increased employee productivity was the reason for the extra gross income.

(7.) For decreasing the DHIA calving interval provide a $250 semiannual bonus if calving interval is reduced .5 months compared to the prior six months calving interval.l

(8.) For a total farm profitability increase provide a set percentage of the increase in net farm profit above the prior year's profit. This could be presented as a bonus or just a set percentage of the net farm profit, or net cash farm income prorated upon the employee's job performance evaluation. Make sure the added profit was at least partially due to increased employee productivity, and just not market changes and other factors beyond the managers scope of influence.

Milking Manager Incentives

Here are four possible incentive plans for employees responsible for the milking program. These are all very simple and you should make sure the goal is not reached just because of normal seasonal fluctuations.

(1.) For a decrease in the somatic cell count from a specified level

Hutchinson Receives Award

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre) — Dr. Lawrence J. Hutchinson, professor of veterinary science and Penn State Cooperative Extension veterinarian, recently received the Extension Veterinarian of the Year award from the American Association of Extension Veterinarians. He was awarded the plaque in recognition of his outstanding veterinary extension programs and advanced concepts in veterinary medicine.

At Penn State, Hutchinson has directed programs to prevent diseases in dairy cattle and has conducted research to improve reproductive efficiency in dairy cattle.

In addition to his membership in the American Association of Extension Veterinarians, he is a member of the Continuing Advisory Committee of the American Veterinarian Medical Association and the American Association of Bovine Practitioners.

offer a $50 bonus every month that the monthly average somatic cell count is below 282,000.

(2.) For qualifying for the dairy's quality bonus premium offer a $50 monthly bonus every month the herd qualifies.

(3.) Offer a $25 monthly bonus every month that the dairy farm successfully passes the dairy inspection without having the farm spend any money to pass.

Base incentives upon jet performance evaluation and offer a set percentage of either net farm profit or net cash farm income.

Calf Raising Manager Incentives

Here are three suggested incentive plans for the calf and heifer raising personnel:

(1.) For a decrease in the calf mortality rate offer a $200 semiannual bonus, if calf mortality rate is below 5% for that six month period.

(2.) For drawing and entering calves in the calf record book offer $1 for every calf properly recorded.

(3.) For catching heifers in heat offer $5 for every heifer, between 13 and 19 months of age, that is detected and reported in heat, and if the heifer settles from that service. For this to be a viable incentive, heifers must be in good nutritional balance between protein, energy, and vitamins and minerals especially phosphorus, so that the heifers are cycling adequately and producing healthy eggs.

These few ideas were written to get you thinking about creative ways to keep your well trained productive employees. The most critical thing is to make them feel wanted and needed and that they are an important member of your farming team. They must also be given more responsibility as they grow into it so they use all their talent and skills and don't get stagnant.

Tax Break Possible From Drought Sales

Farmers forced to sell animals due to the drought can put money into their pockets at tax time next year. Special provsions in the Internal Revenue Code allow income gained from the sale of livestock because of drought conditions to be deferred to a later year for farmers that use cash-method record keeping.

These drought provisions differ for those selling breeding, draft, or dairy animals and for those forced to sell livestock held for sale.

Breeding animals

If livestock held for draft, breeding, or dairy purposes are sold due to a shortage of water, grazing, or other requirements, the gain realized on the sale does not have to be reported in the year of sale if the proceeds are used to purchase replacement livestock within two years of the end of the tax year of the sale. In other words, if the farmer sells dairy cows in 1988, he doesn't need to report the income from the sale if he uses that money by April 15, 1990 to buy replacement stock.

The new livestock must be used for the same purpose as the livestock that was sold. Therefore, breeding hogs must be replaced with breeding hogs.

The taxpayer must show that the drought caused the sale of more livestock than would have been sold without the drought conditions. For example, if the farmer normally sells one-fifth of the herd each year, only the sales in excess of one-fifth will qualify for this provision. In addition, There is no requirement that the drought conditions cause an area to be declared a disaster area by the federal government.

In order to take advantage of this drought provision, the farmer should not report the income from the sale of his draft, breeding, or dairy animals on his tax return. In addition, he should attach a statement to the tax return showing all the details of the drought sale. These facts would include:

1. Evidence that drought conditions were present that forced him to sell or exchange of his livestock;
2. The computation of the amount of gain realized on the sale or exchange.
3. The number and kind of livestock sold or exchanged.
4. The number of livestock of each kind that would have been sold or exchanged under the usual business practice in the absence of the drought.

Example

A farmer normally sells five cows from the beef herd each year. In 1988, drought conditions reduced the hay crop so there was not enough forage to carry the normal herd through the winter. Consequently, 15 cows rather than five were sold in 1988. The farmer plans to replace the 10 cows in 1989.

Only 10 of the cows sold in 1988 qualify for the deferral of gain due to the drought. The farmer can defer the gain by not reporting the gain on those 10 cows on his 1988 return, and by attaching the following statement:

Election under Section 1033(e) to Postpone Recognition of Gain from Livestock Sold Because of Drought.

The drought conditions evidenced by the rainfall report caused the taxpayer to sell 15 head of beef cows rather than five head in 1988. The cows were all raised and therefore have a zero basis. The 15 cows sold for $6,000, or $400 per cow. The taxpayer elects to defer the gain, $4,000, on the 10 extra head that were sold under Internal Revenue Code Section 1033(e).

When the farmer purchases his 10 replacement cows in 1989, if he spends $400 on each cow, he will have a zero basis in them. If he spends more than $400 on each cow, the excess will be the basis in the cows. If less than $400 is spent on each cow, the excess per cow must be included in his 1988 income. If fewer than 10 cows are purchased, the money not used must be reported regardless of the amount paid for the purchased cows.

The farmer should report the purchase of the replacement cows with the 1989 tax return. If there is additional income for 1988, an amended 1988 return must be filed.

Livestock held for sale

The rules governing drought sales of livestock held for sale are somewhat different than those for breeding stock. The provision regarding forced sale of livestock held for sale allows the farmer to postpone reporting the income by

To qualify the sale must be caused by an area that has been declared a drought disaster area. It is not necessary, however, that the livestock be raised or sold in the declared disaster area. The sale can take place before or after the area is declared a disaster area as long as the same disaster caused the sale.

In addition, the farmer must show that the livestock would normally have been sold in a subsequent year.

The amount of income that can be postponed is computed as follows. Assume that because of drought conditions, a farmer sold 750 head of sheep in 1988 instead of the 500 that normally would have been sold. The farmer received $75,000 for the 750 head sold. He can postpone reporting the income from the sale of only 250 sheep. That amount is calculated by dividing the sale proceeds by the 750 sheep sold and multiplying the result by the 250 for which he can postpone the proceeds. Therefore, $75,000/750 x 250 = $25,000 that can be reported in 1989 rather than in 1988.

To defer the income, the farmer must attaching a statement to the tax return for the year in which he sold the animals. The statement should include the following information:

1. A declaration that the taxpayer is making an election under Section 451(e).

2. Proof that the drought conditions forced the early sale or exchange of the livestock, and the date, if known, on which the area was designated by the federal government as a drought disaster area and eligible for assistance.
3. A statement explaining the relationship of the drought area to the farmer's early sale or exchange of the livestock.
4. The total number of animals sold in each of the three preceding years.
5. The number of animals that would have been sold in the taxable year had there been no drought.
6. The total number of animals sold, and the number sold on account of the drought during the taxable year.

7. A computation of the amount of income to be deferred for each type of livestock sold because of drought conditions; that is, a computation similar to the example above relating to the sale of sheep.

methods of transportation and communication. Just recently had the first railroad lines linked the nation together; and the telegraph was still in its infancy.

Millions of people were still marked by the deep tragedy and bitterness of the War Between the States.

In the past its membership has swelled during times of economic and social stresses in the nation reflecting the goal of the Grange founding fathers:

"a local community association where a group of people should be brought together as neighbors and friends to discuss with candor and tolerance many local problems; to arrive at a clearer recognition of . . .needs a mutual agreement on ways of meeting those needs; transforming strangers into neighbors, perhaps even enemies into friends, as local misunderstandings should be wiped away, prejudices removed, intelligence diffused and cooperation established."

William H. Ringler
PA Grange Master

Today Grange membership stands at nearly 42,000 in Pennsylvania and in a time of shrinking rural population the Grange membership in the Commonwealth has seen a constant increase in the past few years. The Grange has become what its founding fathers had hoped it would be and that is an organization where people from all economic backgrounds and occupations can come together and work towards a common goal.

The Grange has proposed and won many legislative battles and continues to do so today. A good example of the Grange's strength in legislative battles comes from a story in the Grange's proud past.

"A lady member of the Grange visited her sister in St. Paul. One of the conveniences of city living impressed her more than other--the mail was delivered right to her door. She made a report to her subordinate grange about this, and a motion was made, seconded, and passed to ask their state master to carry a resolution to the National Grange. It became the beginning of an effort almost exclusively by the National Grange that resulted in rural free delivery. Today, Pennsylvania has the most rural mail routes of any state in the United States.

The Right Blend: Good Management and Feeds

BY PAT PURCELL

INTERCOURSE (Lancaster) — In today's milk marketplace a loss of fifty cents per hundred weight means a $2500 loss to the dairyman with a 17,000-pound average on a 30 cow herd.

And with today's fluctating milk prices and higher feed costs, increasing production per cow takes on greater importance. But according to Donald J. Mahlandt, Pennfield Manager of Swine and Dairy Feeds, the solution is in management and not in the feedstuffs. The right feed system is an integral part of the entire management place, but even the best feeds will not take the place of good management.

Although farmers will be seeing, if they have not already seen it, an increase in their milk check, higher feed prices may diminish returns, Mahlandt told farmers gathered at the Harvest Drive Restaurant on Thursday for the Pennfield fall dairy meetings. While the "man" in management has been stressed consistently in the past few years for survival in the dairy industry and may not be news, the news is that prediction is becoming reality.

The key is to increase production per cow and either cut feed costs or maintain costs at the same level. It can be done if the dairyman sets goals and then takes a hard look at what he has in inventory and what he can purchase as supplements.

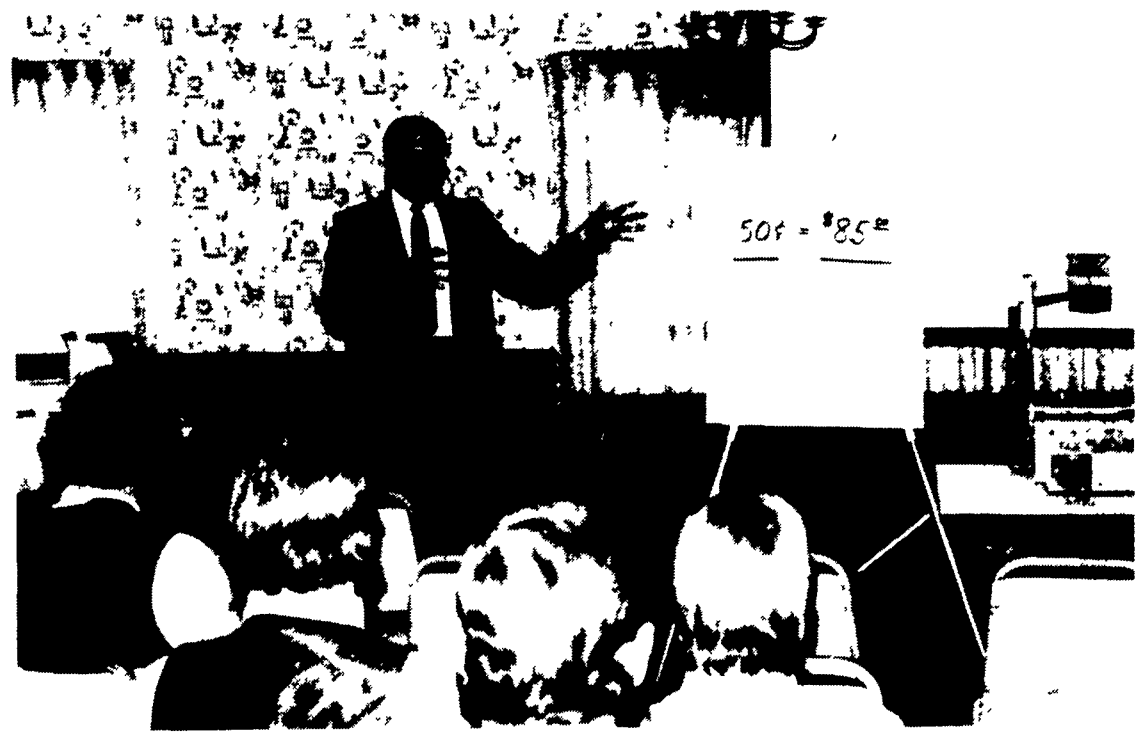
"Over the next three years we are going to see some dynamic changes in management," said Mahlandt. "Right now we are at the bottom of a swing, in a slump with grain prices high. Every week we read about increased cow sales. The one's who are left will be the ones with high output and are the good managers."

Bovine somatotrophin, the growth hormone which can increase milk production per cow by 15 to 20 percent, may be available to American dairy farmers as early as 1990. But BST will not take the place of a solid management plan and in fact it will demand better management, according to Mahlandt.

"If you think you have a tough time getting your high producing cows bred now, cows producing nearly 20 percent more won't be any easier," warned Dr. Tim Snyder, nutritional advisor with Pennfield Corporation.

But until BST becomes available, dairymen have enough feed-

(Turn to Page A39)



Donald J. Mahlandt, Manager of Swine and Dairy Feeds for Pennfield Corp., stresses the importance of good management in dairy industry if farmers are to meet the challenges facing them in next three years. This was second of Pennfield's fall dairy meetings to be held throughout the state.

Highlights of Annual Forage Conference

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre) — "Forage growers can get a glimpse of forage systems of the 1990's as well as a broad look at forage options they can use in 1989," says Dr. Sid Bosworth, Penn State assistant professor of agronomy and chairman of the 1988 Pennsylvania Forage Conference.

The annual conference will be held Nov. 22 at the Penn State Keller Conference Center on Penn State's main campus at University Park.

Conference presenters will focus on "Forage Systems for the 90's." For growers this conference will provide an opportunity to consider long range planning to maximize the return from their forage programs.

Dr. Paul Wangsness, head of department of dairy and animal science in the College of Agriculture at Penn State, will preside over the morning session. Dr. Larry Muller, professor of dairy and animal science at Penn State, will discuss the best forages for tomorrow's dairy cows, and Dr. Harold Harpster, associate professor of dairy and animal science will explain some new forage options for livestock.

Doug Gammie, director of product management, Ford-New Holland, will talk about what is in store for forage harvesting systems, and Jim Garthe, assistant professor of ag engineering will present a glimpse of some different equipment ideas that may be coming soon.

After lunch Richard Hann, president of the Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council will give the council's annual report and host the annual awards ceremony.

Dr. Al Turgeon, head of the agronomy department at Penn State, will chair the afternoon session. Dr. Morris Decker, professor of agronomy at the University of Maryland, will examine the past, present and future of grazing systems, and Bosworth will discuss pasture plants and ways to maximize grazing management practices.

Dr. Cathy Hamlett, assistant professor of ag economics, will talk about the potential market for hay in Pennsylvania and Dr. Richard Hill, from the United States Department of Agriculture Pasture Lab at University Park, will end the day with a discussion of new directions in research.

Registration will begin at 9:00 a.m. and the program will start at 9:40. The cost is just $7 for registration and $7 for an optional lunch. For more information write to Forage Conference, 306 Ag Administration Bld., University Park, PA 16802, or your county extension office. Lunch reservations are limited and can only be guaranteed to those who register by Nov. 15.

USDA Announces 1989 Feed Grain Program

WASHINGTON, DC — Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Lyng today announced a 10-percent acreage reduction (ARP) for 1989 crop corn, grain sorghum and barley and a 5-percent ARP for 1989 crop oats.

The 1989 crop corn, sorghum and barley ARP's are reduced from the 20-percent ARP set for the 1988 crop while the oats ARP remains the same as the 1988 crop.

Other provisions of the 1989 feed grain program include:

— Target prices established per bushel are $2.84 for corn, $2.70 for sorghum ($4.82 per hundredweight), $2.43 for barley and $1.50 for oats.

— Loan and purchase rates per bushel are $1.65 for corn, $1.57 for sorghum ($2.80 per hundredweight), $1.34 for barley, $0.85 for oats and $1.40 for rye.

— No marketing loan program for feed grains will be implemented.

— Malting barley will not be exempt from the acreage limitation requirements established for the 1989 barley program.

— Oats will not be subject to the limited cross compliance provisions.

— There will not be a paid land diversion program.

Common program provisions that apply to the 1989 feed grains, wheat, upland cotton and rice programs were announced on June 14.

Signup dates and other details for the 1989 feed grain program will be announced later.

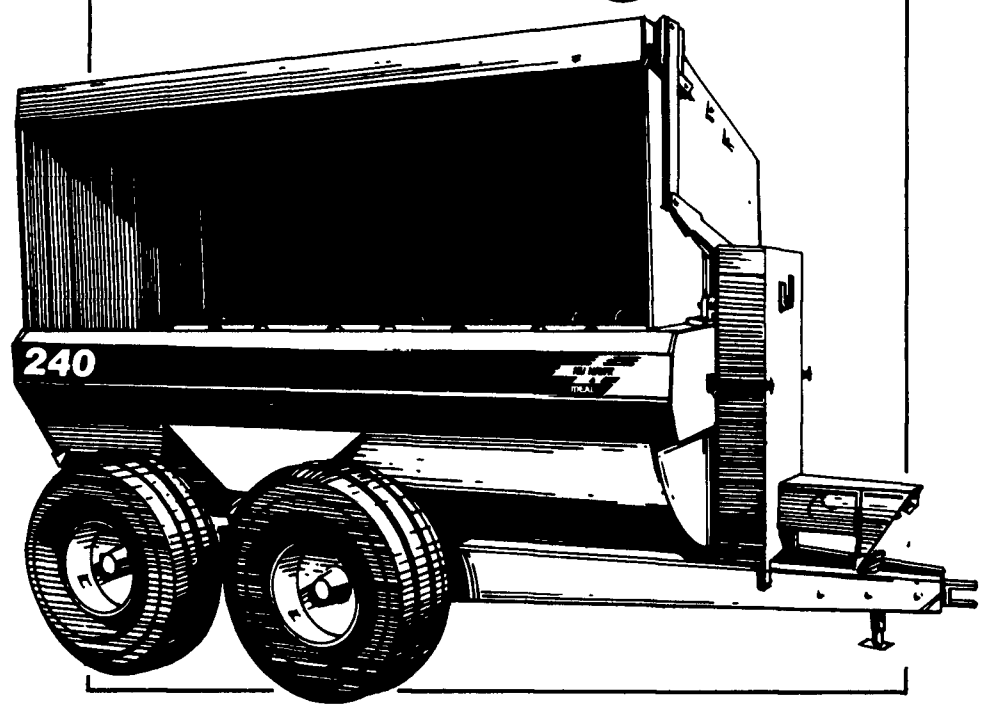
SPREAD's THE WORD



Spread's the word at Ideal Industries with a line of manure spreaders that are big on performance - but easy on your budget! Ideal's Nu Hawk flail tank spreaders offer a more efficient, less expensive solution to all your manure spreader needs. And Nu Hawk spreaders are competitively priced to provide a more economical way to fertilize and build up the organic matter in your soil.

Built to meet your complete loading and spreading requirements, Nu Hawk spreaders provide a variety of features and options for consistent year round spreading of all types of manure.

All Nu Hawk models offer either right or left side discharge and a straight or folding rear panel to clear low barn cleaners. As well, Nu Hawk's tractor controlled hydraulic lid openers and copper bearing steel lids and tanks resist damaging corrosive manure acids.

For more information on Ideal's new line of Nu Hawk flail tank spreaders, see your local Nu Hawk dealer.

Hughes said. Leading the pack of faithful volunteer leaders is Carl Nestleroth, Manheim, who gave 32 years of leadership. The club also expressed their appreciation to Marlin Becker of Manheim, for four years of service; Kerry Boyd of Ephrata for 11 years; Ed Donough of Manheim, for two year; Tony Folker of New Holland for six years; J. Warren Heisey of Elizabethtown for 22 years; Sam Long of New Providence for one year; and Dean Zielger of Lititz for one year.

Unfortunately the outstanding 4-H member, Sheldon Heisey, could not attend the banquet to receive his trophy. He is an outstanding swine showman who organized the fitting and showing for the club and served as vice president before going to Bloomsburg University.

The Marlin Becker Family, Manheim, received a special award for their help and commitment in many of the clubs activities. Marlin, his wife Nancy and daughters, Karen, 14; Melissa, 10; and Amy, 7; helped organize the hog roundup and chaired the club's sausage stand at the Manheim Farm Show.

Recognition was given to owners of the top three project books. First place went to Corey Pfautz, Lititz; Gerald Boyd of Clay placed second and Andy Groff of Lampeter, third.

In 1988 competition, the county 4-H swine club also claimed the top volley ball team at the 4-H fair and top sales for its food stand at the Manheim Farm Show.

Recognition was given to owners of the top three project books. First place went to Corey Pfautz, Lititz; Gerald Boyd of Clay placed second and Andy Groff of Lampeter, third.

During the 4-H swine banquet, Derrick Lee Frank (left) and Carl Nestleroth won awards at the opposite end of the spectrum. Frank was named "Rookie of the Year," and Nestleroth was honored for his 32 years of 4-H leadership.

ADADC Receives Recognition

WILLIAMSPORT (Lycoming) — The American Dairy Association and Dairy Council (ADADC) was recently the recipient of the prestigious Telly Award for high quality regional advertising. The award was presented for ADADC's fluid milk advertisement, "Milk Power," that was specifically developed for the New York City market.

Based upon the national "Milk America's Health Kick" theme, the regional ad states, "Milk, New York's Health Kick." Sights and sounds of New York City emphasize the personalized message.

Raymond Johnson, ADADC president, says, "ADADC is pleased and proud of this kind of recognition. I believe that it speaks well for the quality of advertising sponsored on behalf of the dairy farmers.

Over 3,000 entries from 46 states were received in this, the ninth year of competition. Judging for the regional advertising category was based upon production quality and effectiveness of message.

The American Dairy Association and Dairy Council is a dairy promotion association funded by 20,000 dairy farmers from New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

ing problems to correct. Farmers can act now to cut costs with a few simple and well-known practices, but worth repeating:

—Take inventory now, locate extra sources early, maximize crop residues. Waiting until your inventory is depleted is no time to buy. By that time, competition for available feed will hike prices.

—Reduce feed waste, use covered storage, repair feed racks/bins and keep clean troughs. Farmers lose nearly 25 percent of forage stored in uncovered round bales.

—Feed according to need. Use a two-feed system. Give your high producers top quality forage and feeds and feed your low producers a basic inexpensive feed. Invest your money in what's making you money.

—Test feedstuffs — Balance Ration. During a good year it is important. During this year when corn height and ear growth vary on the same farm, forage testing is your first stop on the road to better management. Energy and fiber levels are opposite for high corn with small ears and low corn with big ears.

Snyder urges dairymen to look to other feed stuffs to cut costs but maintain production levels or increase production. Fat is a vital energy source for high producing cows in early lactation Fat has approximately twice the source of energy of carbohydrates or proteins. The problem is fat comes in many different forms. The source of the fat will determine its availability, performance and price. Since farmers receive their most profit during the first 100 days of the lactation cycle the this one ingredient has a substantial effect on the dairyman's bottom line.

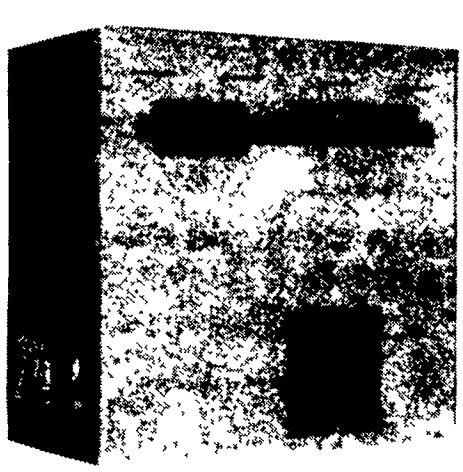
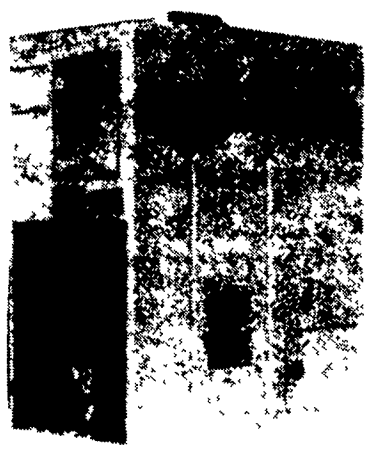
L.B.WHITE AGRICULTURAL HEATERS





L B. WHITE HEATERS hang in more animal confinement buildings than all other types of heaters combined.

First of all, they're designed and built for economical farm use. Since livestock and poultry barns are ventilated year-round, there's enough fresh air to take advantage of the heat and cost savings provided by a direct-fired heater. Maintenance of a rugged WHITE HEATER is so minimal that you can spend all your time doing what you do best... farming. In your shirt sleeves, if you like. Your WHITE HEATER will keep your farm building that comfortable.

FEATURES:
- Removable access panel for easy access to high limit switch.
- Integral gas pressure tap for quick testing of supplied gas pressure.
- Easily removable fan wheel.
- Quick-change motor mount for speedy field replacement of fan motors or blower wheels.
- Pilot light operation for dependable ignition
- Stainless steel thermostat for accuracy and corrosion resistance.
- Service door provides easy access to pilot light and allows burner service and replacement without removing case.

For the Heller Clan of Lititz

October Is The Season For Chowchow Making

BY LOU ANN GOOD

LITITZ (Lancaster)— When the first frost nips the flower buds, it signals the season for chowchow making among the Parke and Charity Heller clan of Lititz.

It's the time when the Heller's four daughters and a daughter-in-law pack up their at-home children for a trip to Grandma's house where a summer kitchen offers the perfect spot for canning batches of the pickling relish. Each brings her own stainless steel dishpan brimming with glistening, empty pint jars to be filled with the colorful Pennsylvania Dutch relish.

Chowchow is a colorful combination of summer's vegetables canned with a vinegar syrup that gives them a pickled flavor. "I'd say chowchow is a delicacy," said youngest daughter Karen Ruiz.

"It's a lot of work and not something I'd make if I'd do it myself," admitted Jeanette Weaver, the second eldest daughter.

Each brings some ingredient to add, but daughter LaVerne Kreider admits, "Mother does most of the work."

It's a lot of work all right. But when done "the Heller clan" way, it's also a lot of fun.

"That's what we like best about making chowchow—visiting while we work," Karen said.

While dumping precooked cauliflower, pickles, celery, peppers, carrots, lima beans, green beans, kidney and great northern beans into large stainless steel containers the women catch up on the activities of each others children. They compare schedules and plans and exclaim over the growth of the newest addition to the Heller's 16 grandchildren while mixing and scooping the mixture into jars.

Charity, mother of the clan, is famous for her organization and efficency. When it comes to chowchow making, she said, "The secret to making everything run smoothly is to put aside vegetables starting in the spring." For example, she picks and processes baby lima beans and tiny pickles with the upcoming event in mind.

"This year our gardens didn't do as well since it was dry," Charity remarked. Consequently, she had to purchase some of her pickles,

(Turn to Page B4)

Too bad this picture is not in color. These dishpans are filled with brightly colored vegetables that make up the chowchow ingredients.

Jeanette Weaver chops the pickles that will be added to the chowchow vegetables.

LaVerne Kreider holds pints of chowchow that are ready for the canning kettle.

Homestead Notes

Cousins John Ruiz (left) and Josh Kreider admire the 144 pound pumpkin grown on grandpa's farm, which John entered in the Manheim Farm Show and placed second.

Chowchow Making

but everything is still homegrown and home processed except the kidney and great northern beans.

While some of the participants are avowed lovers of chowchow, others admit they make it to serve company or give as Christmas gifts. "It makes a nice, colorful gift when a bow is tied around the jar," LaVerne said.

Eldest daughter, Faye wife of Jim Myers, has seen many changes in their get-togethers over the years. In the beginning, she was the one with small children. Now her four children are grown and no longer accompany their mother on these canning excursions. Both her sister Jeanette, wife of Don Weaver and her sister-in-law Julie, wife of Fred Heller, have two and three children respectively who no longer attend the annual event. But LaVerne, wife of Larry Kreider and mother of four, and Karen, married to Louis Ruiz and mother of three, have preschoolers who enjoy the opportunity of playing with their cousins and visiting with Grandpa while Grandma supervises the kitchen brigade.

With the last jar filled and the canner kettle bubbling merrily, Charity heats her homemade vegetable soup, makes a pot of coffee and retreats to the living room with her offspring to relax until the buzzer signals another batch to be run. While munching on cookies and sipping coffee, the women exchange names for Christmas by picking enough slips for each of their children.

The women, all who live within a few miles of their mothers, do more than chowchow making together on an annual basis. There's Christmas shopping in November, cooking baking in December and pea day in June.

Each annual tradition is accompanied by its own specified lunch. The yearly agenda lists vegetable soup as the order of the day for chowchow making; potato soup accompanies cooking baking day and pea soup with rivals goes with pea picking day.

"And Christmas Eve dinner is traditionally shrimp with each bringing a covered dish. LaVerne said. "It's tradition that no one dare break."

Traditions, they find, help bond family relationships. "It's nice to have the girls come home," Charity said. And the girls respond by saying, "It's nice to come home and do this together. It helps keep us in touch."

On being a farm wife -And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Living out a dream one has cherished for a length of time is an exhilarating, goose-bumpy experience.

Today, we saw a private dream come alive.

Oh, this was no earth-shattering, life-changing sort of dream, that structures history or sends mankind off on a dramatically different direction.

Or, maybe, in the larger sense, it was.

Today, we watched a bald eagle soar.

Just exactly when we crossed over from being birding bystanders to "bird brains" -- the kids' label -- can't be pinpointed. Like so many hobbies, it meshed right along with the pursuit of our farming livelihood in an outdoor environment and just grew into a shared sort of fanaticism

When the Farmer moved and planted a small dead maple sapling at a strategic location for birdfeeder viewing -- and acquired for us a martin house as well -- I knew he was properly hooked. Actually, his hunting-honed powers of wildlife observation make him the better birder anyway.

And, like any collection, there's always that urge to add something more rare, more unattainable. Each new specie of songbird to visit the feeders or be seen in the meadow marks another personal achievement. We felt almost parental pride and protectiveness over the red-tailed hawk chick hatched and raised in the meadow this past summer, though we had absolutely nothing to do with its happening.

And we plotted to set out a few appropriate-sized houses on fenceposts for the bluebird-barren meadow, a good intention which never materialized. By late August, a dozen of the beautiful little rosy-breasted birds, once facing near-extinction from the area, had simply moved in on their own.

But a bald eagle? Majestic, fiercely independent, inaccessibly aloof, this national symbol, too, was and is endangered by human progress. Their haunts in distant western mountains and wild rivers are time-consuming and costly to visit, with no guarantee of ever seeing one anyway.

We'd once watched a golden eagle glide over a Wyoming prairie dog haven. And, milking chores were temporarily abandoned the evening an osprey dove into our farm pond to snag a fish, then fly to a nearby dead tree to partake of its catch. Once facing extinction, ospreys are making an impressive comeback.

By gosh, if an osprey could fish our pond, why not dream of eagles?

Today, we watched an eagle soar.

It winged and wheeled in majestic anger, pursuing its smaller cousin the osprey, clinging tightly to a fish in its talons. Brown and mottled with white, soaring in a cloudless blue sky on a perfect, sunlit afternoon, the immature bald eagle fulfilled years of waiting.

And, the dream continued, a drama unfolding through the lenses of our pair of field glasses. On distant rocks protruding above the flowing river water, were two eagles boasting the distinctive white heads of maturity. Four brown, mottled juveniles perched on rocks and high-voltage-line towers.

Today, we watched not one, but six, bald eagles. We watched them not in Wyoming, nor Montana, nor Idaho, but on our own Susquehanna River. The eagles and ospreys fished just below the public Fisherman's Park, at the massive Conowingo Hydroelectric Plant, in northern Maryland; Peach Bottom area also reports frequent sightings of bald eagles.

Restoration of eagles to our regional backyard is a tribute to the efforts of conservation and symbolic of environmental healing. It does not come cheap, nor fast, nor without long-term changes on how we utilize the precious natural resources of our fragile world.

To live with eagles and ospreys and hawks and bluebirds -- all seriously threatened by human progress and now getting a second chance because we're learning to care enough to change -- is truly a dream come alive.

May the dream live on for succeeding generations.

Changes In Medicare

NEWARK, DE — Becky Gates of the Delaware Insurance Commissioners office will discuss changes in the Medicare program and how this effects the need for a supplemental health insurance policy at the October 25th meeting of Families Caring for Elderly Relatives. This meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. at the University of Delaware Adult Day Care Center, on the corner of Lovett and Academy Streets in Newark. In recent months, the Medicare regulations have been overhauled. These changes alter options to adult care. If someone has a medicare supplemental health insurance policy, this is a time to review the benefits to determine if it truly supplements the new medicare program. Ms. Gates will discuss how to evaluate supplemental policies and identify their basic features.

Families Caring for Elderly Relatives, sponsored by Cooperative Extension, meets the second and fourth Tuesday of the month. This and all programs are free and open to all regardless of race, color, sex, handicap, age, or national origin.

Pork: The Great Taste To Lean On

CROCK POT SWEET-SOUR PORK

2 pounds lean pork shoulder, cut into strips
1 green bell pepper, seeded and cut into strips
¾ cup shredded carrots
½ medium onion, thinly sliced
¼ cup brown sugar, packed
2 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ cup water
2 tablespoons coarsely chopped sweet pickles
2 cups pineapple chunks packed in light syrup
¼ cup cider vinegar
1 tablespoon soy sauce

Place pork strips in crock pot. Add green pepper, onion, carrots, and pickle. In a bowl, mix brown sugar and cornstarch. Add 1 cup pineapple syrup, vinegar, and soy sauce and stir until smooth. Pout over meat and vegetables in crock pot. Cover and cook on low setting for 5 to 7 hours. One hour before serving, add pineapple chunks. Stir into meat and sauce. Serve over buttered noodles with an additional dash of vinegar or garlic to taste.

Hope, N.J.

PORK BARBECUE

1-1½ pounds ham or pork
1 cup onion, chopped and browned in 2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons brown sugar
2 tablespoons vinegar
4 tablespoons lemon juice
3 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
1 cup catsup
½ teaspoon dry mustard
½ cup water

Cook ham or pork and shred. Place in casserole or heavy saucepan. Mix remaining ingredients and pour into casserole. Bake in 350-degree oven for 30 minutes; or cook on low heat in saucepan for 30 minutes.

Mary B. Arbegast
Newville

SOUTHERN MARYLAND STUFFED HAM

9- to 12-pound corned ham
4-pound cabbage
6 tablespoons kosher salt
4 tablespoons mustard seed
5-pound kale
2 bunches celery
2 tablespoons black pepper
4 tablespoons celery seed
Red pepper to taste

Parboil ham for 20 minutes; remove skin and fat. Chop celery and greens into 1½ -inch pieces. Add seasonings and mix well. Cool ham. Starting at butt end of ham, cut 2-inch long slits lengthwise across ham. Use fingers to stuff seasoned greens into slits.

Place ham on large square of clean cloth. Pile any remaining stuffing on top of ham. Fold ends of loth tightly over ham and secure with knots or pins to keep ham in shape. Return to boiler and simmer 15 minutes per pound. Let cool in liquid, then refrigerate. Serve cold.

HUNGARIAN PORK & SAUERKRAUT GOULASH

1¼ pounds lean pork, cubed
¼ cup flour
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup bacon drippings
1 green pepper, sliced
1½ teaspoons Hungarian paprika
1 cup beef broth
16-ounce can sauerkraut, drained
Sour cream

Combine flour, salt, and pepper. Dregde meat. Heat drippings in heavy saucepan. Brown meat, then remove from pan. Add onion and green pepper to pan and cook until onion is tender. Drain any remaining fat. Add paprika, broth, and pork; bring to a boil. Simmer for 50 minutes. Add sauerkraut and cook an additional 45 mintues. Garnish with sour cream. Serves 4.

Hamilton Square, N.J.

RICED PORK BARBECUE

5- to 6-pound pork shoulder, boned and trimmed of fat
4 cups rice, cooked
1 medium onion, chopped
2 cups catsup
1 cup white vinegar
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
1 cup brown sugar
3 tablespoons sweet pickle relish, or chopped pickles
1 cup water
Salt, pepper to taste

In a baking dish, place ½ cup water, chopped onion, and pork shoulder. Season with salt and pepper. Place in oven and roast at 350 degrees for about 1½ hours, or until well done. Remove from the oven and let cool until pork can be handled. Pull meat apart with a fork, in small pieces, and reserve. Place remaining ingredients in a blender and liquify. Return shredded pork to the baking dish and cover with sauce. Simmer on stove for about 45 minutes. Place cooked rice on a plate and spoon pork and sauce over rice. Serves 4 to 6.

PORK MEXICANA STEW

2 pounds boneless lean pork, cut into 1-inch cubes
¼ cup flour for coating
¼ cup olive oil
6 green onions, sliced
16-ounce can whole tomatoes
2 garlic cloves, finely chopped
15-ounce can tomato sauce
2 teaspoons chili powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon oregano
¼ teaspoon pepper
3 medium carrots, sliced
1 pound zucchini or potatoes, sliced
20-ounce can chick peas, drained

Pat pork dry with paper towel. Coat pork with flour, shaking off excess. Heat about 2 tablespoons oil in large, flame-proof casserole dish. Brown meat in batches, adding more oil as needed. Remove meat to plate as it is browned. Saute green onions and garlic in remaining fat until tender, but not browned: about 3 minutes. Add tomatoes, breaking them up with a spoon. Add tomato sauce, chili powder, carrots, salt, oregano, pepper, and pork. Bring to a boil, then simmer 1 hour. Add zucchini or potatoes and chick peas. Cover and simmer until meat is tender and potatoes are done.

PORK CHOP SUEY

2 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 cup thinly sliced onion
2 cups sliced celery
½ cup leftover pork gravy or canned chicken gravy
10½ -ounce condensed cream of mushroom soup
¼ cup soy sauce
1½ cups slivered roast pork
16-ounce can bean sprouts, drained
1 tablespoon cornstarch
3 cups cooked white rice

Saute onion and celery in hot oil, stirring occasionally, until onion is golden, about 10 minutes. Add gravy, soup, and soy sauce; bring to a boil, stirring. Add pork and bean sprouts; return to boiling. Reduce heat and simmer, covered, five minutes.

Combine cornstarch with ½ cup cold water, stirring until smooth. Add to hot mixture and stir well. Bring to boiling, stirring, until mixture is thickened and translucent, about five minutes.

Featured Recipe

Chow chow making may be a dying art in many localities, but Charity Heller of Lititz has made it a family tradition among her six children who gather each October to fill their jars with summer's bounty.

To learn how to make this time consuming recipe while having fun, turn to page B2.

Chowchow

9-10 quarts cauliflower, chopped
10 quarts sweet-sour and sweet gherkin pickles, chopped
1 pint Christmas pickles
4 quarts celery, chopped
2 quarts red peppers, chopped
8 quarts carrots, crinkle-cut
5 quarts baby lima beans
8 quarts cooked red kidney beans
4 quarts cooked Great Northern beans
2 quarts green beans, chopped
Syrup:
4 quarts water
4 quarts vinegar
6 quarts sugar
4 teaspoons salt

Boil together ingredients for syrup.

All vegetables should be precooked to tender-crisp. Mix all ingredients with their natural liquids in large dishpans. Fill pint jars to within ¼ inch from top. Add syrup. Seal and process 10 minutes in boiling water bath. Yields: 70 pints.

QUESTION - Joann Yenser, Myerstown, requests a recipe for a soft, moist yellow cake.

ANSWER - Lucille Groff, Denver, wrote that when she makes grape juice in her juicer/steamer kettle, she puts the remaining pulp stems and seeds through her food press and it yields a lot of grape pulp. She requested ideas on using the pulp without the stems and seeds. Thanks to Eva Southard, Glen Rock; a reader from Ephrata; and Janet Gehman, for sharing your recipe and to Mrs. John B. Becker, Paradise, who wrote that she thickens the pulp with tapioca after bringing it to a boil. She said, "It is delicious."

Grape Jam

4 cups grape pulp
3 cups sugar
Juice and grated rind of 1 lemon

Combine ingredients and cook gently (about 20 minutes), stirring to prevent burning, until the mixture is thick enough to spread. Pour into hot sterilized glasses and seal with paraffin.

Grape Dessert

3 cups grape pulp
3 small boxes grape-flavored gelatin
3 cups boiling water
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 9-ounce container whipped topping

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add grape pulp and lemon juice. When jelled, add whipped topping and beat. The grape pulp may be frozen until ready to use.

Pork: The Great Taste

HURRY-UP PORK HASH

½ cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons butter
1 can cream of mushroom soup
¼ cup milk
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1½ cups cubed, cooked pork
2 cups cubed, cooked potatoes (about 2 medium)
1 cup cooked peas

In skillet, cook onion in butter until tender. Stir in soup, milk, and Worcestershire sauce. Add remaining ingredients. Heat, stirring occasionally. Makes 4 cups.

SWEET-SOUR PORK

1 pound pork, cut into 1-inch cubes
1 beaten egg
¼ cup cornstarch
¼ cup flour
¼ cup chicken stock
¼ teaspoon salt
1 large green pepper
½ cup chopped carrot
1 clove garlic, minced
2 tablespoons olive oil
1 cup chicken broth
½ cup sugar
⅓ cup red wine vinegar
2 teaspoons soy sauce
¼ cup cold water
2 tablespoons cornstarch

Trim excess fat from pork. Combine egg cornstarch, chicken broth, and salt. Beat until smooth. Dip pork cubes in batter, fry in hot fat (275 degrees) until golden; about 5-6 minutes. Drain. Keep warm in the oven.

Cook green pepper, carrots, and garlic until the vegetables are tender but not brown. Stir in 1 cup broth, sugar, vinegar, and soy sauce. Bring to boiling. Boil 1 minute; slowly blend cold water into cornstarch; add to vegetables. Cook and stir until bubbly and thick. Add pork. Serve over hot rice.

ORIENTAL PORK & TOMATO CASSEROLE

1 pound boneless pork loin, cut into thin strips
1 cup thinly sliced celery
1 medium onion, thinly sliced and separated into rings
1 garlic clove, minced
1 tablespoon cornstarch
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1 tablespoon water
1 tablespoon brown sugar
¼ teaspoon ground ginger
1 medium green pepper, thinly sliced
1 medium tomato, peeled and cut into wedges

Combine pork, celery, onion, and garlic ina 2-quart casserole dish. Microwave on high until pork loses its pink color, five to 10 minutes, stirring twice during cooking. Drain. Mix cornstarch, soy sauce, and water. Stir soy sauce mixture, ginger, brown sugar, and green pepper into pork. Microwave on high until pepper is tender-crisp and sauce is thickened, four to five minutes. Stir after 2 minutes.

Stir in tomato wedges and microwave on high until tomatoes are hot and green pepper is tender, 1½ to 2 minutes. Serves 4.

ANSWER - An East Berlin reader requests recipes using Jerusalem artichokes. Thanks Eva Southard, Glen Rock, for sending one.

Jerusalem Artichokes

1 pound Jerusalem artichokes
¼ cup melted butter, cream or white sauce
½ to ¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

scrub the artichokes, cover with boiling water and simmer 20 to 30 minutes. or until tender. Drain, pull off skins. Top with melted butter, cream or white sauce. Season with salt and pepper.

White Sauce:
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon flour
1 cup milk
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon pepper

Melt the butter; blend in the flour. Gradually stir in the milk. Simmer stirring until the mixture boils and thickens. Cook 3 minutes more. Add salt and pepper.

ANSWER - V. Martin, Springfield, Va., requested a recipe for Mozzarella cheese. Thanks Mary Martin, Fleetwood, for answering.

Mozzarella Cheese

Pour 1 gallon milk (can use skim) into container. add 3 tablespoons of buttermilk (unpasteurized) or 1 tablespoon vinegar to milk. Stir well and let set from 6 to 12 hours.

Heat the milk to 90 degrees and stir in ½ rennet tablet dissolved in one tablespoon cold water.

Remove from heat, cover, let set in warm spot for 30 minutes or until the curds are set.

Take your hands and break up into small pieces. Place over slow heat, stirring occasionally with your hands. When the curds begin to stick together, gather into mass and put into cheese press (can be poured into a colander line with a light weight material).

Press cheese for 30 minutes, adding more weight (ten pounds is sufficent) every five minutes. (Can use a jar and add water and compare it with water weight for proper amount).

Take cloth off cheese and put it back into whey. Heat slowly over low heat to slightly below boiling. Remove cheee from whey and put into cloth. Let cheese drain overnight.

Remove from cloth. Wrap and freeze until needed. Yields about 1 pound.

ANSWER - A reader requested a recipe for brown flour potato soup. Thanks Edna Z. Newswanger; Karen Zimmerman, Mertztown; and a reader who mailed in a recipe from the River Brethren cookbook that, which contains similar old recipes. The cookbook can be purchased from Mrs. Amos Conley, Box 801, R.D. #3, Mt. Joy, PA 17522.

Brown Flour Potato Soup

3-4 medium potatoes, diced
1 teaspoon salt
Pepper to taste
3 to 4 hard-cooked eggs
1½ -2 cups milk
3 tablespoons butter
3 heaping tablespoons flour
Parsley flakes, if desired

Boil potatoes in salted water until soft. Meanwhile, melt butter in a heavy skillet and add flour, stirring constantly over low heat until flour is browned. Combine with cooked potatoes, pepper and milk. Add chopped eggs and parsley if desire.

Brown Flour Potato Soup

8 medium potatoes
3 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
½ small onion, chopped
Dash of pepper
2 cups milk
6 slices Velveeta cheese
½ cup margarine
6 tablespoons flour

Cook chopped onion and potatoes covered with salted water until soft. Do not drain. Add milk, pepper and cheese. Simmer until cheese melts. Melt margarine in skillet, add flour stirring constantly over high heat until mixture turns golden brown. Add flour mixture all at once to potato mixture and stir to keep smooth. Add chopped eggs. Sprinkle with parsley if desired.

ROAST PORK SHOULDER

5-pound shoulder with skin
Salt, pepper to taste
1 large onion, chopped
1 teaspoon caraway seeds
1 can beer

Preheat oven to 375 degrees

Score the pork skin diagonally about ½-inch deep. Sprinkle the meat liberally with salt and pepper. Put meat skin side down in pan. Sprinkle chopped onion in bottom of pan and around meat. Sprinkle caraway seeds over onions. Add ½ inch of water in pan. Roast 1 hour. Remove pork from pan. Strain sauce into bowl and discard onion. Return pork to pan, skin side up. Roast for 2 hours, brushing often with beer. As roast cooks, deglaze pan often with the strained sauce. When roast is finished, remove skin and cut into pieces. Serve with sauce.

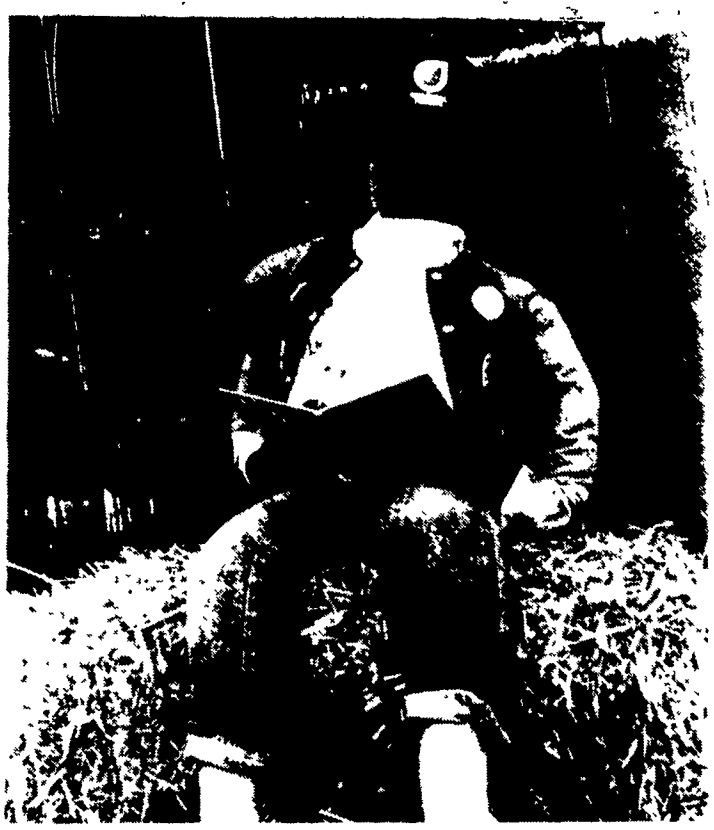
More Than A Scary Face

BY JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK — Sakes alive, it's a scarecrow! And, just in time for Halloween, no less.

No self-respecting crow would dare perch even close to the York R22 farm of the Rehabilitation Industrial Training Center. The RITC trains and works with area physically handicapped and mentally retarded adults at its downtown York facility and the farm north of the city.

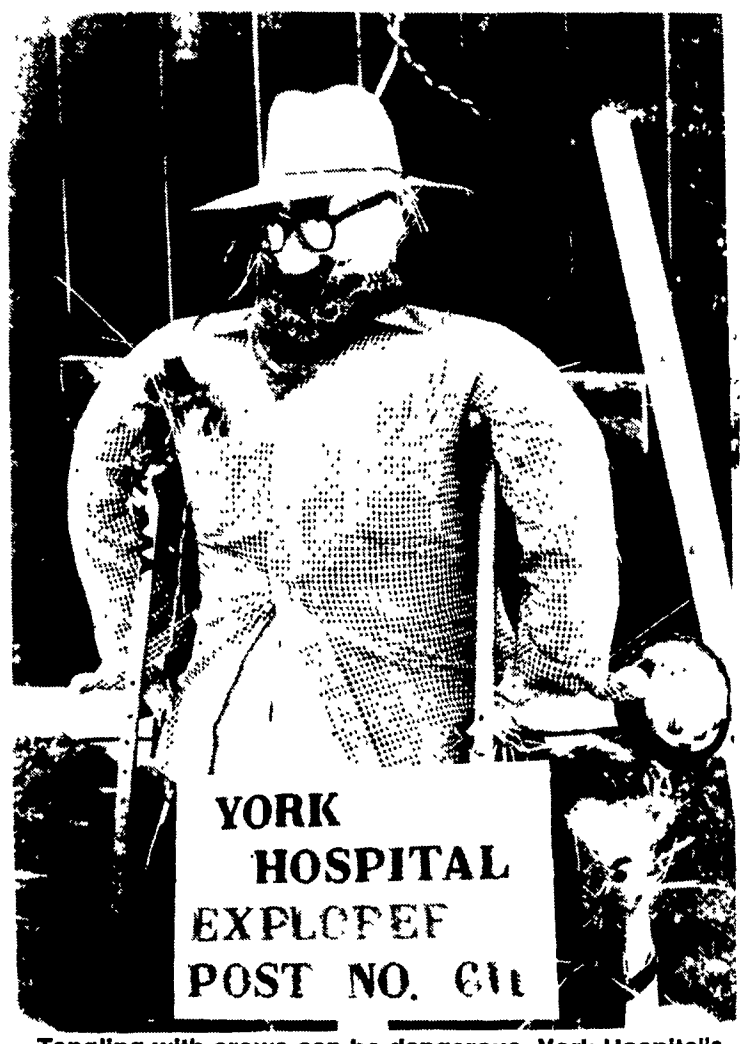
Junior League of York's Designer Scarecrow auction was devised as a benefit fundraiser for the RITC programs. Scarecrow entries were designed by local businesses and individuals, artfully displayed at the RITC farm and auctioned at the farm on October 22 to successful bidders -- perhaps with bird problems or more creative uses in mind. Whatever the reason, these scarecrows are more than a scary face. They're imagination and works of art mixed together.



Taking a break from bird watching, this youthful scarecrow props against the RITC farm's bank barn and relaxes with a good book.

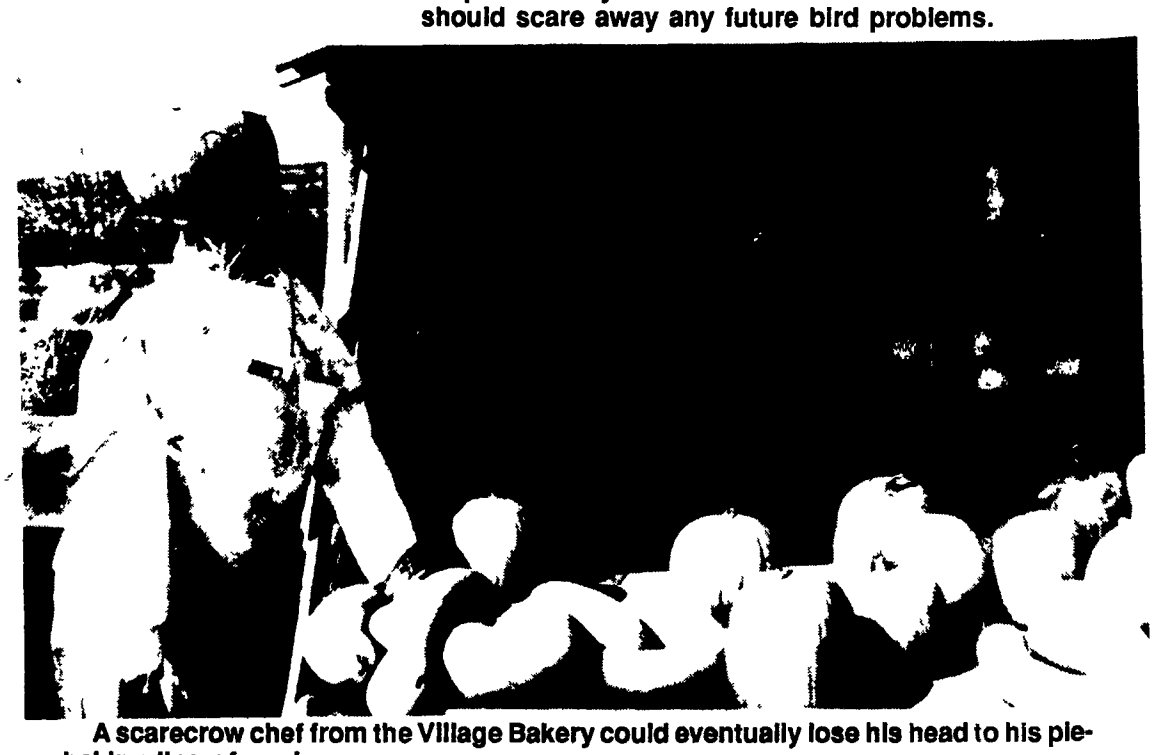
Even scarecrow mommies lug along all sorts of supplies for their babies, including a daddy to help carry it all. A scarecrow baby just wouldn't be comfortable without infant seat, baby blankets, and, of couse, throwaway diapers.

Stylish was the word for this handsome scarecrow, welcoming visitors in a party outfit of white satin jacket, flashy red bow tie and dapper walking stick.



Tangling with crows can be dangerous. York Hospital's Explorer Post scarecrow limps along on crutches and keeps his teddy bear close for comfort. Balloons overhead should scare away any future bird problems.

For those wanting a liberated, patriotic look to their garden, there was Miss Liberty scarecrow available.



A scarecrow chef from the Village Bakery could eventually lose his head to his pie-baking line of work.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Our church has several Bible Study groups. Twenty years ago they were called "Circles" but now are known as DABS groups. This stands for Dessert And Bible Study. They are not very well attended and the question is 'why'?

Twenty years ago, when I was a Circle leader, our group of young and older women grew to the point that it was difficult to meet in homes. Is the decline in attendance due to most women working outside their homes? Or might it be that they don't feel capable of taking a turn teaching?

We now have a woman in our church who teaches the leaders how to teach and present the lessons. Personally, I prefer to use my own method of teaching by using questions to get the people to participate in discussions. Although this teacher, whose classes I attended, did have some good ideas for innovative visual aids. These take time to prepare but they did receive some good comments.

Some groups seem to attract more people if they have one professional person teach each month. That way the members only need to attend and listen to the presentation.

I always say that the teacher learns more about the subject than the other people because she must spend so much time in preparation. After spending several hours of several days studying "Elijah", I certainly know a lot more about his life than I did before. The miracles he performed were certainly amazing and he made a place for himself not only in the old testament but also in the new testament.

As cold weather approaches, I'd like to catch up on reading material that has piled up all summer while I worked outside in my garden.

Lycoming County Outstanding 4-H'er

Cathy Murray of R.D.#5 Muncy and Erin Eck of R.D.#4 Williamsport were awarded the coveted Outstanding 4-H'er Awards at the Leader's Member's Recognition Dinner held recently at the Hepburnville Fire Hall. This is given to recognize 4-H members for their participation in 4-H activities and their contributions to the 4-H Program.

Cathy Murray, presently a student at Williamsport Area Community College has been a member for seven years. She is active in the Livestock area of 4-H and this year her market steer was chosen as grand champion at the Lycoming County Fair. Cathy has served as a Teen Leader and is the outgoing Treasurer of County Council. She has attended Penn State 4-H Week as a member of the livestock judging team and has been very active in church and school affairs.

Erin Eck, a 4-H member for eight years is presently secretary of the County Council. She is president of the Nisbet 4-H Club where she is a teen leader and active in Toastmaster's Public Speaking. She also has served as a counselor for Camp, attended Penn State 4-H Week, this year as a county representative in Public Speaking. Erin is active in her church and school. At South Williamsport High School she is a member of the jass band as well as band and chorus.

The awards were presented by 4-H Coordinator Tom Murphy and Program Assistant, Barbara Hutchison.

LEARN TO MANAGE MONEY

Do you have money when you need it? If not, you may need a little help in managing your finances. Managing money isn't easy -- but it's not impossible to learn if you know how to get started.

If you're ready to work on managing your money, here's some advice:

Planning ahead for future needs is the only way to develop financial stability now. Ask yourself three questions -- once you've answered them, you'll be well on your way to having a financial plan for the future.

The first question is "Where am I now?" In other words, you need to know your current net worth -- what you own (assets), minus what you owe (liabilities).

Start with your assets. Including cash, and the current market value of real estate, automobiles, clothing, coins, antiques, furnishings, and other personal property. Also include stocks, bonds, and the cash or loan value of insurance policies. Consider how these are owned and by whom.

Then list your liabilities, the negative side of the statement. The major liability of many families is their home mortgage. Balances due on charge accounts and installment purchases are also liabilities. So are taxes and all other bills yet to be paid in full. Subtract your liabilities from your assets to get your current net worth.

The second question to discuss as a family is "Where am I going?" What are the things you really want to accomplish? Be realistic when estimating your current and future net worth? Write your financial goals down in terms of dollars and cents. Then try to decide which goals are more important than others -- we all would like to do more than we will be able to do. Be sure the whole family takes part in setting these goals.

The third question to ask is "How am I going to get there?" This is the nuts and bolts of managing your money. First, calculate yours and your family's daily, monthly, and periodic expenses. This helps see where your money is going.

Plan to set aside some money for emergencies so that you're not making major financial decisions in times of crisis.

The next step is to protect you and your family from the loss of your income through unemployment, disability, illness, or death. You will also need protection from the loss of your personal or real property.

Once you have set aside part of your income to cover these expenses, you can begin to establish a realistic savings plan to meet your long term and short term financial goals.

Managing money wisely means knowing how much you have, knowing what you want to do with it, and knowing how you are distributing your current and future income to meet your financial needs.

Nutrients, Calories And The Microwave

Cooking with microwaves probably won't significantly increase the nutrient content of your meals, but it may reduce calories.

By substituting water for butter or shortening in food preparation, you can cut down on the calories.

The nutritional value of foods cooked with microwaves is changed in other ways. If you cook vegetables in a lot of water and discard that water after cooking, you are throwing out vitamins and minerals which have leaked out of the vegetable. With the microwave, little or no water is needed, so less vitamin loss occurs.

Vitamins are destroyed by air, light, and heat, so the shorter the cooking time with less intense heat, the more vitamins are retained. Some research reports indicate that more Vitamin C is retained in broccoli, tomatoes, cabbage, and more thiamine and riboflavin remain in meat when those foods are cooked in a microwave oven.

The lack of the browning reaction means less lysine (the amino acid which combines with a sugar molecule and produces the brown colors) has been tied up and protein quality may be slightly higher. This factor is eliminated when a browning pan is used.

Although microwave cooking doesn't add to the nutritional quality of a particular food, it can help that food retain its optimal nutrient potential.

State Horse Show

Twelve Luzerne County 4-H members will be competing at the State 4-H Horse Show to be held October 28-30 at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg. More than 500 contestants from across Pennsylvania will be vieing for awards in the various performance and production classes. Extension agent, Donna Grey, notes that in order to compete in the State Show, members and their horses must first qualify at county and district competition.

Those that will be representing Luzerne County are: Joanne Boyle, Dallas; Linda Tomolonis, Shickshinny; Elizabeth Finn, Dallas; Melanie Raspen, Hunlock Creek; Laurie Barna, Dallas; Melanie Brill, Sweet Valley; Kristin Nardone, Wilkes-Barre; Leah Garlan, W. Pittston; Carrie Petiak, Wilkes-Barre; Marla Parente, Harvey's Lake; Amy Honeywell, Hunlock Creek; and Joanne Tregaskis, Dallas.

About 6,000 youth across the state belong to 4-H horse clubs which features members horse management, care, grooming and nutrition.

Patricia J. Keller-Conner, director and curator of the Heritage Center of Lancaster County, prepares for the upcoming quilt harvest.

Quilt Harvest To Uncover A Sampling of History

BY LOU ANN GOOD

LANCASTER — Would you like to know more about your ancestors? How did the lifestyles of moderate and well-off women differ from the poor during the 18th and 19th century?

Perhaps you do know the histories of your great-grandparents, but when you die, your memories die with you and much information about the past is lost if not recorded.

An upcoming quilt harvest slated for the Lancaster area is intended to prevent family histories from being lost. And it is expected to give a representative sampling about the lifestyles of women during the past centuries.

Director and Curator for the Heritage Center and the Quilt Harvest is Patricia J. Keller-Conner who believes quilts offer a regional social and historical context. She said, "Outstanding workmanship and quality of design has long distinquished heirloom quilts stitched in Lancaster County. In the past they have been valued mainly for their exceptional graphic design." She expects quilts viewed separately and as a whole, can teach us about the past. For example, patterns and textiles used to complete the quilts can reveal the social standing of the seamtresses.

From October 1988 through June 1989, a series of quilt documentation events are scheduled at ten sites throughout the county. Everyone is encouraged to bring quilts and related pieced and quilted items that were made prior to World War II.

Photographers will photograph quilts. Information will be recorded on the age, condition, materials, workmanship and fabrics. Any history known about the quilt will also be recorded.

On-site professional textile conservators will answer questions about textile care and preservation techniques.

The Heritage Center promises confidentiality. Conner said, "We will hold identities in strict confidence. Only two staff people have access to names and the pictures." To assure anoymonity, quilts will be assigned a number. Data gathered through the documentation will be incorporated into the Heritage Center's growing research library.

In the spring of 1990, the Center plans an exhibition of quilts prepared for marriage, based on information collected during the documentation.

"We do not want to simply view the quilts as works of art and separate them from the history that accompanies them," Conner stressed. "It's valuable to know whether a quilt was passed from daughter to daughter or made for hire. We want to know the relationship of the quilt to its owner so that we can learn about customs and life during those years.

The Heritage Center would like to examine quiltmakers' diaries, journals, letters, photographs and portraits, as well as quilting patterns or templates used before 1942.

Quilted items will be examined on a first come basis. No monetary appraisals of items will be made, nor will persons be asked to sell. There is no charge for the service.

The Lancaster County Quilt Harvest schedule follows:

•Lititz Recreation Center, Lititz, November 19.

•Southern Market Center, Lancaster, December 3.

•First Presbyterian Church, Strasburg, January 14.

•Elizabethtown College Alumnae Center, Elizabethtown, February 4.

•Hoffman Building, Quarryville, February 25.

•Lancaster Mennonite High School, Lancaster, May 13.

Who Won $7,000 in Egg Recipe Contest

HARRISBURG (Dauphin) — A Fayette County woman with more than 70 years' cooking experience has captured the 1988 Pennsylvania Egg Recipe Contest and the top prize of $1,000.

Mrs. Kathryn Krofcheck of RD 1, Adah, entered her favorite egg dish, "Zucchini Bars," and won the right to represent Pennsylvania in the national egg recipe contest, which features $7,000 in prize money.

Mrs. Krofcheck was one of five finalists whose entries were prepared by home economists during the final round of the contest in Lancaster. Over 850 recipe entries were received.

"The panel of judges had a difficult time declaring a winner," said Elaine Cara of the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation. "All five recipes were outstanding, probably the best we ever had."

The other finalists were Marlene McCall and Suzana Welken, both of Mars, Butler County; Colleen Domovich of Carmichaels, Greene County; and Mrs. Daniel Yandric of Middletown, Dauphin County. Each received a $100 prize as runners-up.

The contest was sponsored by PDA, Pennsylvania Egg Marketing Association and the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation.

Mrs. Krofcheck's winning recipe follows:

Zucchini Bars

1 cup pepperoni, sliced thin and cut in quarters
3 cups grated zucchini
1 cup biscuit mix
½ cup grated Parmesan cheese
½ chopped onion
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon oregano
1 chopped garlic clove
2 teaspoons parsley
½ green pepper, diced
½ cup skim milk
6 eggs, beaten
½ cup grated mozzarella cheese
2 tablespoons oil

Mix all ingredients except mozzarella cheese. Bake in 9x13-inch pan at 350 degrees for 30-50 minutes. Halfway through baking, sprinkle mozzarella cheese on top. Let stand five minutes before cutting into bars. Serves 6.

Farm Women Society 15 Celebrates 50 Years

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster) — Eighty members and former members with friends and spouses gathered at Rhoads Restuarant, Quarryville, for a banquet honoring the 50 year anniversary of Lancaster Farm Women Society 15 on September 29.

The group was first organized in September 1938 by the county society president, Adaline Edwards, Kirkwood. Officers installed at the first meeting included: Anna Schreiber, president; Jane Chase Ferguson, vice president; Elma Maule, secretary; and Sara Holmes, treasurer.

For the past 50 years, the society has been meeting on the third Thursday of every month. Over the years, the society has traveled to many areas of the United States and Canada. They have purchased flag and playground equipment for the Bart-Colerain school, helped the youth baseball team and the Colerain Park, Kirkwood, the library, and the Solanco band. Contributions wre maded to schools, fire victims, sick and needy people. Members made cancer pads for the county cancer society and donated $400 toward the Quarryville Medical Center. Annually, the society presents an award to a senior FFA'er and a senior home economic student.

In 1950, through the efforts of the society's president, Sadie Greenleaf, and with Farm Women Societies 11, 16, 17, 20 and 21, the Quarryville Community Fair was organized. The societies provided the food, work and income to finance the first fairs.

A 50th anniversary booklet was compiled and sold by Emily Reath and Sadie Greenleaf. It includes pictures, highlights, activities, programs and trips the society participated in over the years.

Presently, the society has an annual budget of approximately $2,000 and 42 active members. Officers include: Nancy Shoemaker, president; Colleen Shoemaker, vice president; Bonnie Herr, secretary; Doris Herr, corresponding secretary; and Isabel Ferree, treasurer.

Cheese Is For All Diets

HARRISBURG — October is "Cheese Month", and in Pennsylvania -- the nation's sixth highest cheese-producing state -- the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program is emphasizing not only the extensive variety and nutritional value of cheese, but its application to dietary concerns, as well.

Cheese is the solid portion (curd) of milk, separated from the liquid portion (whey) by heating and adding harmless cultures (fermentation). Cheese therefore contains, in concentrated form, most of the nutrients found in milk, such as calcium, protein, phosphorus and Vitamin B.

A one-ounce serving of cheese is generally 100 calories --- but these are "nutrient-dense," not "empty" calories, which makes cheese an important part of all weight control programs. Cheese is also lower in lactose than milk, so it is an excellent source of nutrition for people who are lactose-sensitive.

It is recommended that 30% of a person's total daily caloric intake be comprised of fats: 10% from saturated fats (animal fats that are solid at room temperature), 10% from polyunsaturated fats (vegetable oils), and 10% from monounsaturated fat (olive oil).

The milkfat (saturated) content of cheese varies according to the type and variety of cheese, and according to Dairy Council, Inc., supported in Pennsylvania by the PDPP, the milkfat content varies from less than one-half percent per ounce in plain Cottage cheese made from skim milk, to at least 33% in Cream cheese made from whole milk and cream. A low fat cheese usually has a higher percentage of protein to fat; a higher fat cheese -- as with any food with higher saturated fat levels -- usually has higher cholesterol levels.

The body naturally manufactures 70% of our cholesterol -- a waxy substance necessary for the proper functioning of many organs -- but the latest research indicates excessively high blood cholesterol levels can be modified by quitting smoking, proper exercise, and reducing the intake of saturated fats. Low fat cheeses today are in plentiful supply and come in a variety of types.

"Natural" cheeses are those that have not been processed by blending and pasteurizing (heating at high temperatures for a long period of time). They are categorized by their hardness (hard grating, hard, semisoft and soft), and by their flavor (mild, mellow and robust, or strong). Generally, natural cheeses, such as Cheddar, Swiss and Roquefort, contain about eight to nine grams of fat per ounce. Processed cheeses, which are heated to the point where all further ripening stops, contain about seven to nine grams of fat per ounce. Cheese foods and spreads have six to seven grams of fat per ounce.

People who are concerned about the relationship between saturated fats and cholesterol can now find many low fat, lower cholesterol cheeses that can be sliced, cubed, melted, grated,

Lebanon County Extension Classes

LEBANON — Holiday planning is just beginning! An array of festive, exciting ideas to personalize your holiday traditions with family and friends is planned by the Lebanon 1988 Extension Holiday Program. The excitement from our co-chairpersons, Lilly Hershey and Christenna Stamm and a dedicated committee of 25 volunteers has created a day of fun for everyone.

Register early. The audience each day will be limited to the first 300 who preregister. Reservation is by check - NO PHONE RESERVATIONS WILL BE ACCEPTED.

Make check payable to Extension Special Fund, mail to Lebanon County Extension Office, 400 S. 84th St., Lebanon, Pa. 17042. Include a self-addressed stamped envelope to receive your tickets.

YOU ARE INVITED...

1988 Lebanon Co. Penn State Cooperative Extension Homemaker's Holiday Program

November 8, 9, 10, 11
Prescott Fire Hall, Lebanon
THEME:
"The Personal Touch"

The same program will be repeated Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Doors will open and registration begins at 8 a.m. The program will also be presented in divided form on Wednesday and Thursday evening from 7:00-9:00 P.M., with registration beginning at 6:30 P.M. You can attend both evening programs or only one evening-see registration form. The registration fee of $3 will cover program costs for the hall, speakers, printing, plus cookie and beverage.

Reservations are by check. TELEPHONE REGISTRATIONS WILL NOT BE ACCEPTED. They are accepted in the order received. When the limit for the day is filled, you will be shifted to your second choice. We will attempt to reach you by phone if there is a problem. You will receive your ticket by mail. BE SURE TO SEND US A SELF-ADDRESSED STAMPED ENVELOPE WITH YOUR RESERVATION CHECK.

Lunch will be available at the Fire Hall for those who make advance reservations (see registration form). The menu will be half a ham salad sandwich on white bread, half a sliced turkey sandwich, with lettuce on whole wheat bread, raw vegetables with dip, pasta salad, carrot cake and coffee, tea, milk or punch. The cost is $2.75. If you'd rather, you may bring your own lunch or go out.

DEMONSTRATIONS

During lunch, ribbon box making demonstrations will be conducted by members of the Flower Club. Quilters Guild will also present demonstrations. You will be able to see demonstrations of quicky serger gifts by our Master Clothing and Textile Volunteers and the Smockers Guild.

SALE POLICY

The purpose of this program is to provide inspiration and ideas for you to be creative. The Flower Club will again have arrangement "makings" for sale. No other sales will be permitted. If you sell craft items, you may display one with your name and address so people can contact you later. If you have a pattern to share, bring a cardboard model to trace. NO SALES PLEASE!

SEAT POLICY

Early birds deserve good seats-no fair saving seats for late arriving friends. Some people bring lap trays to make eating easier and to use for note taking. Please bring note taking materials. We will have instructions for lots of items, but not all, so come prepared. If you are handicapped, use a walker or wheelchair, contact the Extension Office for special arrangements for seating.

LET'S SHARE WITH OTHERS:

DONATIONS FOR THE FOOD BANK

The Planning Committee suggests that each of us bring an item to be donated to the Food Bank. Especially needed are soups, any kind and all sizes; pasta products, canned fruits, canned meats or fish, disposable diapers, and personal care products for men and women. If you prefer to contribute money to the Food Bank, a box will be provided for your gift.

1988 HOLIDAY PROGRAM

9:00 a.m. "Say 'Cheese... Please'... Holiday Entertaining and Garnishes"- Scott L. Aungst, Owner of the Connoisseur Connection. Holiday foods become a very special part of our celebrating. Scott will share a variety of ideas with cheese, dinners, finger foods, garnishes and centerpieces. You will certainly be ready to personalize your entertaining. (Presented daily and Wednesday evening).

10:00 a.m. "Holiday Keepsakes"- Dennis G. Mellott, Floral Designer, Lebanon. Fresh greens, flowers and dried materials can be arranged in many ways. The beauty of the holiday comes forth in color, fragrance and design. An impressive door decoration, a table centerpiece or a hearthside basket all express a special holiday message. Messages you can create yourself that will last for months ahead. (Presented daily on Wednesday evening).

11:00 a.m. "A Tisket, A Tasket A Holiday Gift Basket"- Christenna

Thomas Celebrates 25 Years At Penn State

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre) — In 1963, Doris Thomas, who was then the head of the home economics department at Solanco High School, was offered the position of home economist for Penn State Cooperative Extension in Lancaster County. Though she knew little about cooperative extension, she accepted the challenge. This year, Thomas celebrates her 25 years with Penn State.

"I've never been sorry that I made the change," Thomas says. "There have been lots of changes in the job through the years but the most exciting one has to do with technology. I never dreamed that I would someday have my own computer on my desk."

While Thomas is responsible for the entire family living program in Lancaster County, she is probably best known for her leadership in the area of food and nutrition. A supervising home economist to the Expanded Food and Nutrition Program since 1971, she has seen the program increase and decrease as funding shifted. Today she supervises a 14-person unit covering Lancaster, York and Chester counties.

Thomas writes a weekly news column for five county newspapers, a column for Lancaster Farming and one for Lancaster New Era. Her regular radio broadcasts also have been an important way of reaching the public. She has been a member of the extension news team at the Pennsylvania Farm Show.

Thomas has worked closely with other service agencies to establish a Human Service Information System in the county. Extension was the lead agency to develop a coordinated plan for all food and nutrition services in the county, eliminating duplication and gaps in the system. The joint plan has served as a model for other counties.

Doris Thomas

Thomas says she finds it very gratifying to have feedback from the families she helps. "It makes you feel that you've done something worthwhile when people call back to thank you for information that helped them with a problem."

Thomas also is pleased when many of the outstanding 4-H members she has worked with study to become home economists and return to the extension program as 4-H leaders and teachers. "They say that they return to pay back the time and help they received when they were growing up. They help to keep the system strong."

A graduate of Hood College in Maryland, Thomas earned a master's degree from Penn State, Capital College in Harrisburg. She is a past president of the Pennsylvania Association of Extension Home Economists and in 1987 was elected to a two-year term as a second vice president of the National Association of Extension Home Economists. This year she filled the post of hospitality chairman for the NAEHE annual meeting in Pittsburgh.

In her leisure time, Thomas likes to sew, read and garden. She lives in Lancaster with her daughter, Debora, a manager for the McDonald Corporation.

Stamm, Craft Enthusiast, Lebanon. Christenna's back to share with us in this year's program a variety of gift ideas that can be attractively presented in baskets. (Presented daily and on Thursday evening).

11:30 a.m. "Light Up Your Holidays"- Letie Schadler, Interim Regional Director. How to lighten up on salt, fat and sugar in holiday meals. We all know we should do it, but how do we? Here is a quick how to... (Presented daily and on Thursday evening).

12:00-1:00 p.m. Lunch. During lunch please enjoy the many demonstration tables; drawing and Food Bank table, ornament board, and gift display. Flower Club, Bow Making, Quilters Guild, Smockers Guild, Master Clothing & Textile Volunteers- Grace Ann McMullen and Edith Stuart with "Quickie Serger Gifts", American Heart Association with the 4th Edition of the American Heart Association Cookbook, Sign up areas for 4-H and Cooperative Extension materials.

1:00 p.m. "Family Traditions Under Construction"- Margaret Sowers, Extension Home Economist. The holidays are special family times. Each family member can share ideas, talents and time to create a memorable celebration. Family traditions help build family bonds, give a feeling of belonging and specialness and are very important especially to young children. Margie will share the "building blocks" helpful to constructing your personal family traditions. (Presented daily and on Wednesday evening).

1:30 p.m. "Create and Celebrate"- Sherry Kalbach, Creative Craft Lecturer. Sherry's back - for her 10th visit to our program. Her presentation is designed for those of us who love the holidays, who love to create and buy and do, but who typically run out of time, money and ideas. Join Sherry as she shares her ideas for turning the "Holly-daze" into a creative celebration for you, your family and friends. (Presented daily and on Thursday evening).

2:30 p.m. Door Prizes. You MUST be present to win or have appointed someone to pick up your prize.

Surf And Turf At Chesapeake

SYKESVILLE, Md. — The Maryland Beef Council will offer mouth-watering smoked beef sandwiches to enhance the many seafood delights at this year's Chesapeake Appreciation Days, Saturday, October 29 through Sunday, October 30, 1988, 9 a.m. - 5 p.m., in Sandy Point State Park at the foot of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge.

Chesapeake Appreciation Days honors the working watermen of the Chesapeake Bay and highlights their history and the tools of their trade. Featured attractions will be: skipjack sailing races, commercial waterboat docking contests, live entertainment, and fresh Maryland food.

Smoked beef sandwiches will be available at the Maryland Beef Council tent, and free recipe booklets will be given out while they last. For further information contact Dr. Scott Barao at 301-454-1513 or Betty Duty at 301-269-6622.

4-H HAPPENINGS

Junior Dairyman Contest

The Milk Squirts 4-H Club from Somerset County amassed 900 points to win the 4-H team division of the Junior Dairyman Contest at the Farm Show Complex. The contest was held in conjunction with the 25th Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show.

The Milk Squirts have been very active in dairy contests and are all under 16 years of age. Team members Thaddeus Will, Ronald Kimmel, Jennifer Welch, and Mathew Welch earned $50 for their effort.

Runner-up in the 4-H division was the Westmoreland Dairy Bowl from Westmoreland County. Team members Todd Frescura, Chris Mazzariello, Renee Miller, and Wade Johnson scored 856 points, good for a $40 prize.

The Conrad Weiser FFA team from Berks County scored 884 points in their contest division. Team members Kirk Sattazahn, Chris Blatt, John Kleinfelter, and Nathan Snyder earned $50 for their club. Another Berks County team, Tulpehocken, scored second in the contest with team members Duane Stump, Mike Forry, and John Bicksler.

Kirk Sattazahn of Womelsdorf in Berks County, earned $100 for his top score in the individual rankings. Chris Blatt of Robesonia placed second, followed by Matt Welch, and Thaddeus and Duane Stump.

A total of 46 individuals and 11 teams competed in the second annual contest, open to 4-H club members, FFA members and agricultural high school students. Contestants were tested on their knowledge of meat identification, feed identification, forage identification and evaluation, veterinary equipment, milk flavor identification, dairy marketing, dairy management and USDA sire summaries. Contestants then had to judge several live cows and heifers in the dairy barn. The top ten scorers were interviewed by a panel of judges on three related subjects.

Contest superintendent Bruce Kreider said he "was very pleased with the enthusiasm of the contestants. This was not an easy contest, and it required a much broader knowledge than just judging cattle." Kreider works for the Lebanon County Extension Office.

The contest was sponsored by Pfizer Agricultural Division from New York, NY.

State Dairy Judging Forum

Three hundred forty-three contestants participated in last month's 14th annual Pennsylvania Dairy Judging Forum for 4-H and FFA students held in conjunction with the 25th Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show. The forum was established as an educational activity for 4-H and FFA youth, intended to give them valuable experience in evaluation and decision making.

The high individual scorer in the 4-H division was Kristen Metzker of Martinsburg with 377 points. Kristen belongs to the Blair County 4-H Club. Runner-up was Ryan Riedel of Corry, a member of the Warren County 4-H Club, with 349 points. Chris Reichard of the Franklin County 4-H placed third; Stephanie Wagner of the Lebanon 4-H placed fourth; and Brian Spigelmyer of the Sunnyside 4-H Chapter placed fifth.

Tim Lehman of the Cumberland Valley FFA narrowly won the FFA individual competition over Linda Smith of the Northern Bedford FFA chapter. Only one point separated the two contestants. Placing third was Dean Durst for the Brothersvalley, FFA, placing fourth was Eric Jordanof the Red Lion Area FFA, and placing fifth was Jamie Hartman of the James Buchannan FFA.

The Warren 4-H team scored a victory with 993 points over the Crawford 4-H with 980 points. The Warren team members included Rod Curtis, Jared Lindell, Ron Riedel and Tim Ludwick.

James Buchannan FFA pulled a slim lead over the Troy FFA to win the FFA team competition. The James Buchannan members included Tim Stoner, Jamie Hartman, Mike Daugherty and Greg Weller. Northern Bedford FFA placed third, Cumberland Valley FFA was fourth, and the Solanco FFA was fifth.

WORKAHOLICS

Nothing works harder than a Kubota B and L Series tractor. With tractors ranging from 10 to 40 PTO Horsepower, you're sure to find one that meets your needs. You'll find them at work on farms, in parks, nurseries, estate homes and even on construction sites. A choice of 2- or 4-wheel drive on most models and a hefty 3-point hitch.

So if you're looking for hard workers, look no further than a Kubota tractor.

Horsewoman Wins Colt

A few years ago Billie Jo Conrad of Georgetown, Del., was thrown from a pony and never wanted to ride horseback again. Now the 13-year-old 4-H'er is the 1988 winner of a quarter horse weanling from famous sausage-maker Bob Evans.

Every year the restauranteur invites one teenager from each of the 12 states where his products are sold to a Western-style round-up on his 1,000-acre farm in Ohio. The teens are chosen on the basis of citizenship and involvement in 4-H. All return home with their own quarter horse weanling.

This year's roundup, complete with campfires and trail rides, was held September 9-11.

Billie Jo has been in 4-H for five years and in the 4-H horse program for two. She belongs to the Just Kidding Around 4-H Club. She is also a member of the Delaware Appaloosa Youth Association (DAYA) and has won many ribbons in 4-H and DAYA horse shows.

The horse she won is an eight-month-old chestnut colt with a star, a stripe and a snip, and a white front foot. He's named Split Image Wimpy, and Billy Jo plans to train and ride him for pleasure Western style.

Billie Jo, an eighth grader at Sussex Central Junior High School, has had a lot of experience working with horses. She helps her parents take care of their two ponies and four horses on the Conrads' Georgetown farm. She has taken riding lessons for two years at Martin's Horse Farm in Milton.

Bob Evans winners are expected to keep their foals for at least two years, but Billie Jo would like "Wimpy" to be her very own horse permanently.

McKean County Fair

The brother-sister team of Justin and Allyson Comes, children of Joe and Trudy Comes of Smethport, captured the championship beef honors at the McKean Co. Fair, respectively taking the grand and reserve titles. Their animals also were rate-of-gain co-champions with an average daily gain for the 274 day feeding period of 2.62 pounds per day. Justin's 1,240-pound Simmental-cross grand champion sold to Gleason Distributing Company of Bradford for $1.55 per pound. Allyson's 1,250-pound reserve champion, also a Simmental-cross, sold to Vale View Farms, Rixford, for $1.60 per pound.

Ten steers sold averaged $1.5 with the champions and $.90 per pound excluding the champions.

Two brothers divided the championship honors in the market swine competition. The son of Dan and Cheri Detrick of Kane, Robbie Detrick sold his 212-pound Yorkshire grand champion to First National Bank of Port Allegany for $2.30 per pound. His brother, Steve's 209-pound Yorkshire also sold for $2.30 per pound to Pine Valley Nursery of Port Allegany.

Nineteen hogs sold averaged $1.45 per pound with the champions and $1.35 per pound excluding the champions.

Shannon Safford's 141-pound Suffolk champion heavyweight went on to capture the grand champion lamb title. Buyer Penn Bank of Brafdford paid a hefty sum of $4 per pound.

Rae Ann Kleisath of Smethpe sold her 126-pound reserv champion Suffolk lamb to Hea waters Farm Credit of C port for $2.20 per pound.

Twenty-three lambs sold for a average $1.80 per pound wi champions and $1.70 per pou excluding the champions.

Total receipts of the sale w $23,220.65. A total of 42 buye purchased the 52 animals offer for sale. The 4-H'ers sponsored pig roast for the buyers in appre ation of their support.

Other results of the livestoc show featured Matt Van Giesen Kane as swine rate-of-gai champion with a 100-day averag daily gain of 1.85 pounds per da Lamb rate-of-gain champion wa Chad Kleisath of Smethport with 100-day average daily gain of .8 pounds per day. Fourteen-year-ol Pam Bosworth of Eldred garnere both master fitter and maste showman honors in beef. Pam als was the master showman in shee Master fitter for sheep wa 11-year-old Shannon Safford wi her grand champion lamb. Mast fitter in the swine show wa 16-year-old Dave Stanko of Ka in his first year of showing. Te year-old Shawn Ackley of Ka took his first-place junior sho manship all the way to mast showman in swine.

MICROWAVE MINUTES

By JOYCE BATTCHER

Just rinse a winter squash, pierce it in several spots and pop it into your microwave. Acorn, buttercup, butternut or any other variety is easy to microwave.

Cooking time varies, but a medium squash (about 1½ to 2 pounds) takes about 8 to 12 minutes. Turn squash over once during cooking. When done, the skin looks glossy and most spots feel soft. Then let squash stand 10 minutes or until easy to handle — small undone spots will finish cooking during this time. Peel and slice or cut in half, remove seeds, add seasonings, reheat if necessary, and serve.

Microwaving time for squash varies according to size, freshness and variety. Of course, large squash takes longer to cook than smaller squash. Fresh homegrown squash take longer than store-bought squash. Acorn squash take longer than most other varieties. Butternut squash (the pear-shaped squash with pale-yellow skin) gets done faster in the larger seed-filled part. So when that part feels soft, cut it off. Cover the cut edge of the undone meatier part with plastic wrap and return it to the microwave to finish cooking.

Microwaving a large whole squash works well — as long as you turn it over and rotate it several times during cooking. A seven or eight-pound butternut or buttercup squash microwaves in about 35 minutes. It must be turned over and rotated two or three times during cooking time. Then it needs another 15 to 20 minutes of standing time. I find microwaving even these huge squash is faster and easier than baking or conventional steaming.

Another method for a very large squash is to microwave it about five minutes to slightly soften it, then cut it in wedges, remove seeds, cover cut-edges with plastic wrap (or put wedges in a large covered casserole) and microwave.

If a recipe calls for cubes of uncooked squash, microwave a whole squash a few minutes to slightly soften the outside and it will be easier to peel and cube.

When you need a small amount of squash, it's often most convenient to cook a whole squash, rather than struggle to cut through hard skin and pulp. After microwaving the whole squash, remove what you don't need and refrigerate it for a few days. Or peel, mash pulp and freeze pulp in a tightly covered freezer container for up to one year.

All-In-One Squash Dinner is a winter squash recipe for a hearty meal-in-one. This dinner for four is done in about a half hour when you make use of standing time. After microwaving squash, remove them from the microwave and let them stand for about ten minutes to finish cooking. Microwave the potato next. Remove it from the microwave and let it stand the required 5 minutes to finish cooking while you microwave the rest of the filling. By that time the squash can be cut and seeded. (If you're delayed a bit, cover cut-side of squash with foil or turn squash cut-side down on a plate to keep them hot.) Round out this easy autumn dinner with crisp bread sticks and apple cake.

Maple-Glazed Squash calls for cooked cubes of squash. Any variety works well. Cooked acorn squash could be used. To keep acorn squash in pieces, remove pulp in spoonfuls and stir gently when adding the other ingredients.

All-In-One Squash Dinner

2 medium acorn squash (1½-2 pounds each)
1 large potato
½ pound lean ground beef
½ cup chopped onion
½ teaspoon dried crumbled rosemary
¼ teaspoon dried thyme
Salt and pepper to taste
1¼ cup (5 ounces) shredded Muenster or Monterey Jack cheese

Pierce skin of each squash in several spots; place in microwave, allowing at least 1 inch between squash. Microwave (High) 15 to 21 minutes, turning squash over halfway through cooking and rearranging if necessary for even cooking. When done, squash feels tender in most spots and skin looks glossy. Let stand 10 minutes or until cool enough to handle.

Meanwhile, pierce potato in several spots. Microwave (High) 3 to 5 minutes or until it feels barely tender when center is pierced with a fork. Let stand about 5 minutes.

While potato stands to finish cooking, place ground beef, onion, rosemary and thyme in microwave-safe 1-quart casserole. Microwave (High) 3 to 3½ minutes, stirring once, until ground beef is no longer pink. (Do not drain if using lean or extra lean ground beef.)

While ground beef mixture cooks, cut each squash in half and scoop out seeds; place squash halves upright in a microwave-safe baking dish or in 4 individual 2-cup casseroles. If necessary, cover with foil and set aside.

Cube potato (peel, if desired) and add to cooked ground beef mixture. Stir in 1 cup of cheese; season to taste with salt and pepper. Divide mixture between squash shells. Sprinkle with remaining cheese. Microwave (High) 2 to 3 minutes or until cheese melts. Makes 4 servings.

For two servings: Pierce and place 1 squash in microwave. Microwave (High) 8 to 11 minutes. Continue as above, microwaving a small potato for 3 to 5 minutes, cooking ¼ pound lean ground beef, ¼ cup chopped onion, ¼ teaspoon rosemary and ¼ teaspoon thyme for 1 to 2 minutes. Stir in ½ cup shredded cheese; fill squash halves and sprinkle each with 1 tablespoon cheese. Microwave (High) 1 to 2 minutes or until cheese topping melts.

Each serving — 357 calories, 23g protein, 19g fat, 26g carbohydrate, 227mg sodium, 71mg cholesterol.

Maple-Glazed Squash

1 small buttercup, butternut or other winter squash (about 2 pounds)
¼ cup butter or margarine
½ cup maple syrup
¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
Salt and pepper to taste

Pierce skin of whole squash in several spots. (If using a piece of large squash, cover cut surface with plastic wrap.) Microwave (High) 7 to 11 minutes or until squash feels almost tender and skin looks glossy, turning squash over halfway through cooking. Let stand 10 minutes or until cool enough to handle. Cut in half, remove seeds and cut in ¾ -inch pieces. (There should be about 4 cups.)

Place squash in microwave-safe 2-quart casserole; set aside. Melt butter in microwave-safe measure by microwaving (High) 20 to 30 seconds. Stir in syrup and nutmeg; pour over squash. Stir gently to coat squash pieces. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Cover with casserole lid or waxed paper. Microwave (High) 4 to 6 minutes, stirring once, or until hot. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Each serving — ⅙ of recipe: 133 calories, 1g protein, 6g fat, 21g carbohydrate, 73mg sodium, 17mg cholesterol.

National Study Supports Agenda For FFA

ALEXANDRIA, VA — "Most Americans know very little about agriculture, its social and economic significance in the United States, and particularly, its link to human health and environmental quality," according to the recently published study of agricultural education in secondary schools by the National Research Board of the National Academy of Sciences.

To achieve a "vision of what agricultural education is and should become at the secondary level if a competitive agricultural industry is to survive in this country," the national study of agricultural education outlined a set of recommendations for vocational agriculture and the FFA that builds "on the programs and approaches of the past but goes beyond them in scope and content." The challenge given to the FFA and vocational agriculture is being met with innovative and aggressive initiatives in agriscience, marketing, and international agriculture.

The stakes are considerable. According to government figures cited by the study, "U.S. industries that serve agriculture by producing, processing, marketing, and preparing food and fiber products for consumers account for about $700 billion in economic activity each year, which is about 16.5 percent of the gross national product." Some 20 percent of the nation's workforce is engaged in occupations directly related to agriculture.

After documenting "disturbing trends," the study committee advocated a national goal of achieving "agricultural literacy," a task which would extend the teaching of agricultural concepts to all levels of public education and broaden the scope of vocational agriculture and FFA programs.

"This study represents a landmark in the evolution of agricultural education in the United States," said Dr. Larry D. Case, national FFA advisor, "because it makes three important statements: agriculture is important to our nation; education in and about agriculture is vital for all Americans; and vocational agriculture and the FFA have made -- and are continuing to make -- major contributions to both the industry and the cause of agricultural literacy."

The current model of vocational agriculture, developed over the past 60 years, combines the three elements of classroom and laboratory instruction, a supervised occupational experience program for each student, and participation in the FFA, the organization for students of vocational agricultue. Its success has implications for all of education. "Vocational agriculture characteristically includes many of the activities and approaches currently recommended for the improvement of secondary education in general: training for leadership and entrepreneurship, longer periods of time devoted daily to education, a problem-saving approach to learning, high quality teachers, and greater cooperation with the private sector," said Stuart Rosenfeld, Deputy Director of the Southern Growth Board and a member of the Academy study panel.

The study, commenced almost four years ago, made specific recommendations that vocational agriculture programs and the FFA should continue to broaden their activities and programs of instruction and go well beyond providing education in production agriculture alone. A number of innovative programs, including Walter Biddle Saul High School in Philadelphia and The Chicago High School for the Agricultural Sciences, were cited as "successful, high-quality, agriculture education programs that have combined strengths of the traditional vocational program model with new approaches and broadened curricula." The two programs have the first and third largest FFA chapters in the nation, respectively.

"One of the most exciting aspects of the study is that it draws public attention to the successes of the vocational agriculture model and highlights the changes already taking place in FFA and many of the instructional programs," said Case, the senior program specialist for Agriculture, Agribusiness and Natural Resources, USDE. "The National FFA Organization is already well on its way along the course recommended by the study panel."

According to Case, the National FFA Organization has been conducting a comprehensive review of current and award programs, and is developing new ones to address and support education in agriscience, marketing, computers and agricultural technology. "Over the last three to five years we have looked at our 29 proficiency awards and 12 national contest programs and restructured them to emphasize elements of business management and competencies in the agricultural sciences," said Coleman Harris, national FFA executive secretary. "The FFA Computers In Agriculture award and seminar programs are encouraging our students to study and apply computer technology in agriculture," Harris explained. "In 1987, FFA instituted a national award program which recognizes teachers for excellence in their instruction of agriscience. It is the first program FFA has developed to recognize teachers. This year, the organization is initiating the first recognition program for students in agriscience. Plans have just been finalized for several agricultural commodities andmarketing competitions this coming year."

The study panel hailed the development by the FFA of the Ag Ed Network, a computer based information and educational resource which provides to the nation's vocational agriculture departments real-orld information and data for instruction in agricultural marketing and business management. The four-year-old network was created through an agreement between AgriData Resources, Inc., the National FFA Organization, and the National FFA Foundation.

Agenda For FFA

In addition to its contest and award programs, the FFA has identified major initiatives for education in international agriculture. The organization currently operates a number of exchange program which enable American vocational agriculture students to work or study agriculture abroad and which bring foreign agricultural students to the United States in association with FFA chapters. FFA proficiency award winners receive an international experience tour of agricultural production, processing and marketing facilities. In addition, the six national FFA chapters spend two weeks early in their term on an agricultural experience tour of the Orient.

Specific recommendations were made by the panel for the FFA to consider modifying its image, name, symbols and rituals to more accurately reflect the contemporary curriculum and to embrace a wider range of students. The 404,900-member organization is already conducting an inward look. "The FFA is quite sensitive to the issues of image and public perception," said Kelli Evans, 21-year-old national FFA president from Hayes Center, Nebr. "That is why the student leadership of our state associations has encouraged debate of these issues in our conferences and at our national convention." Evans indicated that some action may be forthcoming soon. "Several months ago, our Board of Directors received the report of a committee which examined our consitution and bylaws for the past two years," she said. "As a result, the delegates to the national FFA convention this November will consider a number of proposed amendments that affect our image and the terminology associated with the educational program. We are ready for change and we are proceeding appropriately."

Copies of the report, entitled "Understanding Agriculture: New Directions for Education," may bo obtained from the National Academy Press, 2101 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20418.

FFA is a national organization of 404,900 students in 7,800 local chapters preparing for agricultural careers. FFA activities and award programs complement instruction in high school agriculture by giving students pratical experience in the application of agricultural skills and knowledge gained in classes. Developing agricultural leadership, cooperation and citizenship are FFA's major objectives.

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Great cooking was the result of the Great Eggs-Pectations recipe contest, co-sponsored by the Maryland Egg Council and the Maryland Department of Agriculture, and held at the Maryland State Fair on Monday, August 29, 1988.

Virginia Moore of Rockville received $350 for her first place adult division recipe, Eggs and Scallop Pearls. Ms. Moore is a teacher of health and fitness. She has tried to inspire others with her enthusiasm for good, well planned meals and a wholesome lifestyle.

Maria Cellarosi of Germantown, Maryland, was declared the winner of the youth division. She received a $300 savings bond for her first place winning recipe, Spaghetti Campobello.

Both contestants are now eligible to compete for the $4,000 grand prize in the national contest.

The second and third place winners in the adult division were Linda Baker and Kim Lowery, both of Clear Spring, Maryland. Runners-up included Babe Nelson of Lansdowne and Connee Sheckler and Ethel Lambert, both from Baltimore.

For further information, contact Desiree Mundell, contest coordinator, at the Maryland Department of Agriculture, Marketing Services Section, 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Annapolis, Maryland, 21401, (301) 841-5770.

Eggs and Scallop Pearls

½ stick butter or margarine
3 scallions, chopped (white or green)
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 pound small bay scallops
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup dry white wine
½ cup mayonnaise
2 teaspoons dry mustard
3 dashes hot pepper sauce
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon minced parsley
Pimiento for garnish

Saute scallions and garlic in butter in heavy skillet. Stir in scallops. Stir fry for 3 minutes. Stir in flour until it disappears.

Add wine, mayonnaise, mustard, pepper sauce, lemon juice, salt and parsley. Sur and cook 5 minutes.

With slotted spoon divide scallops among six large oiled individual baking shells. Break one egg on top of each bed of scallops Spoon the sauce on top of eggs Bake at 400° for 12-15 minutes

Serves 6.

Spaghetti Campobello

½ pound spaghetti
½ cup bacon, cut into small bits (about ¼ lb. precooked weight)
¼ cup chopped onions
1 cup chopped zucchini
4 tablespoons butter
6 fresh eggs
¼ cup cream or milk
¾ cup parmesan cheese
several pinches salt and pepper

Fry bacon until crisp, saute onions and zucchini until limp. Cook spaghetti and drain at al dente stage. Beat the eggs in a bowl with the parmesan cheese, milk, salt and pepper while the spaghetti is cooking.

Add the egg mixture to the butter, beating it well. When it begins to thicken, add the bacon/vegetable mixture, and then the spaghetti.

Mix well and serve.

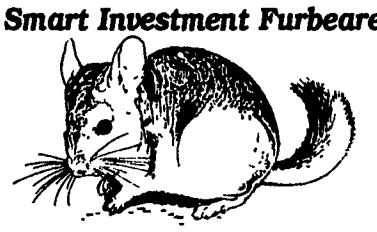
- CHINCHILLA -
The Smart Investment Furbearer



Do you want to be a fur farmer, but just don't have the space, time or money to raise fox or mink? Well, chinchillas could be the answer!

These small furbearers have doubled in fur price in the last few years and are in constant demand in the fur industry.

Chinchillas are easy to raise, bear up to three (3) litters per year and consume very little food. A small investment in time and money could start your own business today. Yes, chinchillas are the answer for that second income so many of us are looking for.

Here at Guzy's Chinchilla Ranch we will assist you in starting out with information and breeding stock We are also the proud owners of the 1987 National Mutation (Colored) Female Champion She is a Black Velvet Beauty and just one of the many great animals raised by us

For more information and the chance of a lifetime, write:

hillsboro

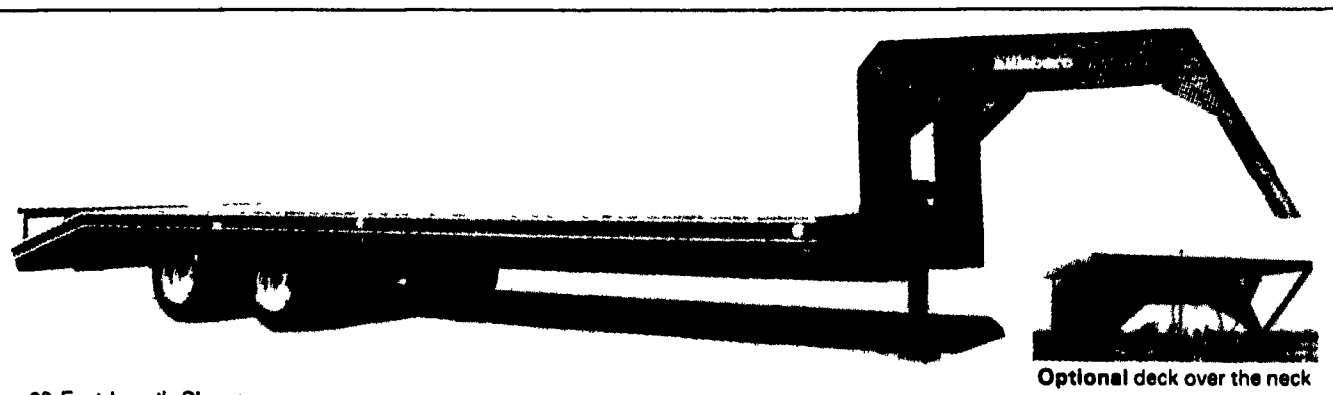
24 Foot Length Shown



28 Foot Length Shown

Optional deck over the neck is 7½' x 8'

The FLIP-UP BEAVERTAIL raises and lowers in seconds -- slide out ramps are stored under the beavertail. The Hillsboro Flatbed features a full 96" deck width which is more value than the competition.

The Hillsboro Flatbed is available in two styles; the 20' and 24' trailer with standard neck, and the 28', 30' and 32' trailer with heavy duty neck.

VERSATILE — RUGGED — RELIABLE and REASONABLY PRICED!

The Hillsboro Flatbed Trailer with flip-up beavertail can be the one trailer that means lower cost for you. Here's why!!

VERSATILITY! That's what makes a Hillsboro trailer such a good investment. With the beavertail down it's an excellent trailer for moving wheeled equipment. Flip the beavertail up and it adds an extra four feet of deck space for hauling hay and other bulky loads.

HERE'S WHAT HILLSBORO QUALITY MEANS - All Hillsboro trailers are manufactured in precise jigs and fixtures which assures excellent alignment of axles, a better pulling trailer, a level and square trailer.

HILLSBORO WORKMANSHIP INCLUDES-Exceptional weld quality, material that is chemically cleaned, two coats of high quality paint, material strength engineered into the best flatbed value.

NOW IN STOCK... 12 DIFFERENT HILLSBORO TRAILERS TO CHOOSE FROM

All Trailers Come With A One Year Limited Warranty

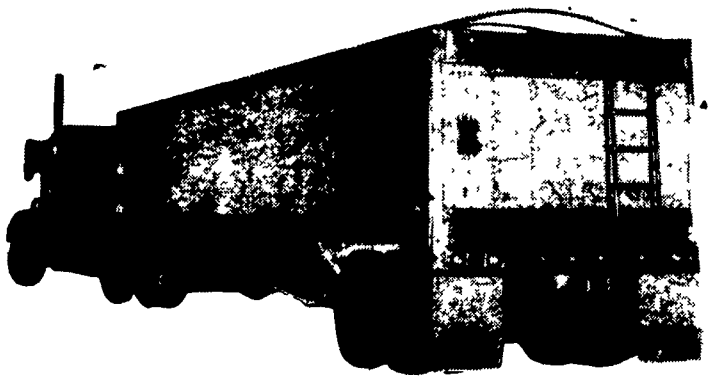
REDESIGNED 1989 TIMPTE GRAIN HOPPER



Got Grain? Then get the trailer that is Timpte tough... the Super Hopper. It's not only built to take it...it's also built to cut fuel costs. The Super Hopper is lightweight and aerodynamically designed to reduce wind drag. When there's grain to be hauled, Timpte does the haulin' best and pulls a lot easier than the rest.

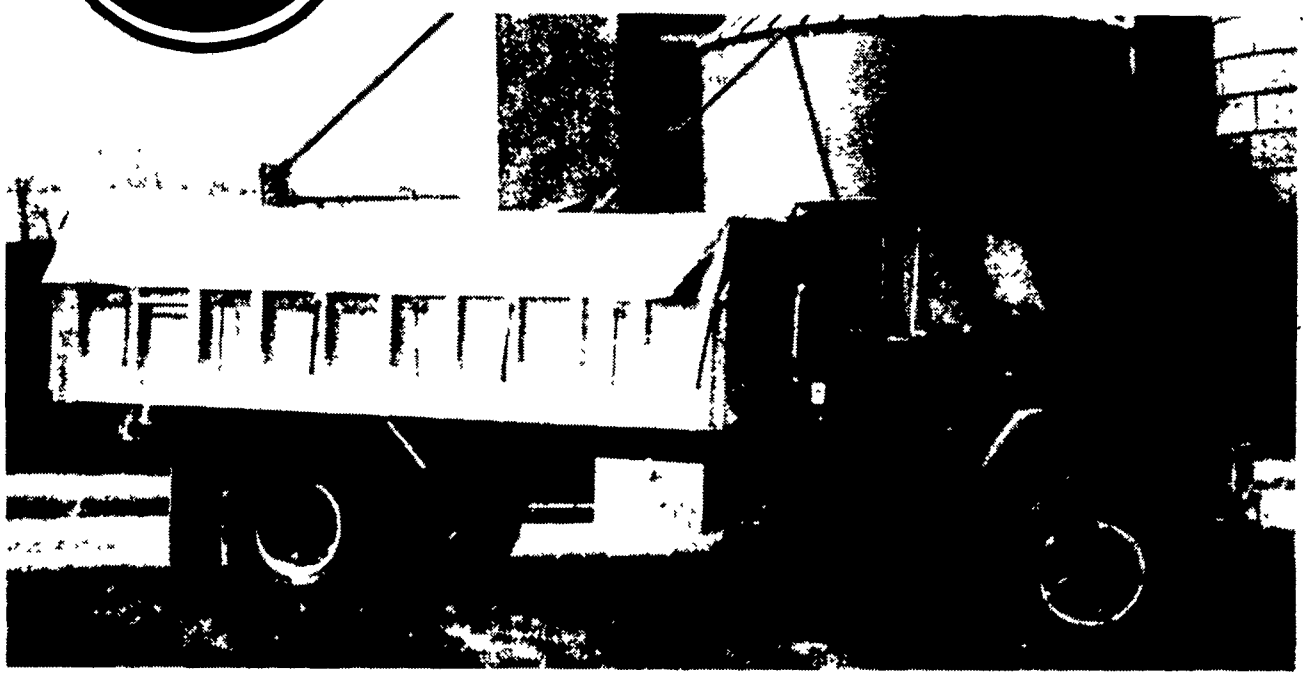
EBY ALUMINUM GRAIN BODY



CONSTRUCTED FOR YEARS OF MAINTENANCE-FREE SERVICE.

You'll get more out of an Eby aluminum grain body. Lightweight and rugged aluminum provides rigid, fuel-efficient support to fill your grain hauling needs

Eby packs years of experience, workmanship and performance into every aluminum body it manufactures. And special Eby options let you customize your body to your individual operation Available in standard lengths, each unit is designed to provide you with an investment in durable performance and practical economy

Look over these outstanding features.

- Less weight. Eby aluminum bodies weigh up to 30% less than comparable steel and wood construction.
- Less maintenance. Aluminum construction won't rust or rot—never needs painting.
- Long-life durability. Heavy-duty structural components and hollow-tube frame combine with aluminum floor and sides to stand up to years of hard work

Wenger Discusses Ag Budget

HARRISBURG — Increased funding for agricultural programs, including $400,000 more in support for agricultural fairs, as well as funding for mushroom promotion and animal medical research was an important part of the 1988-89 state General Fund Budget approved by the Legislature and the Governor last week, announced Senator Noah Wenger, R-36.

Pennsylvania's community fair program began the fiscal year with no funding after the Governor deleted it when he signed an initial state budget in July. At that time, the Governor also decreased funding for several agricultural programs. This money was restored and increased in the budget signed last week.

The fair program itself, which reimburses community and county fair associations for operational and other expenses, received $3.4 million or $400,000 more than last year. "Increased state support will allow our fairs to offer more competitions and bigger prizes to promote the showcasing of local agricultural products," said Wenger.

Also included in the budget was $100,000 for mushroom promotion. "This is the third consecutive year the Legislature has allocated state funding to aid the mushroom industry in promoting their product," said Wenger. "Chester County has been named the Mushroom Capital of the World because nearly 89,000 tons or 50 percent of the nation's mushrooms are produced by growers in the county. By continuing funding for promotion, we hope to make more people aware of the wholesome value of this unique food."

The University of Pennsylvania's New Bolton Animal Center received increased funding for animal research and productivity. The Center will receive nearly $4.5 million for operation of the facility as well as $3.5 million for the Center for Animal Health and Productivity and $322,000 for the Center's Dairy Cattle Teaching and Research Facility. "These appropriations reflect the state's commitment to improving animal health and productivity -- important elements for growth of agriculture, Pennsylvania's number one industry," the Senator said.

In addition, the budget contained increased funding for agricultural products research and promotion, animal vaccination programs, and disease research.

Exhibit Championship Hogs At Berks Roundup

LEESPORT (Berks)— The limelight shown on two brothers and their hogs at the Berks 4-H Swine Roundup, held October 12 at the Leesport Market and Auction show ring.

The brothers are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Keller, Fleetwood. It was the first championship for Eric who has been showing for two years and Jason who has been showing for three years.

We back up our confidence in the reliability and longevity of our proven gutter cleaner chain by providing an extended warranty.

This extended warranty covers replacement gutter cleaner chain as well as chain in new installations.

Patz: your guarantee of quality.

Patz

Proven Performer

Patz hook-and-eye links have proven their value for 39 years. Patz links are forged out of special-formula steel to provide strength and durability. The Patz link design provides chain flexibility that takes sprocket, corners, and elevations smoothly for layout flexibility and minimum wear.

Choose the Model 400 (blue) link with more than 2 pounds of steel, or choose the heavier Model XH-400 (red) link for extremely long pulls.

Progression forgoing builds extra strength into hook-and-eye link contact points. Final heat treating increases hardness, strength and wear resistance. Patz links withstand corrosion for long chain life.

Ask about our 10-year warranty on links and flites.

Patz Look At The Cost - The Average Annual Cost

Talk to Patz equipment owners about the long life of Patz Gutter Cleaners, Patz Hook-and-Eye Chain, Patz Silo Unloaders and other Patz equipment.

Then you will see how the extra years of service from Patz equipment gives you low average annual cost.

That's why Patz is the profit booster on so many successful farms.

Prevent Feed Losses With Proper Bale Storage

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre) — Is your feed slipping through the cracks? High feed losses are common with silage and large package hay systems. No one throws every tenth bale of hay out the back of the barm to rot. However, how often are large round bales left out in the weather, on the ground and rotting from all directions? Bob Graves, Penn State agricultural engineer, says if it's worth baling, and you plan to feed it, think about storing those large bales inside or up off the ground and under a tarp. If your loader can turn the bales and stack them on end, you can get more in a barn without pushing out the sidewalls.

Poor packing of silage piles will also lead to unnecessary feed loss. Broken or loose-fitting doors in tower silos, broken or missing boards on bunker silos and covers flapping in the breeze for lack of enough tires or other weights, all result in feed loss. Locating a silage pile on a well-drained hard surface will allow silage to be picked up without mixing in dirt and mud.

Graves points out that feed losses also happen with poor feeding methods. Covered feeders with slant bar fronts or other devices to discourage animals from wasting feed will result in more hay or silage getting into the animal and not on the ground. Work done at Penn State several years ago resulted in design of a large bale feeder that minimized wasted feed (Two-Stage Round Bale Feeder, Plan 770-521, available at all county extension offices). An electric fence wire strung over the center of a silage bunk will keep animals out of the bunk and reduce head tossing and playing with silage. A little common sense can reduce feeding losses at bunks and hay racks. Grouping animals by age and production will assure that expensive feed is getting to the right animals.

Feed losses occur when animals don't feel well. Be sure your housing system provides good fresh air at all times so that animals do not suffer from respiratory problems. Rough walking and resting surfaces can result in lameness, reluctance to lay in stalls, or slips and falls. Clean, fresh water is needed to go with expensive feed stuffs. Be sure that adequate, frost-protected water is available to all your animals, all the time.

Look over your entire feeding system -- handling, storage, feed locations and animal health. Are there some parts you can improve by using your head and a little more care? If so, this would be a good year to make those improvements. Good feed is hard to come by, and it costs money!

HERE'S THE ONE ENGINE OIL THAT GUARANTEES FULL PROTECTION

PARTS VALUE OF THE MONTH

Case IH No.1® engine oil... it leads the field

Don't take chances with ordinary engine oil . unless you're willing to settle for less than full protection. The investment you have in your equipment demands full protection. Case IH No. 1 engine oil:

- Has the quality additives that prevent oil breakdown at high operating temperatures.
- Provides enough reserve alkalinity to prevent damaging sulfuric acid corrosion to vital engine parts.
- Offers complete protection for your demanding hour-after-hour heavy duty operation.

Feed Antibiotic Rotation Improves Performance In Hogs

RED HOOK, NY — For decades, farmers have rotated crops to maximize yields, lower production costs, and reduce the build-up of certain pests.

Now, for similar reasons, hog producers may want to rotate feed anbibiotics -- particularly those used in the grower-finisher phase.

Antibiotic rotation is not a new concept. But recent research with hogs and mounting concern over drug residues, antibiotic resistance, and higher feed costs have fueled more interest in this simple and sensible feed-management technique.

For example, a recent study in the United Kingdom showed that producers could enhance the performance of certain respiratory drugs and reduce the prevalence and magnitude of tetracycline resistance in their herds by adding bacitracin methylene disalicylate (BMD) to their grower-finisher feeds.

"The results from the BMD-treated groups...show a definite trend over time toward a decrease in oxytetracycline (OTC) resistance," report researchers at the University of Liverpool.

Similar results were obtained in pigs fed chlortetracyline (CTC).

At present, FDA regulations do not permit feeding BMD and a tetracycline simultaneously. However, a similar effect has been observed in the field when the additives are rotated -- three weeks BMD, one week tetracycline -- in the grower-finisher stage.

For example, recent field trials in the Midwest with more than 900 pigs show that a BMD/tetracycline rotation in the grower-finisher stage can reduce costs -- while also improving feed conversion and growth rate.

In the study, BMD was fed to grower-finishers for three weeks at 30 grams per ton for growth promotion and feed efficiency. A 200-gram level of CTC was fed the fourth week. This rotation was maintained throughout the grower-finisher period.

Hogs on the BMD/CTC rotation logged an average daily gain (ADG) of 1.53, compared to 1.46 for hogs receiving CTC continuously. The rotation hogs also had better feed conversion -- 3.31 vs. 3.41.

"Between rising corn prices and the ever-increasing need to use feed antibiotics more judiciously, the rotation program provides a good opportunity to reduce costs -- without compromising on herd health or efficiency," says Dr. Roy Schultz, a nationally recognized swine veterinarian from Avoca, Iowa, who has worked extensively with the program.

Schultz also says there is room for flexibility in the rotation program.

"The three-week/one-week rotation is only a model," he explains. "If the hogs are doing well, you can probably leave the growth promotant in the feed for a little longer and shuttle in the therapeutic drug on an as-needed basis."

For more information on antibiotic rotation, producers should contact their veterinarian and feed dealer.

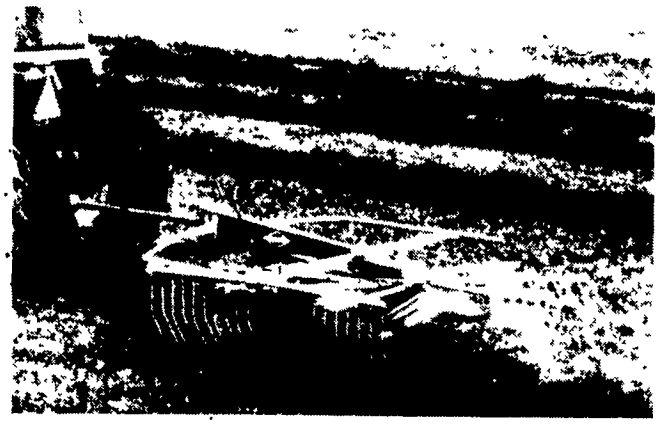
KUHN GYRORAKE GA 300 GT

Available In Pull Type - Ground, Drive Or P.T.O.



- The GA 300 GT rake was designed for the hay producer that desires a pull-type rake. Easy to adjust from the transport to the raking position.
- This KUHN Gyrorake will rake your hay into a windrow, double windrow or turn a windrow cleanly and handle your hay delicately. See how this rake fluffs your windrow instead of roping it, thereby shortening drying time.

Consider This Excellent Rake Now & Make Your Purchase Before The Early Spring Price Increase!

SUB-SOIL WHILE YOU CHISEL!

Now you can eliminate a sub-soiler from your machinery requirements. Equip your 4211 with 2, 3 or more trip type deep till shanks with auto reset and combine sub-soil tillage with conventional chiseling. The 4211 features a heavy-duty 4" x 6" x 3/8" frame that handles the stress a deep till shank generates. Hydraulically adjustable front coulter gangs slice through heaviest residue and walking tandems provide the smoothest ride. Case IH MAGNUM The Best

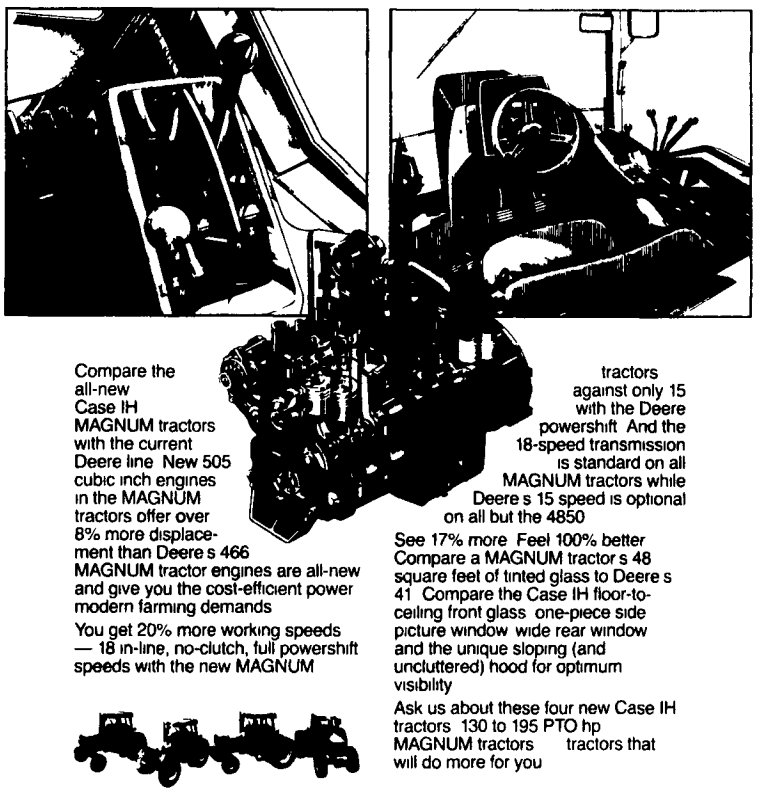
The MAGNUM 5-Year/5,000-Hour Warranty

Case IH has announced the industry's longest standard warranty program on its MAGNUM line of 130- to 195-PTO-horsepower tractors. The 5-year or 5,000-hour warranty covers all parts except tires, according to a local Case IH dealer.

To Earn A Warranty This Good It Takes A Tractor This Good

MAGNUM MEANS MORE.



Compare the all-new Case IH MAGNUM tractors with the current Deere line New 505 cubic inch engines in the MAGNUM tractors offer over 8% more displacement than Deere s 466 MAGNUM tractor engines are all-new and give you the cost-efficient power modern farming demands

You get 20% more working speeds — 18 in-line, no-clutch, full powershift speeds with the new MAGNUM tractors against only 15 with the Deere powershift And the 18-speed transmission is standard on all MAGNUM tractors while Deere s 15 speed is optional on all but the 4850

See 17% more Feel 100% better Compare a MAGNUM tractor s 48 square feet of tinted glass to Deere s 41 Compare the Case IH floor-to-ceiling front glass one-piece side picture window wide rear window and the unique sloping (and uncluttered) hood for optimum visibility

Ask us about these four new Case IH tractors 130 to 195 PTO hp MAGNUM tractors tractors that will do more for you

NOTICE! If You Are In The Market For A Tractor, You Need To Call Us For A Free Demonstration! We Have A Case IH Magnum 7110, All Wheel Drive, 130 HP And A Case IH Magnum 7120, All Wheel Drive, 150 HP

THE ONE SPREADER FOR A TWO-SPREADER FARM

A Gehl 300 Series Scavenger® II manure spreader handles all types of manure. It saves you time and money by bridging the gap between liquid and solid manure handling. It's the one tough, reliable machine built to cut right through your manure spreading problems. It's available in five sizes — from 912 to 2925 gallon capacities — so you can choose the one that best meets your operation's specialized needs

Manure from confinement housing can be quickly and easily loaded and delivered to your spreader with a versatile Gehl skid loader. The heaviest loads are no problem with a Scavenger® II manure spreader. It's built with heavy duty chain drive and rugged construction throughout. Your first glace will tell you the Scavenger® II is unlike any spreader you've ever seen.

Handles All Kinds Of Manure - Liquid, Semi-Solid, Pen Packed, Even Frozen

TORQUE AMPLIFIERS & CLUTCHES

Over the past 8 years, we have sold thousands of T.A.'s to satisfied customers across the U.S. Some of our best customers are I.H. Dealers.

We do complete job or center housing while you wait or will sell you the parts.

Our prices on T.A.'s with the Dana Sprag, are now $645.00 with a 2 year warranty.

We also have units and parts available to rebuild old style T.A.'s, including Ramp & carrier sets for $300.00

Clutches, Pressure Plates PTO Drives & Water Pumps

We have clutches available for most all IH tractors; including many heavier than original. We also have clutches for many other brands.

- Compare Our Prices -

All clutches & T.A.'s will ship U.P.S. and are sold on an exchange basis. Core charges Apply.

QUALITY USED PARTS

We specialize in IH tractors but we also have Case, Oliver, White and Massey tractors in our inventory.

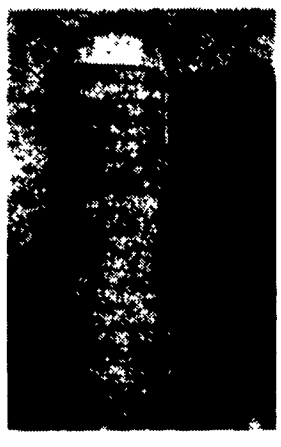
"Consider The Concrete Advantages"



Poured concrete silos since 1908. Now in our 80th year and recognized as the leading silo manufacturer in the east. This quality storage system is available now. Top unloading - bottom unloading - and the unique Big Jim System.

Solid 6" concrete wall, heavily reinforced with hi grade steel, and equipped with concrete chute, fill pipe, ladder, safety cage and aluminized steel roof. Our conventional top unloading silo has a door system 2nd to none!

Versitility. ALL REGION — ALL SEASON PROTECTION: You can customize your ArchLight and/or ArchLock Systems to your special needs. The ArchLight is the preferred solution to the need for a highly portable All Season — All Region Shelter; it can be fitted with an angle iron sled base to permit moving the structure without dismantling. (Portable buildings are tax-saving features, too). ArchLock steel structures are also high quality, relocatable structures that offer the strength and permanence of conventional construction. The ArchLock is stronger because it features 18 gauge galvanized steel joist purlins, high rib 26 gauge galvanized and enameled steel siding, and massive steel I-beam structural members. ArchLock buildings mount easily on concrete pier footings or economical floating slab bases.

Open Breeding Cattle Champions Named At KILE

HARRISBURG — A Limousin breeder from Ohio captured top prizes in cattle judging during the 32nd Annual Keystone International Livestock Exposition (KILE) held in the Farm Show Complex here last week. Fairlane Farms, of Louisville, Ohio, showed the overall reserve grand champion female and the reserve grand champion Limousin bull and then captured the titles for premier exhibitor and premier breeder.

Two other Ohio Breeders won at KILE.

Shorthorn Division

A New York exhibitor who claimed many of the major awards at last year's Keystone International Livestock Exposition, returned for the 1988 show and captured the blue ribbons for the top two animals in the shorthorn and polled shorthorn division.

T.H. Snethen of Dewittville, N.Y., claimed the honors for the grand champion bull, "Sangamon Hulkster," a late-spring yearling. The grand champion female was also shown by Snethen.

Curtis Hively of Waterford, Ohio, won the ribbon for the reserve grand champion bull, and Michael Bowman of Kearneysville, N.Y., had the runner-up female.

Bowman also exhibited the winners in the Super Cow class and best six head owned or co-owned by breeder. In addition, Bowman was named premier exhibitor and premier breeder.

The best group of two bulls bred and owned or co-owned by exhibitor were shown by Richard C. Peoples of Volant, Lawrence County, Pa.

Polled Herefords

ICS Farms of Williamstown, Vt., exhibited the grand champion heifer and the reserve grand champion bull of the large Polled Hereford breeding cattle division of the 1988 Keystone International Livestock Exposition at the Pennsylvania State Farm Show Complex.

Honors for the grand champion bull, "Lu Tallys Pride," a late two-year-old, went to Lu Rose Estates Farm of Cedarville, Ohio. ICS's "Knight Ranger" was runner-up.

"Bursch Toots," who represented ICS in the late junior yearling heifer class, went on to claim the junior champion title and subsequently won the grand champion title. "RKM Nitey Knight" made it an ICS sweep of the heifer competition with the reserve honors.

ICS also won the Get of Sire and Best Six Head classes and was named premier exhibitor and premier breeder of the show.

Charolais

Sleepy Valley Farm of Lafayette, N.J., shared the major honors with Pennsylvania and New York exhibitors in the Charolais Open Breeding Cattle competition of the Keystone International Livestock Exposition.

Sleepy Valley won blue ribbons for the grand champion bull, "SVF Mr. Exodus," as well as the reserve grand champion female, "Miss HCR Knockout," and took home the premier exhibitor's title for the second year in a row.

The grand champion female was "Rainbow's Lady Kashi," the senior champion shown by Warren Bippert Jr. of Alden, N.Y. Bill Weist of Mohrsville, Berks County, claimed the honors for the reserve grand champion bull, "Kenny Linedrive Commander."

John O. Myers of Dallastown, York County, was named premier breeder for the second consecutive year and won the blue ribbon for the reserve senior champion female, "DVF Miss Kinmont," the runner-up to "Rainbow Lady Kashi" in the summer yearling class.

At last year's KILE, Myers had dominated the competition, exhibiting both the grand champion

PA Simmental Show, Sale Scheduled

BUTLER — The Keystone of Quality Simmental Show and Sale will be held on October 22 at the Greene County Fairgrounds in Waynesburg. The show will begin at 10:00 a.m. and be judged by Chester Hughes, Lancaster County livestock agent. The sale will be at 1:00 p.m.

"This show will feature the best set of bred heifers that we've had," said Dave Stough, sale manager of the 24 bred heifers that have been consigned. Buyers also will be pleased by the 27 open heifers, five polled bulls, and five cow-calf pairs that are to be offered by 35 consignors from five states. In addition, a Simbrah heifer will be sold.

PJSA will hold its semen auction at the sale with semen specimens from Generation III, Doubletime, Salute of Sim-Pol, and Infra Red among those to be sold. John Spiker will be the auctioneer of the day.

Construction-site toughness assures on-farm reliability.

Day after day, year after year, Case Uni-Loader skid-steers earn their reputation for reliability on construction sites. Their heavy-duty mainframes and rugged industrial-grade engines stand up to the most grueling punishment.

With this outstanding track record, a Uni-Loader is a natural for a long life of hard work on the farm.

It works hard. But you'll work fast and easy, controlling speed, direction and loader functions with just two hand levers. So you can concentrate on the job and forget about your feet.

A hard-working, long-running, tight-turning Uni-Loader is one of the handiest machines you'll ever own. It handles everything from feed hauling to stubborn stump removal. These industrial-strength skid-steer loaders are popular performers on farms and ranches all across the country.

See a Uni-Loader at your nearby Case IH dealer soon.

Simmental

The grand champion bull in the Simmental Breeding Cattle judging at the Keystone International Livestock Exposition was won by a Pennsylvania entry while a Virginia exhibitor claimed most of the other ribbons.

"M&MS Gold Exchange," an early junior yearling bull exhibited by M&M Farm and Oak Hill Farm of Butler, Butler COunty, was named grand champion bull after winning the junior champion bull honors.

The reserve grand champion bull was shown by Donald Virts of Purcellville, Va., who had the grand champion last year. Virts also claimed the ribbons this year for the grand champion and reserve grand champion heifers, "MS Fanta MFH" and "MHF Touch of Class," respectively.

Virts repeated as premier exhibitor and also was named premier exhibitor.

MOUNTED CHISEL PLOWS

FOR MEDIUM (40-75) H.P. TRACTORS

The Brillion 2-bar Chisel Plow was designed for medium horsepower tractors in the 40-75 h.p. range The frame accommodates either five or seven 1" x 2" x 26" shanks. Two types of ground working points are available: chisel points for fast, easy penetration and reduced draft or twisted shovels that roll the soil and mix it with field trash. Mounting is for Category II tractors, 3-point hitch or Quick Coupler.

BRILLION FEATURES "DUAL NESTED" SPRINGS

The spring clamp protects the frame and shanks when working in stony land The springs compress as the shank raises (as much as 5½') allowing the shank to work over obstructions Brillion s DUAL NESTED spring clamp (one inside the other) provides the spring ten sion that helps shanks to retain their proper angle

Farrow-To-Finish Operation Celebrates Grand Opening

BLAIN (Perry) — Neighbors, family, friends, and new-found friends gathered on Tuesday to help the Gutshall family celebrate the grand opening of their new farrow-to-finish swine facility.

Nestled among the foothills of the Tuscarora Mountains, Beaver Ridge Farm is owned by the corporation formed by Virgil Gutshall Jr. and his parents, Virgil and Pat Gutshall. The newly formed corporation, headed by young Virgil, is under contract with Pennfield Feeds Management to raise pigs that have been farrowed on the farm to the finishing stage.

The first load of gilts arrived on Friday, with more expected on Saturday. The Gutshalls hope to have their first batch of pigs finished by August.

The Gutshalls determined the size of their operation primarily based on the acreage on which they will be able to spread the hogs' manure. Another deciding factor was their wish to keep the farm manageable enough for the three of them.

The building contains several relatively new concepts such as preheating the incoming air, a sealed concrete manure tank with six month's capacity, and hot water heating plates in the farrowing and pre-nursery crates.

Among the ag companies participating in the construction of the new building were Pennfield Feeds, Farmer Boy Ag Design, Chore-Time Feeding Systems, Hollam Tri-Bar Flooring, L.B. White Heating Systems, Sollenberger Silos Corp., and Farm Credit.

Plan Your 1989 Herbicide Program

DEKALB, IL — As harvest season approaches, farmers need to survey the effectiveness of their present weed control, said Ed Deane, regional agronomist for Dekalb-Pfizer Genetics. Analysis of each field and its weed problems is imperative to a cost effective herbicide program.

Begin preparation by devoting a page in your crop diary to each field you plan to plant in 1989, he advised. "Make notes of this year's planted crop, considering any escaped weeds or weed problems early in the year. This may require some memory work, if your herbicide program gave excellent control and clean fields."

Be sure to separate broadleaf and grassy weed types as you prepare your list Deane said. Use the correct name of each weed because herbicide labels are based on nomeclature utilized by the Weed Science Society, not by local or regional names. If you need help identifying certain weed species, contact your local Extension Service or your chemical supplier.

"Certain weeds provide overwintering sites for insects and diseases," the Dekalb-Pfizer Agronomist observed. Notes also should be made concerning insect and disease problems associated with the current crop. Notations should also be made concerning soil type, organic matter and soil pH. "Each of these factors can have an influence on herbicide selection, rates and control effectiveness."

Deane advised farmers to control perennial weeds soon after harvest. "This can give a head start on 1989 control measures and be cost effective in the long run." Consider next year's rotation and planned tillage practices, including cultivation. "Crop options and your tillage practices can have considerable effect on your weed control methods."

When your herbicide program diary is finished, the agronomist urges farmers to consult with the Extension Service or chemical salesperson for the herbicide combinations that will best fit your needs. Start thinking about pricing options. "It may be appropriate to buy now and store the chemicals purchased until next spring. At least your decisions will have been made in enough time to watch for early payment discounts as they may arise."

As always, be aware of any new product releases that may offer broader spectrum weed control and be cost effective, Deane advised.

BUSINESS NEWS...

DLV Ag Ambassador

DOYLESTOWN, (Bucks) — Delaware Valley College has named Sandra L. Solimene, a junior ornamental horticulture major from Hackettstown, N.J., as the College's newest ambassador for the food and agricultural sciences. Miss Solimene will be a spokesperson for the College's programs in this division, appearing before civic and professional groups, at the Pennsylvania Farm Show, with the media and for admissions recruitment purposes.

Solimene is the daughter of Sal and Rita Solimene of Hackettstown, N.J. She is specializing in floriculture and minoring in Business.

She will join junior Brad A. Bittner, a horticulture major from Kersey, Pa., who served as one of the College's first two "Agricultural Ambassadors" last year.

The two ambassador positions were established in an effort to present the field of agriculture in a positive light, in keeping with the importance it holds in the world today. Studies have shown that there are insufficient graduates in the food and agricultural sciences to fill vacancies in these careers, and the situation is expected to become more serious in the near future.

Delaware Valley College sees its role, and the role of these two young people, as one of bringing to the public an awareness of the career potential of the programs offered at DelVal in the food and agricultural sciences, and of the global importance of this field.

Sandy Solimene began her road to DVC with an interest in landscaping. A job in a floral shop for a DelVal alumnus helped convince her of her career and her college choice.

"There's no where else you can go," she noted, "Unless it's a short course or a two-year program, where you can really learn 'the business.'

Sandra L. Solimene

"I'm very happy here," the tall, cheerful redhead explained. "When I hear about other schools, I know I made the right choice."

Solimene has a busy schedule, one that will challenge her to maintain her grades while fulfilling her other responsibilities. She is president of the class of 1990, treasurer of the Landscape Nursery Club, a member of the band (playing flute and piccolo) and of the Floral Society, and a peer counselor. She also serves on the Student Life and Philadelphia Flower Show committees.

"I'm involved with a lot on campus," she readily admits. "I just take it as it comes...you always find time for everything that's important to you, and this is important to me!

"I want to be able to represent my school," she emphasizes, "to get a chance to tell everyone how I feel about it."

And she will have a lot of opportunities in the coming year.

Little Named To Head Baltimore Regional Office

BALTIMORE, MD — Porter Little has been named as senior vice president and regional manager of the Baltimore regional office of the National Bank for Cooperatives (NBC), a new multibillion-dollar bank formed on June 30 as a result of a nine-bank merger within the Farm Credit System.

W. M. Harding, president-elect and chief executive officer of the NBC, made the announcement at the NBC's Denver headquarters.

Little's appointment will be effective on January 1, 1989, when the NBC begins operations. The Baltimore regional office will be a full-service operation. Little will have responsibility for the office's credit delivery, business development and customer relations. Credit policy, financial controls and certain administrative functions will be centralized at the NBC's headquarters in Denver, Harding said. The Baltimore bank was one of eight district Banks for Cooperatives that agreed to merge on June 30 and form the National Bank.

Little is currently vice president at the Baltimore Bank for Cooperatives and has been with the bank for 11 years. With a B.S. in Agricultural Economics from North Carolina State University and an M.S. in ag economy from the University of Connecticut, Little began his service to agriculture with the Springfield, MA Bank for Cooperatives and later worked for Delaware Valley Farmers Cooperative in Flemington, N.J., before accepting an operations position with the Farm Credit Administration in Washington, D.C.

Little is a trustee of the American Institute of Cooperation and has been involved in many community activities in southern York County. An avid runner and a strong supporter of the local athletic programs, Little and his wife Susan are the parents of three children, Porter, Heidi and Craig. They reside on CLub House Road in Glen Rock, Pa.

Little was one of 14 senior members named to oversee the operations of the NBC's eight regional offices and the bank's Denver headquarters. In annuncing the 14 appointments, Harding said, "These managers have a combined total of 212 years of experience in cooperative lending. They know the bank's customers and they will ensure an orderly and smooth transition."

Based on June 3, 1988, figures and on the merger of nine Banks for Cooperatives, the National Bank would have $8.2 billion in loans outstanding.

When the NBC begins operations on January 1, 1989, the bank will offer a complete line of financing and related services to U.S. agricultural cooperatives, rural utility systems and other eligible borrowers. The NBC also will finance agricultural exports and provide international banking services for the benefit of U.S. farmer-owned cooperatives' international activities.

Deutz-Allis Offers Net Wrap Option On Balers

MILWAUKEE, WI — The new net wrap option available on Deutz-Allis GP 2.30 4'x4' and 2.50 4'x5' round balers allows hay growers to finish more bales per hour, says Jerry Oxborough, Deutz-Allis hay tool product manager.

"With net wrapping, the operator spends less time stopped, waiting for the bale to tie off," Oxborough says. "Waiting time is converted to baling time and more bales can be made."

The operator selects the number of netting wraps per bale. Selection ranges from a minimum of 1¼ wraps per bale to 3½ . Balers equipped with the net wrap option allow three different ways of wrapping a finished bale: net wrap only; net wrap with twine; and twine only.

New York Simmental Classic Results

SYRACUSE — A New York farm, Hudson Pines Farms, took home the grand champion bull and the reserve grand champion female at the New York State Fair Simmental Show last month. The Tarrytown breeders dominated the show, especially in the group classes where they won all but one class. The farm was chosen as the show's premier breeder and exhibitor.

The grand champion male was Mr. Press Agent, sired by Press Agent, while the reserve grand champion female was Miss Noel sired by Cheftain.

Wheatley Mr. Gen III, the reserve bull calf champion owned by Wheatley Farms of Stanfordville, N.Y., was selected as the reserve grand champion. The calf is sired by Generation III.

The second annual New York Simmental Classic Sale was held after the show. Seventeen lots were sold for $19,375 or an average of $1,139 per animal. The highest-selling Simmental was a March '87 bred heifer sired by Keep It Clean. The heifer, consigned by Hudson Pines Farms of Tarrytown, brought $3,000.

A partial list of the placings follows.

Erker Joins NCGA Staff

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — As utilization of corn-based degradable plastics grows, the National Corn Growers Association (NCGA) continues to bridge the gap between the research lab and marketplace. Mike Erker of Topeka, Kan., recently accepted the position of NCGA market development plastics assistant.

Erker's primary responsibilities include coordinating plastics promotion and related education activities for the NCGA. He also will act as reference person to state associations and promotion boards on degradable plastics affiliated activities.

Prior to his newly created position, Erker served the Shawnee County, Kan., Extension Service as resource person for county residents and developed education programs in areas of crops and agronomy, livestock production, community development, forestry and farm management.

He was also district sales representative for Ralston Purina Company, after graduating with a B.S. degree in agriculture from Kansas State University in 1977.

The development of corn-based degradable plastics products and markets is one of several new industrial uses for corn being pursued by NCGA. An estimated 100 to 300 million bushels of corn could be used annually by this fast developing market.

The latest developments in corn-based degradable plastics research will be one of the highlights of the upcoming NCGA Corn Utilization Conference II, set for November 17 and 18 at the Radisson Airport Hotel, Columbus, Ohio.

NCGA is a national commodity organization consisting of 21 affiliated state associations and a membership of more than 21,000 corn growers.

SLICK CONCRETE CAN BE ROUGHENED

SCABBLING is an effective way to avoid unnecessary losses of cattle. The SCABBLER makes bands about two inches wide approximately 1/8" to 3/16 in. depth. This gives sufficient area for good footing while allowing you to scrape the smooth surface as before. It is near enough to the surface to give your cows full advantage of the roughness and deep enough to remain effective for years. It greatly aids in heat detection.

And the good news is that it is reasonably priced. You have the choice of doing it yourself or having us do it for you. We offer service right to your door. Call us for more details.

Ohio State Wins Livestock Judging Honors

HARRISBURG — A strong Ohio State team dominated a field from 10 of the top agricultural colleges in the nation Friday to win the intercollegiate livestock judging contest at the Keystone International Livestock Exposition.

The Buckeyes edged out a persistent University of Illinois team, while Penn State and Virginia Tech tied for third. Rounding out the top teams were the University of Georgia, fifth; Delaware Valley College, sixth; and West Virginia University, seventh.

Ohio State, tutored by nine-year veteran coach Tom Turner, swept first-place honors in each of the three divisions, beef cattle, sheep and swine judging. Illinois placed second in beef cattle and swine, while Penn State captured the runnerup post in the sheep judging.

Mike Hamman of Illinois scored highest in the individual standings, followed by five members of the Buckeye team, Greg Meyer, Tony Dyer, Dan Jennings, Kevin Wendy and Randy Smith. Cindy Bracken, with a tie for 10th place, was high individual for Penn State's Nittany Lions.

In the Junior Livestock Judging Contest, open to 4-H and FFA teams, an Ohio aggregation claimed the winner's trophy. The Virginia entry won second while the Kansas Vo-Ag team placed third. A Virginia Vo-Ag group and Maryland finished fourth and fifth, respectively.

MANURE MANAGEMENT SPECIALISTS

Rural Efforts Pay Off To Gain License Exemption

Albany, N.Y. — "The U.S. Transportation Secretary was literally bombarded with mail, much of it from rural New York, and as a result changed a licensing rule that would have cost our farmers and volunteer fire departments millions of dollars to implement," Joseph Gerace, Director of the Office of Rural Affairs, said recently.

"My hat is off to the countless individuals who wrote to Washington, demanding exemptions for volunteer fire departments, emergency squads and farmers from the Federal Commercial Vehicle Act of 1986."

A section of that act, scheduled to take effect in 1991, would have required operators of vehicles more than 13 tons to have a commercial driving license. The physical examinations and written tests required would have cost up to $400 per individual, a financial burden on many farmers and rural, mostly volunteer, firefighters.

For firefighters alone, the estimated total cost statewide would have been $58 million.

The Office of Rural Affairs conducted a campaign to elicit responses from interested parties throughout New York's 44 rural counties. Gerace had written to Burnley and to Anthony McMahon, Chief Counsel of the Federal Highway Administration, that the exemption would be "in the best interest of rural New York, and all rural communities in our country.

"I also am pleased that our farmers, already struggling financially, will not have to shoulder this additional cost, merely to operate their heavy farm machinery in compliance with a federal transportation regulation," Gerace said after the exemption was granted.

"I congratulate the efforts of our farming organizations, the New York Farm Bureau, the Grange, the Department of Agriculture and Markets, and others, who helped lift this burden from rural New York."

Fall Is Good Time For Soil Testing

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — The ground-softening effect of early fall rains makes "Indian summer" days an ideal time for taking soil samples from lawns and cropland, noted Dr. V. Allan Bandel, soils specialist for the University of Maryland's Cooperative Extension Service.

Farmers should begin taking soil samples as soon as corn and soybean harvesting is completed.

Bandel urges homeowners to take soil samples immediately so they can get lawn and garden soil at proper nutrient levels for a fast start in the spring.

That will give ample time in most parts of the state to get test results back from the University of Maryland Soil Testing Laboratory so that plans can be made for proper liming and fertilization before winter sets in.

Bandel noted that fall is a good time to apply phosphorus and potassium to alfalfa — a hay crop that needs adequate phosphorus and high levels of potassium for winter hardiness.

With some parts of the Mid-Atlantic area reeling from three consecutive summers of drought, farmers and homeowners alike should be doubly certain they aren't wasting money with needless lime and fertilizer applications, Bandel commented.

He pointed out that avoiding needless fertilization also will prevent pollution of streams, rivers and the Chesapeake Bay.

Farmers should consider reducing their application rates of phosphorus and potassium on fields where crop yields have been reduced by drought, Bandel declared. Such a decision is best made on the basis of a soil test, which shows how much fertilizer carry-over remains in the soil.

Another way to cut back on commercial fertilizer usage — without reducing crop yield potential — is to apply livestock or poultry manure, Bandel remarked. Manure testing will help a farmer know what he is doing to maintain proper soil fertility.

Manure testing is a free service offered by the University of Maryland soil testing laboratory when done in conjunction with the laboratory's soil testing program. The cost for field crop soil tests is $5 per sample.

Bandel's calculations show that farmers can save $60 to $70 per acre by using manure at recommended rates. Thus, manure should be tested and treated as a valuable fertilizer. It should be stored until needed, applied at the proper time, in an approved manner — and in the correct amounts.

Because it varies so widely in nutrient content, a manure analysis is essential in order to use manure wisely.

Further information and kits for both soil and manure testing are available from offices of the University of Maryland's Cooperative Extension Service. There's one in every county throughout the state in Baltimore.

To contact a local office, look under county government (or Baltimore City) listings in your telephone directory.

Forage Test Van To Stop In Wayne County

The Penn State Mobile Forage Test van will make a stop in Wayne County on Wednesday, October 26. The mobile van will be located at the Belmont Fire Hall on Route 371 west of Pleasant Mount at the intersection of Route 670 from 8:30 a.m. until 11:30 a.m.

Farmers, feed dealers, veterinarians and others who have hay and silage samples to be tested can deliver them to the test van and it will be tested while they wait. The van uses NIR (Near Infra Red) process of testing. Cost of testing the sample is $13 each. For those who wish, a complete feed program can be provided for an additional charge.

The van operator is Dr. Terry Maddox, Penn State University dairy nutritionist. Following the Wayne County visit the van will be located at the Susquehanna County Office Building, Montrose, from 1:00 to 3:30 p.m. the same day.

According to John Creighton, county agricultural agent, persons who are unable to deliver the samples to the van may drop them off at the Wayne County Extension Office, Courthouse, Honesdale, prior to October 26. In this case they will be delivered to the van by Extension personnel.

Unless you want to be a fiddler on the roof, make your next one a Fabral.

When you specify and install Fabral® roofing panels for your buildings, you can avoid getting into another business—roof maintenance.

That's because Fabral panels are made of full hard 80,000 P.S.I. strength steel and are available in 36" widths. We've engineered these panels with wide flat surfaces for extra rain carrying capability and our anti-syphon side lap design makes them virtually leak proof.

Galvanized coatings on both sides give you the added edge in corrosion resistance and weather protection. Finally, each panels is specially treated with a patented finish coating to resist fading, cracking and peeling in a wide range of great looking colors.

To learn more about Fabral roofing and siding panels, give us a call. We can give you a great looking over head—and reduce your overhead at the same time!

Big Dutchman®
ROOSTER BOOSTER™

FOR SEPARATE FEEDING OF MALE BREEDERS

The benefits of separate feeding programs for male and female breeders are well documented. Allows for specific feed formulations and decreases foot and leg problems Hens show increased hatchability and have access to feed without competition from males Valuable feed savings result

Only the Big Dutchman Rooster Booster feeding system simultaneously delivers feed to each feed pan without raising and lowering lines or programming individual feed tubes

The Rooster Booster's feeder lines are "pre-charged" with feed (33 lb /ft , 36 kg/m) so that all feed pans are filled simultaneously at system start-up

The feed ration, pre-weighed into a 200 lb (65 kg) capacity feed hopper, is distributed as required with the high-speed conveyor chain When the hopper is empty a low level switch stops the feeder and the lines are pre-charged for the next feeding Most feedings are accomplished in 10 minutes or less

Only Big Dutchman's Link Chain has the speed and flexibility for pre-charging feed lines while going up and over aisles to keep ends of the house clear

Big Dutchman's rugged all-steel and light weight link chain allows running speeds of 105 ft/minute (32m/min) Feed is carried between round discs and is moved uphill, downhill, and around ball bearing corners with virtually no ingredient separation With a capacity of over 2000 lbs (650 kg) per hour feed is delivered faster than roosters can eat, keeping the chain full at all times —the key is a pre-charged feeder

Grange Testifies At Hearing

HARRISBURG — On September 22, the House Agriculture Subcommittee on Livestock, Dairy, and Poultry, Chaired by Rep. Charles W. Stenholm (D-TX), held a one day hearing on the PA Grange-initiated and National Grange-sponsored "Egg Producer's Financial Protection Act of 1988." This Bill amends the Packers and Stockyards Act of 1921, as amended, to provide financial protection to egg producers and handlers by establishing a statutory trust to assure producers and handlers of payment in case of a bankruptcy and requires prompt payment by an egg purchaser for the sale or delivery of eggs or egg products.

The bill is the result of two years of work and compromise between the Grange, the American Farm Bureau Federation, and the United Egg Producers and had the strong support of these organizations at the hearing. The opposition came from only the Southeastern Egg and Poultry Federation that represents egg producers and handlers in about 14 southeastern states.

The Grange was represented by Dolly Sterner, an egg producer from Biglerville, Pa. Her testimony, and that of other producer witnesses from the American Farm Bureau Federation, and the United Egg Producers, presented fact after fact on the financial losses that are suffered by producers at the hands of handlers, processors, and integrators.

At the conclusion of the hearing, Robert Frederick, legislative director of the National Grange, said, "It boils down to the big (1,730,000 bird producers) against the small (30,000 to 100,000) Bird producers. The big boys could care less about what is happening to the egg industry, they only care how the act affects them."

Dolly Sterner summarized the producers' position by saying that "Family egg producers need the protection this Act would provide, protecting us from the inconsiderate, unconcerned, and unscrupulous buyers."

No further action is expected this year, but the Chairman acknowledged the problem and said a solution will be found.

Gratz Fair Holds First Livestock Auction

GRATZ (Dauphin) — The Gratz Fair's first-ever market hog and lamb sale drew a nice crowd of spectators and buyers to the show ring last month.

Of course, buyers reaped the benefits of some well-developed livestock, but the real benefactors were the 4-H and FFA youth who, after spending three tiring days of showing their animals, were able to gain some profits for their work.

"That was exactly the idea behind the fair board's idea for the sale," said fair board vice president Jim Hepler. "We wanted these young folks to be rewarded and recognized for their hard work."

George Deibert Auctioneer from Klingerstown conducted the bidding as a public service for the youth and Dauphin County 4-H Extension agent Fred Rudy assisted with the sale. Free trucking of the livestock was available.

In all, 22 animals, including 13 lambs and nine hogs, were sold. Following are the champion lambs and hogs, their sellers and buyers and the prices they brought.

Grand champion hog was sold by Mark Brubaker of Halifax to Fred Kocher, representing Kocher's IGA of Elizabethville, Newport and Millersburg. The selling price was $2.31 per pound at 235 pounds for a total of $542.85.

Reserve champion hog was sold by Garvin Schaffer II of Dornsife to Kocher for $2.27 per pound or $519.83.

Grand champion lamb owned by Kyle Brown of Klingerstown was sold to Rudy Detelich, representing Lesher Meats of Elizabethville. The 102-pound lamb brought $2.20 per pound.

Reserve champion lamb was sold by Brubaker to Steve Smelter of Quaker State Farms in Klingerstown. The selling price for the 100-pound animal was $1.62 per pound.

Garvin Schaeffer II, right, sold his reserve champion hog to Fred Kocher of Kocher's IGA.

PA Producers Advised To Apply For Disaster Payments

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre) — Confusion over provisions of the Disaster Assistance Act of 1988 has left some farmers uncertain about whether to apply for payments. Advice from Penn State is, "Have your crop assessed now and apply," says Dr. George L. Greaser, research associate for farm management extension.

Since October 3 producers of agricultural crops have been able to apply for crop loss payments through their county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service offices.

"No matter what you think caused the damage -- drought, hail, excessive moisture, or related conditions, the Disaster Act of 1988 provides relief to all farmers for losses on all crops," Greaser said. Previous programs have covered only specific crops for farmers participating in a government farm program. The disaster program covers all crops -- corn, vegetables, fruits, Christmas trees and Belgium endive.

A key feature of the act is that payments are available to farmers and growers only after the crop loss has been assessed. "There can be no disaster program relief payment without proof of damage. On-site assessments are easy to arrange by contacting the county ASCS office," explained Greaser.

The Disaster Assistance program is not part of any other farm program. All growers, whether or not they participate in other government programs, are eligible to apply. The disaster program considers losses of a specific crop on a specific farm. If a farmer has two separate farms and has different levels of losses on each, the disaster program wil assess these losses as two separate cases. All crop losses greater than 35 percent per farm are considered.

Greaser says that payments under the disaster assistance program are essentially made at two levels. For documented crop losses between 35 and 75 percent, the payment will be 65 percent of the target or market price times the amount of the production loss between 35 and 75 percent. For crop losses greater than 75 percent, the payment will be 90 percent of the target or market price times the amount of production loss greater than 75 percent. Market price, set locally by ASCS, is the average of market prices over the past five years.

Producers with losses greater than 65 percent will have to purchase a minimal amount of Federal Crop Insurance, but Penn State economists advise that agricultural crop producers protect themselves with crop insurance anyway. "Crop insurance is good risk management tool, especially for those who are not able to handle the financial burden of a major crop loss," said Greaser.

One source of confusion about whether to apply for disaster payments may be the differences between that program and the emergency feed program, which is part of an existing drought-relief package. The emergency feed program applies only to specific program crops and covers losses above 40 percent.

Advanced deficiency payments under the feed emergency program are another source of confusion. Some farmers are worried that applying for disaster payments might jeopardize the deficiency payments they receive.

Producers who do elect to apply for disaster payments are limited to receiving a total of $100,000 from both disaster payments and feed emergency funds. The feed emergency program alone caps payments to individuals at $50,000. Producers should discuss their situation with the local ASCS office to make sure they are in compliance with program regulations.

"The bottom line is, have your crops assessed now and apply for disaster payments," says Greaser. "That way, you will be able to compare and assess for yourself the best decision to make, depending upon the level of crop loss.

HAS THE DROUGHT AFFECTED YOUR ENERGY SOURCE?

Avoid THE BURNED OUT COW SYNDROME

PURINA MAXI-TECH COMPLETE

Purina Maxi-Tech Complete has the highest energy level of any dairy feed we sell.

- More energy means more milk.
- Right nutrition for maintaining body condition during peak production.
- Optimum combination of nitrogen (NPN) and plant protein for meeting nutrient requirements of both the cow and rumen bacteria
- Available with many different protein levels
- Fermentable fiber provides balance between readily digestible energy and energy that's more slowly digested.
- Unique high fat formulation

PURINA MAXI-TECH 32 FF CONCENTRATE

Fermentable fiber (FF) puts more nutrition in the rumen — and in the cow

Because a much higher percentage of the fiber in Purina Maxi-Tech 32 FF is fermentable, the cow is able to convert more of her feed intake into useful nutrition. With less space in the rumen taken up by fiber with less nutritive value, a higher percentage of protein and energy (including energy from animal fat) can be utilized The result is more milk — and more income

PURINA MAXI-TECH 40 MILKING CONCENTRATE

Purina Maxi-Tech 40 Milking Concentrate contains not less than 40% crude protein and not less than 8% crude fat, plus an abundance of other essential nutrients, giving the most capable dairy concentrate Purina Mills makes And it is fully qualified to meet any dairy farm's toughest challenges
